SPECIAL ENCOURAGEMENT FOR COMMUTERS

California Highway Patrol officers Hugh M. Turner (left) and Timothy A. Miller wave rush-hour motorists through the construction work on the Richardson Bay Bridge. The experiment, in its third day this morning, apparently has psychological value. Keith E. Chapman, the patrol's information officer for Marin County, said southbound traffic was moving significantly faster due to the officers' direction, coupled with partial smoothing of the bumps on the span that had caused drivers' complaints.

83% Voter Turnout Predicted In Marin

Maze Of Candidates, State, Local Measures

With an 83 per cent turnout predicted, Marin voters tomorrow will help pick a President and wrestle with a ballot including 31 candidates, 22 state propositions and eight local measures.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in Marin and in Southern Sonoma.

Marin Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer predicted 83 per cent of the county's 126,928 registered voters will go to the polls. Voters will include many 18 to 21-year-olds casting their first ballots. Rainy weather would cut the turnout to 80 per cent, Meyer added.

A record of more than 8,000 absentee ballots have been distributed by the county elections office, twice the usual number in past elections. The increase was thought to be largely because of the many new college-age voters.

Marinites will ballot on contests in the Sixth Congressional District, Seventh Assembly District, second and fourth supervisorial districts, Marin Community College District, Marin Hospital District, Strawberry Recreation District and local measures in Terra Linda, Novato, Corte Madera and Bolinas.

Southern Sonomans will vote on races in the First Congressional District, First Senatorial District, Fifth Supervisorial District and Petaluma Hospital District board.

At least six of the 22 state propositions have aroused widespread controversy, among them those preserving the ocean coastline (20), limiting property tax rates (14), toughening controls on obscenity (18), reinstituting the death penalty (17), legalizing possession of marijuana for personal use (19), and applying provisions of the National Labor Relations Act to agricultural workers (22).

The national race sets President Richard M. Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew against Democratic nominee George S. McGovern and his running mate, Sargent Shriver.

Representing the Peace and Freedom Party for president is Benjamin Spock and his running mate Julius Hobson. American Independent Party candidates are John G. Schmitz and Thomas J. Anderson. Six minor parties qualified write-in candidates for president and vice president.

No other write-in votes can be counted under state law.

The six minor parties and their candidates for president and vice president are: Communist, Gus Hall and Jarvis Tyner; Libertarian, John Hospers and Tonie Nathan; Prohibition, E. Harold Munn Sr. and Marshall D. Uncapher; Socialist Labor, Louis Fisher and Genevieve Gunderson; Socialist Workers, Linda Genness and Andrew Pulley, and Universal, Gabriel Green and Daniel W. Fry.

In the Sixth Congressional District, encompassing Marin and part of San Francisco, incumbent Republican William S. Mailliard, 55, will face Roger Boas, 51, a San Francisco County Supervisor.

In the Seventh Assembly District, incumbent Republican William T. Bagley, 44, will face two challengers — Democrat Harry J. Moore, 41, of Novato, principal of Hill Junior High School, and Bill Mack Webber, nominee of the Peace and Freedom Party. He is a college student and lives in Petaluma.

Run-off elections for candidates in both the second and fourth supervisorial districts of Marin will climax months of heated campaigns.

In the second district, incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., 41, will face Barbara Boxer, 31, a former stockbroker. The fourth district race, in which incumbent Louis H. Baar did not seek reelection, will pit Gary T. Giacomini, 33, a San Rafael attorney, against Michael R. Peevey, 34, a research director and lobbyist for the California Labor Federation in San Francisco.

The ballot for Marin Community College District board will include 11 persons seeking the two seats left vacant by Charles W. Gray and Charles Read Best. Candidates include J. Kimo Campbell, 25, pre-law student; Gregory C. Fearon, 24, pre-law student; Janeanne B. Doar, 46, teacher; William J. Filante, 42, eye specialist and teacher; Henry L. Hicks, 50, realtor and developer; Lyman B. McBride, 62, advertising representative; Cyr N. Miller, administrator with the department of Health, Education and Welfare; Harold W. Reimer, 44, training manager; Dewey W. Roberts, 52, education projects director for the San Francisco Community College District; Gene E. Turtle, 40, county schools consultant; and Robert C. Walker, 52, former head of the food and lodging technology department at Canada College in Redwood City.

In the Marin Hospital District board race, three men will seek two spots on the board. Incumbents George E. Croke, 52, a stockbroker, and Bradford Simmons, 60, a doctor, will face challenger Martin E. Barrett, 39, an attorney.

County Measure A on the ballot proposes a regional park district to be administered by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Court Supports Capitol Protests

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court held today that a law barring large-scale demonstrations on the U. S. Capitol grounds was an unconstitutional denial of the people's right to petition Congress.

Without dissent, the Court rejected a government appeal and let stand a lower court ruling which struck down the statute.

In other major actions, the Court:

—Agreed to decide this term whether New York state aid to parochial schools for nonreligious administrative purposes is constitutional. A threejudge federal panel ruled last April that the law which would have provided $28 million a year for parochial schools violated the doctrine of separation of state and church.

—Denied an appeal to a Nortp Carolina textile dyeing firm which was ordered to pay a black worker back pay on grounds of job discrimination under an 1866 civil rights law.

—Agreed to review a lower court ruling which excluded more than 2 million blacks and Puerto Ricans in three heavily populated New York counties from protection under the federal voting rights law. The counties —New York, Bronx and Kings —had been made subject to the law by a 1970 amendment by Congress which sought to expand protection for minority voters outside the South.

—Refused to disturb a ruling upholding New York state's failure to provide for absentee voting in primary elections.

—Rejected an appeal from a lower court finding that allowed a school board in New York City to remove a book about the ghettos —"Down All These Mean Streets" by Piri Thomas — from junior high school libraries. Justice William O. Douglas filed a strong dissent.

The law strictly curbing demonstrations on the U. S. Capitol grounds first went on the books in 1882. Last June 22, a threejudge federal panel in Washington declared it unconstitutional.

The government failed to show a "sufficiently substantial" interest that would override the First Amendment right of demonstrators to petition Congress, the lower court ruled.

It had acted in a case brought by the now-defunct Jeannette Rankin Brigade, a coalition of women against the Vietnam war, which had been denied permission for a 1968 march from Union Station to the Capitol's East Front Plaza for a demonstration.

The chief of the Capitol police told the group on Jan. 2, 1968, that their scheduled march Jan. 15 would not be permitted. The women then held their demonstration at the foot of the Capitol outside its grounds.

About 5,000 women were present and a delegation of 15 was permitted to present anti-war petitions to congressional leaders.

The women filed suit in U.S. District Court here challenging the law against mass demonstrations as unconstitutional. They also questioned the authority of the police chief to set the 15-person limit on groups wishing to petition Congress.

SAN RAFAEL IN UPSET WIN OVER NOVATO

Cornerback Fred Hurst made the game-saving tackle to preserve San Rafael's 7-6 upset victory over Novato Saturday night in a Marin County Athletic League football game.

And in other games involving Marin and Southern Sonoma teams, Redwood annihilated Tamalpais, 41-0; San Marin edged Marin Catholic, 20-19; Tomales crushed Kelseyville, 42-0; Petaluma beat Santa Rosa, 27-6; and St. Vincent of Petaluma beat Upper Lake, 6-0.

College of Marin was demolished by West Valley College, 60-7.

New Storm Expected To Hit Tonight

The Bay Area's changeable autumnal weather pattern was expected to take a damp turn tonight and tomorrow. Forecasters said a new rain storm is on the way.

Marin and Southern Sonoma enjoyed a brilliantly clear day yesterday, following Saturday's pelting rains. Fog accumulated in most areas overnight and the mercury dropped from yesterday's readings in the high 60s and low 70s into the middle 30s this morning.

Novato escaped the fog, but was even colder. Official reading at the central fire station was 34 degrees, but many commuters had to scrape ice from their windshields this morning.

The new rainstorm was expected to bring slightly higher nighttime temperatures.

McGovern, Nixon Climax Campaign

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

President Nixon, quietly, and George S. McGovern, on the move, rounded out their campaigns today with major polls and several leading newspapers forecasting the chief executive will bury his Democratic opponent in a landslide tomorrow.

Nixon spent election eve at his home in San Clemente, Calif., taping a half-hour television statement, punctuated with film clips, for broadcast this evening. He will vote in California Tuesday morning then return to the White House to await the returns.

McGovern arranged to wind up his final day of campaigning at Long Beach, Calif., 60 miles from the Western White House, before returning to Sioux Falls, S.D., where he will remain to follow the returns.

The South Dakotan started his final campaign day with a walk along New York's Fifth Avenue, where he and wife Eleanor were jostled by well-wishers. He then flew to Philadelphia for a campaign stop enroute to California.

In New York, when a reporter showed him a newspaper headline reading "Nixon Will Win By Landslide," McGovern responded with a weak smile and asked: "Do you have any other good news for us?"

Election eve polls, and surveys by major newspapers, gave Nixon the biggest margin going into an election since Lyndon B. Johnson's big lead over Barry Goldwater in 1964.

A UPI survey made public during the weekend showed Nixon favored to carry 49 states with 521 electoral votes. The best estimate of UPI political reporters across the nation was that McGovern was sure only of winning the District of Columbia with its three elctoral votes.

The latest Gallup survey gave the President a 61-35 per cent edge with 3 per cent undecided and the remainder for other parties. The Harris poll: 59-35 per cent for Nixon with 6 per cent undecided.

The Washington Post and New York Times, on the basis of their own surveys, predicted a landslide. The Times suggested Nixon would carry at least 48 states.

McGovern's best hope for an upset, according to his strategists, lay in a big turnout of newly registered voters, particularly those enfranchised by the amendment giving 18-year-olds the vote.

Weathermen predicted good Election Day weather for most of the nation, with mild temperatures and rain in only about a third of the country. But no great turnout was in prospect for this election year in which voter apathy has been much in evidence.

While Nixon was the odds-on favorite to remain in the White House, there appeared little chance his coattails would carry sufficient GOP numbers to overturn Democratic control of Congress. The Republicans would have to pick up a net gain of six Senate seats and a net increase of 39 to win the House.

Nixon talked like a winner on a radio broadcast Sunday, in which he appealed to the nation to forget bitter differences that have been highlighted during the campaign and unite behind the victor.

McGovern continued to hit hard on the antiwar theme he has sounded from the outset of his try for the White House, insisting that the President was misleading the country about prospects for peace in Indochina.

Nixon's gap in the polls was second only to the 28 points by which Johnson led Goldwater on election eve eight years ago.

Gallup concluded the moves toward a Vietnam peace apparently had had no effect on the candidates' standing, but Har-

'Hijack Family,' Now In Cuba, Indicted By U.S. Grand Jury

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal grand jury indicted Charles A. Tuller, his two sons and a fourth man Monday on charges of air piracy and kidnaping for the Oct. 29 hijacking to Cuba of an Eastern Airlines plane from Houston, Tex.

Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst said a three-count indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Houston.

Named in the indictment besides Tuller, 49, were Bryce Tuller, 19, Jonathan Tuller, 18, and William Graham, 18. All four currently are in Cuba.

The Tullers and Graham also have been charged by Arlington, Va., authorities with murder, attempted murder and attempted bank robbery in connection with a holdup of a branch bank Oct. 25. A policeman and the bank manager were slain in the attempted holdup.

Maximum penalty upon conviction for air piracy could be life in prison.

The mandatory minimum sentence on conviction is 20 years in prison. For kidnaping, the maximum penalty is life in prison. It is 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for conviction of obstruction of interstate commerce by threat or force.

The first count of the indictment charged the defendants with committing air piracy at Houston by seizing Eastern Airlines flight 496. The flight originated at San Antonio and was scheduled to fly to Syracuse, N.Y., with stops in Houston, Atlanta and Philadelphia.

A passenger agent for the airlines was shot and killed and another was wounded in the seizure of the plane.

The second count charged the defendants with kidnaping the 35 passengers and seven crew members aboard the flight. The third count charged them with interfering with interstate commerce by threat of force in the seizure of the plane.

Tuller, described during the hijacking as tough talking and foulmouthed, was a $26,000-a-year Commerce Department executive until he resigned two weeks before the bank robbery "for health reasons".

He and his oldest son lived in Alexandria, Va. The younger Tuller and Graham were absent without leave from the Army. Tuller was divorced.

GI Copters Down, 2 Die; Heaviest-Yet B52 Raids

SAIGON (UPI) —Communist gunners shot down two U.S. helicopters Sunday within 14 miles of Da Nang and damaged a third helicopter trying to rescue downed crewmen, military spokesmen said today. They said two Americans were killed and three wounded in the incident.

The U.S. command reported B52 bombers carried out more strikes during the past three days than at any other 72 hour time during the entire war. Through noon today, spokesmen said, B52s made 32 strikes, exceeding the previous high of 28 strikes reported Aug. 10-13.

Elsewhere in the war, Communists stabbed closer to Saigon than anytime since May, 1968, when they battled government militiamen five miles southwest of the city. Military sources said militiamen intercepted a water-borne Communist unit at dusk Sunday and then again four hours later, captured two sampans and killed 10 Communist troops.

It was the closest Communist approach to the capital since the 1968 offensive when North Vietnamese battled allied troops in the city's suburbs. It also was the first activity southeast of the city since Communist troops began pushing into Saigon's outer defenses five weeks ago.

Other battles were reported at five other points around Saigon—17 and 35 miles northwest of the city, 16 and 35 miles north of the city and 30 miles southwest of the city.

AWAITING EVACUATION — Wounded South Vietnamese soldiers — one with a peace symbol and the word "war" penciled on his pants leg — wait for medical aid and evacuation at Chanh Tahn. South Vietnamese troops yesterday had just reopened Highway 13 leading into the town.

Hanoi: S. Vietnam Buildup Hurts Chance Of Peace

SAIGON (UPI) —Radio Hanoi said today the buildup of South Vietnam's armed forces by the United States endangers any Vietnam peace treaty because it violates the spirit of an agreement between Hanoi and Washington.

"This act of war runs counter to the spirit and contents of the complete provisions of the agreement which should have been signed by now," the official North Vietnamese radio said.

"They also threaten the breaking of the agreement."

The English-language broadcast, which was monitored in Saigon, also reported a joint meeting of two major Viet Cong political arms that called for stepped-up war in South Vietnam.

The National Liberation Front (NLF) and the Alliance of National Democratic and Peace Forces concluded that "the development of revolutionary warfare cannot be stopped," Radio Hanoi said.

The joint conference called on the United States to sign the draft peace treaty, but warned the Viet Cong were prepared to continue fighting "to complete victory" if necessary.

The Radio Hanoi commentary said that the Nov. 2 radio campaign speech by President Nixon "makes it amply clear that the U.S. government with growing obduracy is trying to delay the ending of the war and the restoration of peace in Vietnam.

"The United States is seeking to disown what it has agreed upon with the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam in the draft agreement," the commentary said.

Connally's Brother For McGovern

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — The brother of John Connally, two Nobel Prize winners and about 1,800 other economists support Sen. George McGovern because his economic policies are not radical but sensible, say some of the economists.

Paul A. Samuelson and Kenneth Arrow, the 1970 and 1972 winners of the Nobel Prize for Economics, headed the list of economists who placed the full-page advertisement in Sunday's New York Times. Golfer M. Connally, whose brother John was treasury secretary under Nixon and heads Democrats for Nixon, also signed the ad.

A total of 1,300 economists signed the advertisement. An additional 500 joined the "Economists for McGovern" later. The ad cost $10,920 and was placed in response to a full-page ad in the Times signed by 32 economists who support Nixon, Samuelson told a weekend news conference.

"We found out that the 32 economists just signed the (Nixon) ad but didn't pay for it. The Committee to Re-Elect the President paid for it. Our ad was paid for by contributions," said Samuelson.

Prof. Franco Modigliani of the Massachussettts Institute of Technology, who organized the drive, said McGovern's economic proposals "are honorable and very sensible."

"The undecided voters like McGovern on peace issues but economically they think he's a screwball. It's not a radical policy and people should not close their eyes to it. It's sensible.'

"McGovern has made economic issues more prominent in a realistic way than any presidential candidate before," said Arrow.

Samuelson said Nixon's economic program had brought about increased unemployment; led to six million man years of lost output; created a profit stagnation; left stocks below their 1966 level; and, due largely to the Vietnam War, made the balance of payments deficit a "disaster."

"We like the positive things Sen. McGovern has proposed; we dislike a lot of Nixon's policies," Samuelson said.

Pandas Attract Many Visitors

TOKYO (UPI) — Two giant Chinese panda bears attracted thousands of persons to a Tokyo zoo Sunday, but officials limited visitors to a 40-second look into their cage.

The pandas, Lan Lan and Kang Kang, arrived in Tokyo last week and were put on public view for the first time Sunday.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Frost-Carroll Wedding Planned

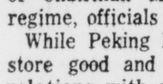
NEW YORK (UPI) — Television personality David Frost and singer Diahann Carroll yesterday announced plans to marry in London next Easter.

Diahann

The couple, whose two-year off-again on-again romance spanned two continents, made the announcement at a news conference in the lobby of the posh Plaza Hotel.

The 37-year-old singer, attired in a full length fur coat and hat, told newsmen "I'm delighted and a little shocked."

Frost said he popped the question at his home in Los Angeles last week and had given her a ring "at least 200 years old."



David

The ring, which Miss Carroll flashed at the news conference, consisted of several clusters of diamonds in an oval setting.

Asked how many carats the ring weighed, she replied, "It's as big as David's heart."

First On Base

FT. DIX, N.J. (UPI) — Dr. Benjamin Spock and Linda Jenness campaigned at Fort Dix during the weekend — apparently the first political campaign appearances allowed on a military base in the U.S.

Spock and Mrs. Jenness, presidential candidates of the People Party and Socialist Workers Party, respectively, drew a crowd of about 100 at the rally Saturday.

About 50 of the spectators were uniformed servicemen. The others were civilian supporters, bused in from New York or Philadelphia, and newsmen.

China 'Obsessed'

LONDON (UPI) — British diplomats have returned from wide-ranging talks with Chinese leaders in Peking deeply struck by the fierce anti-Soviet posture of Chairman Mao Tse-tung's regime, officials said today.

While Peking hastens to restore good and even friendly relations with most nations, hostility toward the Soviet Union remains as intense as ever, they said.

China is "obsessed" with the fear of a possible Russian attack, according to diplomatic spokesmen.

Lansky Leaves

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Reputed crime czar Meyer Lansky slipped quietly out of Israel yesterday five days before an expulsion order went into effect. There were reports today he might be flying to a new life of exile in South America or the Caribbean.

Israel ordered Lansky expelled as a threat to public safety, but he said he would come back in death.

Lansky boarded a Zurich-bound Swissair plane without fanfare last night but was refused entry to Switzerland.

Strike To End

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Spokesmen for 220,000 strikers agreed last night to end a 26-day national walkout which disrupted the economy, brought the downfall of one cabinet and confronted Marxist President Salvador Allende with the most serious challenge of his political life.

At the same time, military commanders in this capital city of three million population announced they would lift a midnight-to-6 a.m. curfew imposed Oct. 17, a week after truck drivers went on a strike that started widespread labor and economic strife.

Japanese Subdue Jet Hijacker

TOKYO (UPI) —Japanese police disguised as airport workers today overpowered and subdued a balding, 47-year-old Japanese who hijacked a domestic airliner and held 126 persons hostage for eight hours at Tokyo International Airport with a demand for $2 million ransom and a flight to Cuba.

He told police he was Tatsuji Nakaoka, 47, who left Japan in September, 1971, to reside in the United States. Nakaoka said his wife, Takeko, lives in Los Angeles.

The daylong drama, watched by millions over television, halted air traffic into the world's largest city. The hijacker seized a short range Boeing 727 and then demanded an intercontintal DC8 for the flight to Cuba. It was the transfer that led to his undoing. Police hid aboard the DC8 and subdued Nakaoka as darkness fell over the smog blanketed airport.

Police said that Nakaoka was carrying a "green card," a resident work permit issued by American authorities to foreigners living in the United States, and allowing travel in and out of the country.

At first he gave the name of "Henry J. Wong," and said he was a Chinese-American from San Francisco. A California driver's license with that name was found in his possession.

Nakaoka told police that he used the false name of "Wong" to obtain the driver's license, and in turn used the license to buy a gun in the United States to carry out the hijacking.

Police said Nakaoka told them his wife was a "citizen of a foreign country," Police conjectured she might be a Japanese-American.

Otherwise Nakaoka's background was unclear. Before the hijacking he had been staying at the Okura Hotel, one of the most expensive in Tokyo, across the street from the American embassy residence.

He carried a business card with the name "Nakaoka Associates Inc.," but there was no address on it.

Lawford Fair After 4½-Hour Operation

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Peter Lawford, who underwent 4-1-2 hours of surgery Saturday to remove a cyst on his pancreas, was reported in fair condition today at UCLA Medical Center.

A center spokesman said the 49-year-old actor was "resting and the prognosis is acceptable."

Dear Fourth District Voter,

I don't agree with Gary Giacomini on every issue.

But then you couldn't achieve a democratic balance that way.

I endorse Gary for one very important reason. His candidacy stems from genuine concern for this county, and true moral stamina.

I know that I can get a straight answer from Gary every time. I know that even though we might disagree, there is always the chance for us both to learn something. I think that's the most you can ask from any governmental representative, and something you'll never get from his opponent.

If you have a genuine concern for this county, I urge you to vote for someone that honestly shares your concerns.

I urge you to vote for Gary Giacomini.

Thank you for your time,

The Schedule Just Too Tight

By PAT PERRY

It isn't the language or the classes or the students at Redwood High School that Kristiane Steinhaus finds so different from her native Germany. It's the schedule.

"I really like the school but you don't have any free time," complained Miss Steinhaus, who is here for a year's exchange visit. "I get home at four, then I am most tired from school, down after tests. You have to study, then you have dinner, then you do homework. There's no time for letters even."

A pretty 15-year-old, Miss Steinhaus comes from Preetz near Kiel in Northern Germany, Redwood's sister school. Several exchange visits have been arranged between the schools.

Her comparison of the tough schedule here was confirmed by Linde Mohr, 16, of 47 Berens Drive, Kentfield. Miss Mohr stayed with Miss Steinhaus's family on her own exchange visit to Preezt last year. She returned in August, and still looks back fondly on her sojourn there.

"We went to school six days a week, from 8 a.m. to 12:10 p.m.," recalled Miss Mohr. "Then we'd go home, eat our big meal of the day, and do homework."

Miss Steinhaus picked up the rest of the routine: "Then everyone goes into town - mostly we meet in front of the Coop — then we sit in cafes drinking coffee. And in the evening we all meet in a little tavern. Mostly it's the place to meet friends and talk."

"It's easier, but you have to study more here," she said.

Having experienced both educational systems, Miss Mohr said she believes an American gets a better education, with superior kacilities available — "but maybe that's because we're in Marin County."

One thing that has surprised Miss Steinhaus is American interest in World War II. "They keep asking me about it and what my parents did and what do I think . . . at home nobody likes to talk about war."

Miss Mohr agreed. "It struck me right away, you could tell so much that there'd been a war . . . people maimed and crippled. But I'm a political person and I didn't avoid discussing it."

High school fashions have surprised Miss Steinhaus, too. "At first I thought some were in fancy dress for a party. At home we just wear pants and things, no long dresses. Or dresses even."

Both girls agree that their exchange visits have been valuable.

"All the feelings, ideas, emotions and ways of life teach you so much," said Miss Mohr, "and the host family gains just as much."

Red Cross Chapter Seeking Volunteers

Fogarty said envelopes can be addressed either at the chapter headquarters, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, or in the volunteer's home.

Israel Releases Stockton Youth

JERUSALEM (UPI) —Police said today they have released a Stockton, Calif., youth detained for questioning in a case involving attempts to mail letter bombs to President Nixon and two members of his cabinet.

A police spokesman said Dennis Feinstein, 22, left Sunday for the United States.

Feinstein was seized by Israeli troops along the Lebanese frontier Oct. 26 and held on suspicion of trying to cross into Lebanon and of mailing the letters.

Explosion Rocks Embassy; 3 Hurt

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) —An explosion ripped through the Chilean Embassy here today, injuring three persons and smashing all the windows in the modern structure in one of Buenos Aires' most prestigious neighborhoods.

Ambassador Ramon Huidobro Dominguez said he was "inclined to think it was a problem in the electrical system," rather than a bomb. He said the staff found no immediate evidence of a bomb. The explosion hit the building just after the opening of office hours.

Poison Food Packet Threat In Sacramento Leaves No Clues

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Authorities said Sunday they had no clues who wrote anonymous letters threatening to put deadly food packets on supermarket shelves and to kill people across the United States if the "killer" responsible for Vietnam war deaths is reelected.

Local residents have received eight letters containing packets laced with cyanide. Three of the letters were turned over to the Sacramento County sheriff's office during the weekend.

One official said the threats of post-election reprisals appeared to be the work of a "leftist nut who is doing it for publicity purposes."

The hand-written notes, which said 194 packets of poisoned dry food mixes had been placed on local supermarket shelves, threatened that innocent people would die in reprisal for "the thousands of innocent people killed in Vietnam."

Deputies searched the shelves of 13 stores in the Sacramento area, removing dry food packets they thought appeared suspicious. None contained poison.

A spokesman for the Northern California Grocers Association also said its members would check its shelves for suspicious packets. Sacramento residents were warned to shop with caution.

The poisoned packets, mailed to residents in brown business envelopes, had been slit open with a razor blade and resealed with transparent tape.

The letter-writer said similar packets containing cyanide were mailed to 64 other persons and placed on the shelves of Safeway and Albertson's supermarkets within a 10-mile radius of the state Capitol.

The packets involved were foil-type, containing such things as lemonade mixes, dry soups and onion dips.

Sheriff's deputies were flooded with calls Sunday from local residents, including several people who were handed packages containing a new gravy mix on Sacramento streets during the weekend. Detective Harley Monk said the gravy was being given away as a legitimate sales promotion "but they couldn't have picked a worse time."

YES ON PROPOSITION 19

The undersigned, all employees on programs dealing with drug abuse (including alcoholism), state their support for Proposition 19 as the first step toward the development of a rational view of drug use in our society. Our support is based on the following:

- Available medical information does not support the continuation of our present social and legal response to marijuana.
- The confusing and inaccurate legal categorizing of marijuana as a narcotic impedes the development of relevant, meaningful drug abuse education.
- In 1971, 71,000 persons, representing nearly one quarter of the total number of felony arrests in California, were arrested for marijuana. This clearly represents an inappropriate use of law enforcement personnel at a time when serious crime in California is on the increase.
- In 1968, the State of California spent an estimated $72,000,000 enforcing the marijuana laws, while other critical needs within our criminal justice system went unheeded.
- The process of arrest, labeling, and isolation of the young marijuana user serves only to hasten his progression into the illicit drug subculture. Therefore, it is imperative that the source of marijuana be separated from the marketplace of other drugs which are clearly harmful to the individual.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO FAVOR THE USE OF MARIJUANA TO SUPPORT RATIONAL SOCIAL POLICY.

pears as Measure B on the ballot.

Measures C and D to be decided by Novato voters include a proposed $500,000 bond measure to finance a swimming pool and the other would establish a personnel board and system for firemen.

On Measure E, Terra Linda residents will decide if their community should be annexed to San Rafael.

Measure F will allow residents of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District to decide the fate of a $25,000 waste disposal system designed to serve 161 homes and businesses and end the dumping of raw sewage into Bolinas Lagoon.

Corte Madera residents will vote on Measures G and H to make the position of town clerk and town treasurer appointive rather than elective.

In the Strawberry Recreation District board race, voters will seat two of three candidates. On the ballot are incumbents Manuel K. Lehua, 50, a fire boat pilot, and Patricia M. Jeremiah, 31, a housewife, and challenger Jane K. Brown, 35, a student at Dominican College.

In Southern Sonoma, the First Congressional District race pits incumbent Republican Don H. Clausen, 49, against Democrat William A. Nighswonger, 42, head of the political science department at Sonoma State College, and the Peace and Freedom Party nominee Jonathan T. Ames, 27, a self-employed music promoter.

In the First State Senatorial District, Randolph Collier, 70, will try to keep his long-held seat against Republican Henry Roger, 29, owner of a Eureka janitorial service, and the Peace and Freedom Party candidate, Toni Novak Sutley, 27, a graduate student at Sonoma State College.

In the Fifth Supervisorial District, which includes portions of Rohnert Park and Cotati as well as Sebastopol and West Sonoma, incumbent Robert Theiller will seek to retain his seat against Virginia Hechtman, a former teacher.

Southern Sonomans will pick three of seven candidates in the Petaluma Hospital District Board race. Candidates include incumbents Dr. Hamza I. Munib, 50, a surgeon, and Dr. Francis M. Crinella, 35, a psychologist, and challengers, Brand T. Johnson, 69, a retired teacher; Francis E. Burke, 50, hospital property manager; Melvin p. Hein, 64, quarry operator; Alfred W. Beatie, 68, retired teacher; and Elena Bjorkquit, 29, housewife and senior at Sonoma State College. Junia Brown's name will remain on the ballot although she has withdrawn her candidacy.

Robber Gets $187 From Young Cook

An armed robber held up the cook at the Jack-in-the-Box restaurant at 1814 Second Street, San Rafael, and escaped with $187, according to police reports.

According to police, Thomas Edward McCarter, 17, was cleaning up just outside the restaurant between 5:30 and 6 a.m. when the robber approached him from the rear with a .38-caliber revolver in his right hand. The robber forced McCarter back into the restaurant where his feet and hands were tied around a beam, he told police. He stayed there until the manager, Douglas Dean Witt arrived at 7:15 a.m. and cut him free, according to police reports.

The robber was described by McCarter as wearing black shoes, blue coveralls, brown glovs, and a green visor over his face according to police.

$4,000 Raised In Children, Widow Benefit

The chairman of a benefit barn dance held in Point Reyes Station Saturday night estimated today that more than $4,000 was raised for the widow and children of a deputy sheriff who drowned last summer in Tomales Bay.

Lt. William F. Johansen of the Marin Sheriff's Department said that about $3,500 had been raised through ticket sales and when bar proceeds are tallied, the total should rise "well over $4,000."

He estimated the crowd attending the dance in the Red Barn at 700 persons.

The money will be turned over to the widow and children of Gerald Tanner, who died in a boating accident.

Signing Of Development Pact Due

George H. Gnoss Jr., chairman of the Marin County Redevelopment Agency, told the Independent-Journal today that he probably will sign a contract with Mid-City Developers Inc. to build 444 condominiums and apartment units in Marin City despite objections of the area's project area committee.

He said the committee's objections, which he received Saturday, were not directed against the developer but against the agency's plan not to build any more low-cost housing in Marin City.

He said the committee was concerned with the city's master plan rather than with the merits of Mid-City. He said he will probably sign the contract tomorrow after the agency's attorney reviews the committee's objections.

The project area committee was given 10 days to outline its specific objections to the selection of Mid-City. That deadline expired yesterday.

Cabbie 3 Days; Shot To Death

LIVERMORE (AP) — A 30-year-old cab driver just three days on the job was shot to death on a deserted section of Interstate 580, the Alameda County Sheriff's Office said today.

A sheriff's spokesman said Leroy Moses, of Livermore, was found early today slumped over the wheel of his cab with a single bullet in the back of the head. Robbery was the apparent motive, he said.

Moses, married with three small children, went to work for the Harvey Cab Co. here three days ago, the spokesman said. A company dispatcher called officers when Moses failed to check in after picking up a fare, he said.

Action Asked On N-Plant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The People's Lobby said today it has asked the state Supreme Court to order the Public Utilities Commission to conduct safety hearings on the San Onofre nuclear power plant on the Southern California coast.

Roger Diamond, attorney for the consumer organization, said in a news release the PUC has a responsibility under state law to investigate the plant's emergency core cooling system.

ris detected "some softening of the Nixon credibility" on the Vietnam issue due to McGovern's attacks in the late stages of the campaign.

McGovern hammered at the issue again in a Sunday night television address, saying that peace was not at hand as presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger said. McGovern said peace "is not even in sight."

"For when Dr. Kissinger came out and said 'peace is at hand', he was misleading the American people," McGovern said. "He knew what he said was false. He and Mr. Nixon knew it was a deliberate deception to fool the American people for the sake of Republican votes."

McGovern said the United States was actually stepping up the war.

"We are rushing more planes to South Vietnam and are obtaining them wherever we can from other areas in the Pacific," McGovern said.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers served as the administration spokesman on the issue Sunday. He said McGovern was "irresponsible" in making his attacks. Rogers said he was "completely satisfied" the war was near an end and predicted a settlement would be achieved in a matter of "several weeks."

In his address, Nixon said the war in Vietnam was ending and a new relationship was developing with the Soviet Union and China, opening the possibility for "not just an interlude between wars but a time...when mankind can unite in a new alliance against our common enemies—poverty, misery and disease."

FFA Annual Barbecue Slated

Six Tomales High School students have qualified for special awards at the annual barbecue and "greenhand" initiation of the Tomales chapter of Future Farmers of America, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school.

They are Michele Borge, Linda Dentoni, Tina Soldate, Howard Gramlich, Margaret Leali and Karen Davis.

Twenty-two youths also are scheduled to receive bronze pins and greenhand certificates, the first of four degrees in FFA activities. They qualify being enrolled in a vocational agriculture class, being familiar with the FFA creed and having plans for a program in some phase of agriculture.

The chapter has planned a trapshoot from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday at Valley Ford with turkeys and bacon as prizes. Proceeds will go toward improving the chapter's farming program.

Tahoe Tower Plan Dropped

MINDEN, Nev. (AP) — Plans for a 17-story hotel-casino at the south end of Lake Tahoe have been dropped because of a possible conflict with the Tahoe Regional Plan.

The Park Cattle Co. had applied for a special use permit from the Douglas County commision to allow it to build the resort on property it owns at Stateline.

The application was withdrawn after a meeting of county officials, company representatives and the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency.

The main obstacle to the project would have been the regional plan limitation restricting new structures to 40 feet, or about four stories. The agency indicated it would be unlikely a variance would be granted.

Suspected Illegal Immigrant Arrested

Antonio Magana, 35, of no known address, was arrested at 10:45 p.m. yesterday at Peacock Gap Country Club, San Rafael, on suspicion of being an illegal immigrant, police reported.

Magana was arrested at the request of Immigration Officer Thomas W. Smith of San Francisco, police reported. Two unidentified companions with him had proper papers and were not held, according to police.

Tahoe Traffic Plan Unveiled

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (AP) — The Tahoe Regional Planning Agency has unveiled a proposed five-year, $890,000 program to complete planning a Lake Tahoe Basin transportation system.

Pete Hollick, deputy executive officer of the agency, said the study would include work to be done by California and Nevada state highway departments, the federal government and planning agency staff.

It is hoped the study can be started this year and completed by late 1977, Hollick added.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE HOOPER

Funeral for George E. Hooper, brother of Mrs. Lillian Thompson of Novato, was held today in San Carlos.

THOUGHTFUL PEOPLE:

Preservation of natural resources, the adoption of our fine county General Plan, open space, protection of our environment, the logical use of land — the very quality of life in Marin County — are at stake.

The name of the game is always at least a 3 to 2 vote at the Board of Supervisors. All our good work, dedication, our plans, our contributions, will be for nothing if we allow that favorable relation on the Board of Supervisors to fall.

Gary Giacomini will give us the assurance that progress will continue. His opponent will not.

To control, preserve, and plan land use for the future of all people — OR to exploit the lands for the financial gain of a few is the choice.

How much is our future worth??

I urge you to vote for Gary Giacomini for Supervisor.

Sincerely,
Harold Gregg

Walker Not Employed By College District

Robert C. Walker, candidate for the Marin Community College District board, said today that the Independent-Journal erred in identifying him as an employee of San Mateo Community College District.

Walker said he formerly was employed at Canada College in Redwood City, in the San Mateo district, but left in January 1972 and is now "on vacation" rebuilding his house in Mill Valley, which was extensively damaged by fire.

Therefore, serving on the Marin college district board would involve no conflict of interest, Walker said.

Samuel W. Elkins, personnel director of San Mateo Community College District, confirmed that Walker no longer is employed by the district. He said Walker conducted a course in hotel-motel management at Canada College, but resigned.

Gartley, Unsure On Peace, Will Visit POW Families

GREENVILLE, Maine (UPI) —Lt. Mark Gartley, a released prisoner of war, says he will go ahead with plans to visit families of POWs because he isn't sure the Vietnam war will end soon.

Concerning proposed peace agreements disclosed by the White House, Gartley said Sunday, "I haven't been used to the peace initiatives and the peace failures in the past years, so I really didn't know what to expect.

"I was very hopeful at the outset, and I'm still hopeful. I'm just a little more weary now. I'm not sitting on the edge of my chair, I'm sitting back in my chair."

"I had hoped the war would end and the men would be home very quickly so that it would make visiting families very unnecessary," said Gartley, 28, released two months ago after four years in North Vietnamese prison camps.

"However, it seems that the war is going to continue for a few weeks, or a few months, or I think the new phrase is 'in the future,'" he said, "so that I will be going across the country as plans have it now, to meet with the families."

Gartley said he would remain home to catch the opening of the southern Maine deer hunting season and to vote in his home town of Greenville Tuesday.

He wouldn't say whether his choice for president was Richard M. Nixon or George S. McGovern, but said "I will probably vote for the man I think will end the war the quickest—you'll have to wait and see who's elected."

Asked if he had been contacted by President Nixon since being released, Gartley said, "No, I didn't really expect him to."

The Navy admitted Saturday that Gartley's plane was shot down Aug. 17, 1968, by a missile fired by another U.S. pilot. The Navy said the missile accidentally hit the jet Gartley was flying during a dorgight between U.S. and North Vietnamese planes.

The Navy made the statement after the circumstances were reported in a copyrighted story in the Bangor Daily News.

Gartley will spend the next two weeks working his way down the East Coast, stopping in Boston, New York, Washington, and possibly Jacksonville, Fla., to meet privately with the families of his former prison companions.

Before his 90 days leave expires Jan. 9, Gartley expects to make "a long trip toward the West Coast," again stopping along the way to visit with the families and to lecture.

In the meantime, he is staying in close contact with the National League of Families of POW's and MIA's and the Defense Department. The league is compiling legislation for the next Congress concerning POW benefits.

He said he hasn't decided when to release details of the benefits proposals, but said the families of POW's and MIA's will be receiving draft proposals for comment "very soon."

Prisoner Is Stabbed Nine Times

Michael Lee Fay, 28, a Los Angeles narcotics dealer, was reported in fair condition today with nine stab wounds, according to Associate Warden James W. L. Park. Fay was stabbed in the kidney, intestines, chest, face, back and right thigh.

Two prison-made knives were found in the cellblock, but no suspect has been identified, Park reported. The stabbing took place at 2:30 p.m. when prisoners were free to wander at will about the north block, a "semi-honor" unit housing 291 inmates.

Fay arrived at San Quentin on May 27, 1971, after being convicted in Los Angeles County of narcotics sale, possession for sale and burglary. He is serving a term of five years to life.

Morphine Vials Reported Stolen

Campaigning can be tiring, even when you're related to the candidate. Sen. George McGovern's son-in-law, James Rowan, and 8-month-old grandson, Matthew, relaxed yesterday as McGovern, the Democratic nominee for President, spoke at a Quad Cities Airport rally at Moline, Ill.

The Good Ship Buttercup: How Navy Trains Men For Repairs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Sailor John Stevens throws open a hatch on the U. S. S. Buttercup, peers down and sees a blast of steam and water pouring into the vessel's hull.

Stevens, 19, of Springfield, Mo., makes a quick inspection and heads back to the bridge to report damage as the sound of machinegun and shell fire rip the air.

He and his shipmates go to work, and three hours later they have saved the Buttercup from sinking.

Actually, the ship would never really sink no matter how inept the Navy men were. She never even sets sail from a swimming pool where she helps the bluejackets apply damage control techniques under the most realistic circumstances possible, says Chief Petty Officer Howard Mann, 36, Townsend, Mont., a veteran of amphibious warfare in Vietnam

The 16 sailors, all from the USS Flint, wade through thigh-high water to shore up bulkheads as the ship lists slightly.

CPO Darwin Reynolds, 38, Los Banos, Calif., who "skippers" the Buttercup along with Mann, says the drill is as close to the real thing as the Navy can make it.

Reynolds should know.

He spent 48 hours in 1967 shoring up the USS Arlington when the communications ship was caught in a North Atlantic storm.

"This is the best practical experience they can have," Reynolds said.

In addition to battling the sea, the training crews on the 48-foot ship frequently have to fight flames that shoot up through a hatch in the deck.

The Buttercup sinks about three feet to one side as the fight is waged in the six-foot-deep pool at Treasure Island, in San Francisco Bay.

The Buttercup, built in the early 1950s, was one of the first vessels of its kind in the nation.

"I went through it when I was out of bootcamp in 1954," Reynolds said.

The Navy has similar training ships at some other major bases, but Reynolds said as far as he knows it is the only one in the country that actually sinks.

While Stevens and his fellow crewmen pushed shoring timbers and swung sledgehammers, men topside cut the lumber needed for the work below. Others manned pumps to suck out the water.

The drill used to be even more realistic, Reynolds said. Until recently explosives were set off to simulate the sound of closer gunfire.

However, this was stopped for fear someone sawing a board might be startled and cut himself.

"Some of those guys really used to jump," he said.

Mann said the sailors seldom panic and he's never witnessed a serious injury on the Buttercup.

"But some of those investigators, the job Stevens had, really get a shock when they first see the damage," he said.

Sea Scouts, reserves, midshipmen from the California Maritime Academy and sailors from foreign fleets have all gone through the drill.

"The best outfit I ever saw from the Coast guard," Mann said, in an unusual tribute from a Navy man.

And he and Reynolds had high praise for the young Sea Scouts, too.

Special Planner Meeting Set

The Marin County Planning Commission will hold a special session Wednesday at Point Reyes Station to review the proposed countywide general plan and its impact on West Marin.

The meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. at West Marin school, was requested by several West Marin Groups which had complained they were left out of theplanning process for the future of the area.

It also will be the planning commission's first formal hearing on the plan which calls for keeping West Marin a rural area.

Tiburon Seminar Series Continues

The Marin County Police Community Relations Department will hold another in its series of community seminars Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Tiburon Penisula Club, 1600 Mar West, Tiburon.

Topics of discussion will range from law enforcement and safety hazards on the harbor to traffic enforcement and burglary prevention.

Discussion-panel members include representatives of the Corinthian Yacht Club, the San Francisco Yacht Club, the Tiburon City Council and the Tiburon Police Department.

Wundercar.

Take the way it goes. Up to 130 mph. (Cruises at 120 all day long.) That's because its engine is built around the most efficient combustion system ever designed.

Take the way it holds the road. Like you'd hold a beautiful girl. Tight. That's because of a remarkable suspension system that features MacPherson struts up front, semi-trailing arms in back, with BMW's unique multi-jointed rear axle.

Small wonder Ken Purdy says, in Playboy Magazine, that BMW may be the best car in the world.

Frankly, our BMW engineers are auto fanatics. Their aim is to build cars they like to drive. (Can you imagine the uncommercial effrontery of that?) But then, what else would you expect from a company with the fifty-year speed and endurance traditions of Germany's famed Bavarian Motor Works?

If you have an instinct for great engineering, test-drive the new BMW Bavaria. Wundercar!

Inonu Resigns Turk Assembly

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Defections from the Republican Peoples party continued today as members of Parliament followed former President Ismet Inonu out of the party.

Inonu, 88, who has served the party since its foundation in 1923, resigned yesterday to protest a party decision to withdraw its members from the coalition government of Premier Ferit Melen.

Twenty five other Republican conservatives have resigned since.

Inonu lost the party chairmanship last spring to Bulent Ecevit, leader of a Democratic Socialist faction in the party. Inonu had been chairman since 1938.

Debye Photographs Showing At Library

An exhibition of photographs by Jan Debye of San Francisco is now on show at the Corte Madera library through the end of the month.

Most of the black and white photographs feature the California scenes in which Debye specializes, but there are six "hand" prints previously exhibited at the San Francisco Art Institute and the San Francisco Museum of Art.

Board Faces Suit Over Prop. 14 Fracas

A Fairfax resident today filed suit against the Fairfax School District board claiming it has used public funds to fight Proposition 14 on tomorrow's election ballot.

The suit by Joann R. Walla, an unsuccessful school board candidate in 1971, is being financed by the M-48, county tax limitation committee, according to publicist Jules Becker. The group backs the proposition to limit property taxes.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court asks for an order barring further use of public funds and employees for advocating, an accounting of money spent, and a ruling requiring school board members and Supt. H. Reginald Hammond to repay the outlay.

Specifically, the suit takes issue with a district newsletter dated Oct. 6 and an undated, unsigned flyer which Hammond said was financed and distributed by the district's parent-teacher associations.

He said the district newsletter reported a board vote against the proposition among other occurrences. Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino said he hadn't seen the newsletter sent to parents but added he thought that publishing a board action is legal.

On its second page, the disputed publication contained a three paragraph article under a drawing of a penguin bearing a sign: "Warning — the Watson tax amendment may be hazardous to your pocketbook."

Joe M. Stewart of Corte Madera, chairman of the pro-Proposition 14 group, said the suit will be pursued regardless of the outcome of the election. He said similar suits have been filed in Millbrae and Los Angeles.

Coverup

BANGOR, Maine (UPI) — One of the advantages of covered bridges in the 19th Century, protection from the elements, was a disadvantage in one way. During the winter season, covered bridges had to have snow carried in to snow-pave the planking to accommodate people using sleighs and sleds for winter travel.

WHEN IN DOUBT, LEAVE IT OUT!

Please read what ecologists, environmentalists, . . . pollution experts and nutritionists say about the Dangers of Artifical Fluoridation . . .

RALPH NADER, CONSUMER ADVOCATE

". . . The urgent consideration is how much fluoride people are taking into their bodies from fluoride air pollution, from soil, water, products processed in water containing fluoride . . ."

PROFESSOR BARRY COMMONER, AUTHOR OF "THE CLOSING CIRCLE" AND INTERNATIONALLY FAMED ENVIRONMENTALIST.

"It is very important to have a complete review of the total fluoride intake of the American public. We are getting fluoride from food as well as drinking water . . ."

PROFESSOR PAUL R, EHRLICH, AUTHOR OF "THE POPULATION BOMB"

"Fluoride pollution is definitely a serious problem . . . the difference between 'safe' and 'unsafe' levels of fluoride uptake is small and it is clear that some people in fluoridated communities and elsewhere are now taking more than the official 'safe' level . . ."

ADELLE DAVIS, WORLD-FAMOUS NUTRITIONIST AND POPULAR AUTHOR,

In her revised edition of "Let's Eat Right to Keep Fit," Miss Davis discusses evidence today which includes records of slightly more decay after fluoridation than before in some communities. Her conclusion: "Certainly the choice as to whether fluorine is to be included in the diet should be left to each individual and not be imposed upon him by having the entire water supply fluoridated at great cost to the taxpayer."

THE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS

an oganization comprised of 20,000 members adopted a resolution, April 12, 1958 which still remains their current position, on the use of Water Supply as a Vehicle for Drugs. The Association . . . "condemns the addition of any substance to public water supplies for the purpose of affecting the bodies or the bodily or mental function of the consumers."

HEALTH MINISTRIES IN BELGIUM, DENMARK, FRANCE, ITALY, SPAIN, SWEDEN AND WEST GERMANY HAVE BANNED OR DISCONTINUED FLUORIDATION!!

Death Penalty Measure Outcome May Stir Further U.S. Debate

By CURTIS J. SITOMER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LOS ANGELES — The outcome of a California ballot measure to restore the death penalty for certain types of crimes will almost certainly stir further national debate on the merits of capital punishment.

But many here believe that there may be another important issue at stake — involving the obligation of the U.S. legal system to respond to public opinion.

Backers of the initiative are scoring the courts for usurping legislative authority and ignoring apparent citizen sentiment favoring the death penalty. But jurists say their duty is to uphold the Constitution independent of public pressure. Some even believe it is the responsibility of the courts to mold opinion on social issues.

Last February, California's Supreme Court struck down the state's long-standing capital punishment statute — holding it was in violation of constitutional prohibitions against "cruel or unusual punishment."

And in June, the U.S. Supreme Court in a narrow 5-4 decision ruled the death penalty unlawful nationwide in "discretionary" cases.

Here the majority of the federal high tribunal stopped short of an outright ban on capital punishment. But it held that execution of prisoners is unconstitutional where state law allows judges and juries the "discretion" to impose a lesser punishment — such as life imprisonment.

So far, the U.S. court has refused to review this decision — although prodded by several states to do so. They have also turned down an appeal of the California edict which, in effect, has outlawed the death penalty for any crime here.

The initiative before California voters, if passed, would overturn the state Supreme Court ruling by reinstating a section of the penal code which mandates capital punishment for certain crimes — including the killing of a prison guard by a life-termer and treason against the state.

Further, it would empower state lawmakers to prescribe "mandatory" death sentences for other crimes, such as airplane hijacking. This type of legislation would be lawful under the June U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

Strong backing for the measure comes from Gov. Ronald Reagan and state Attorney General Evelle Younger. The latter is considered a leading Republican hopeful to succeed Reagan in 1974.

Both attack recent state and federal court decisions on the death penalty as "usurping" the function of the Legislature.

And Reagan — noting public opinion polls which indicate overwhelming citizen support for keeping the death penalty — accuses the court of setting itself up "above the people and their legislators."

In the wake of this challenge of the court's sovereignty, Donald R. Wright, Chief Justice of the California court, in an article in California Law Review, defends the judicial process.

Wright, a Reagan appointee, (in reference to his court's ban on the death penalty) holds that the court has an obligation to uphold "fundamental rights" — even if such action "runs counter to the will of the majority."

Bike Path On Agenda

The Larkspur City Council will consider progress in attempts to get a bicycle path along Magnolia Avenue at its meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Staff will report on discussions with executors of the Tiscornia Estate, owners of the land flanking both sides of Magnolia. Previous attempts to reach an agreement have been unsuccessful.

Councilmen will also hear reports from public utilities on projects under way in the city for undergrounding, and adopt a resolution formally providing interim procedures and guidelines for Environmental Impact Reports.

28 Die As Japanese Train Burns In Tunnel

TOKYO (UPI) —Hundreds of passengers were trapped in dense smoke inside an eight-mile-long tunnel in western Japan early Monday when fire in a dining car forced an express train to halt.

Police said that at least 28 persons were killed with more than 500 injured. Authorities said earlier reports that 40 persons died were incorrect.

The death toll mistake apparently was caused by confusion at the scene, an eight-mile-long tunnel near the Japan Sea coastal city of Fukui.

Some railway sources said the fire apparently started in the kitchen of the dining car while most of the estimated 700 passengers aboard the 15-car express train were dozing in their seats.

The fire gutted the dining car and filled the tunnel with black smoke.

Rescue workers, made up of local residents and Japan national railways personnel, rushed into the tunnel and brought out the dead and the injured.

Those who managed to struggle out on their own had their faces blackened by the smoke.

It was the second disaster to hit Japan within one week. Thirty-one coal miners were trapped and presumed killed Thursday in northern Japan.

'Bomb Barriers' Are Erected

BELFAST (UPI) — A maze of eight-foot-high steel barriers erected by the British army in the heart of Belfast during the past three days to protect against bomb attacks in congested areas brought mute resentment today from shoppers and commuters who were forced to thread their way through them.

Gunmen continued sniping attacks throughout the night, wounding three civilians in Roman Catholic areas of Belfast.

The steel barriers, sealing off many side streets leading into the main shopping districts, are intended to cut down the number of soldiers needed to patrol the downtown area and to keep out bombers, a spokesman said.

SENATE RACES

Both Parties Are Optimistic

By RAYMOND M. LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Republican senatorial campaign managers are displaying increased optimism about winning control of the Senate tomorrow. The Democrats appear equally confident of retaining a majority.

These campaign agents agree on six states as major Senate battlegrounds, but each side lists more states where they think they have a good chance to wrest seats from the other.

The most authoritative appraisals from Republicans and Democrats come close to converging on one point: The GOP calls for a minimum net gain of three seats. The Democrats regard three of theirs as vulnerable, but believe they have a shot at six now held by Republicans.

Of 33 seats to be filled tomorrow, the Republicans hold 19 and the Democrats 14, giving the GOP a handicap at the start. The Senate now contains 55 Democrats and 45 Republicans.

To control the Senate for the first time since 1954, the Republicans need a net gain of six—or five and the tie-breaking vote of the vice president. President Nixon's continuing high standing in the polls has increased Republican optimism about the Senate.

Published Harris polls, however, have indicated that more voters prefer Democratic than Republican candidates for Congress.

The current Democratic rating sheet lists as "safe" these seats:

John J. Sparkman, Ala.; John L. McClellan, Ark.; Walter F. Mondale, Minn.; James O Eastland, Miss.; Lee Metcalf, Mont.; Thomas J. McIntyre, N.H.; William B. Spong, Va.; Jennings Randolph, W. Va.; and Claiborne Pell, R.I.

The party also considers safe the late Allen Ellender's seat from Louisiana and the seat of B. Everett Jordan, who was defeated in the Democratic primary in North Carolina.

The Democratic rundown lists their seats in Georgia, Oklahoma and New Mexico as vulnerable. But they claim a chance at winning Republican seats in Kentucky, South Dakota, Delaware, Texas, Idaho, Iowa and Michigan. GOP incumbents running in those states are Sens. Caleb Boggs, Del.; John Tower, Texas; Jack Miller, Iowa, and Robert P. Griffin, Mich.

Former Gov. Louie B. Nunn, a Republican, faces State Sen. Walter Huddleston in Kentucky, and Democratic Rep. James Abourezk is opposed by Robert W. Hirsch, in South Dakota.

The Republican assessment agrees that the GOP could lose Delaware but claims an edge for their candidates in South Dakota, Kentucky, Michigan, Idaho, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Oklahoma and Texas.

Listed as close but possible Republican pickups of Democratic seats are races in North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Virginia. Montana and New Hampshire are viewed as more remote possibilities.

Of all the contests, the Nixon coattails are considered of most benefit to Republican nominees running in Kentucky, Oklahoma, Rhode Island and southern states.

Alabama matches Sparkman against former Postmaster General Winton M. Blount; Georgia puts Republican Rep. Fletcher Thompson against state legislator Sam Nunn; North Carolina has Democratic Rep. Nick Galifianakis against broadcast commentator Jesse A. Helms. John Chafee, a former governor and more recently secretary of the Navy, is challenging Pell in Rhode Island.

Papers Are Filed For Separation

The wife of the owner of Tiburon Tommie's filed in Marin Superior Court Friday for a legal separation from her husband on grounds of irreconcilable differences.

They married Feb. 2, 1964, in Tiburon and separate July 26.

According to court documents, Cox owns an interest in the Ebbetts Pass Inn in Arnold, Calaveras County, as well as the restaurant at 41 Marin Street, Tiburon.

Different View On Government Studies

AUSTIN (AP) — Thirty-one students from the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs are getting a different perspective on their government studies this summer — they're serving as interns in government offices throughout Texas and across the country.

Summer internships are required between first and second-year studies for every student at the LBJ School, a graduate program of the University of Texas at Austin.

Funds For General Plan Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. at the Marin Civic Center, will consider a request for $10,000 to study means of implementing the proposed countywide general plan.

The funds, requested by the planning department, would be used as the local share in seeking $20,000 in federal funds for the project.

The study would concentrate on the proposed county review agency which would have final say over city and county planning matters of countywide importance.

As proposed, the review agency would be made up of city and county officials under the City County Planning Council of Marin.

County Administrator John F. Barrows has recommended against the funding and suggested the planning staff do the study through its own staff and resources.

The supervisors' agenda also includes:

TRANSIT — Meeting as the Marin County Transit District board at 8:30 a.m. to consider an applicaltin for a three-year, $1,350,000 federal grant to finance local bus operations by Marin Transit System. The grant would require about $400,000 in district funds.

PLANNING — A report from the planning department on the status of local community plans. The planning commission last week gave the go-ahead to begin new master plans for the Tamalpais Valley and Strawberry areas.

LIBRARY — A recommendation from County Administrator John F. Barrows that the board authorize night and weekend use of the law library in the Hall of Justice. The library has been closed on weekends and evenings since the October 1970 courtroom bombing.

Vote-Gathering Machinery For Press Began In 1963

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Most Americans probably are not aware of it, but the machinery to be used in gathering and tabulating the 80 million or more votes to be cast in the general election Tuesday has been operating continuously since 1963.

Nine years ago the two major news gathering services in the country —United Press International and Associated Press — along with the three radio-tv networks —National Broadcasting Co. (NBC), Columbia Broadcasting System (CBS) and American Broadcasting Co. (ABC) —established the News Election Service (NES).

Previously the five agencies gathered returns separately and supplied them to their subscribers and affiliates. From a statistical standpoint, it was a duplication of effort five times over.

To offset this duplication, the five pooled their efforts and established NES, which gathers raw vote totals in each state, and transmits them through regional centers into a central gathering point in New York City.

A full-time staff of 16 persons in New York works 12 months a year planning for election coverage of the off-year congressional elections as well as the presidential balloting.

During the presidential election years, the staff is increased. This year an NES manager for each of the 50 states was employed who plans for and directs the tabulation in his area.

This year, also, NES will have more than 130,000 special precinct reporters who will phone the results of the balloting at their assigned area direct to state or regional NES gathering points for relay to New York City.

In the six regional centers the votes are put into a computer and then relayed by leased telephone wires to another computer in New York which provides national totals which are then delivered to the five member organizations.

yes 19

Prohibition didn't come to an end in 1933 because alcohol was found harmless. Very simply, the law turned out to be more damaging than the use of the drug alcohol. Right now that is where we are with marijuana and it is time we changed the law.

DAVID L. HICKS
Gains eagle rank. . .

ROBERT TYSINGER
. . .at court of honor

Two Novato Youths Awarded Eagle Rank

Two 16-year-old Novato youths were awarded the Eagle rank at a court of honor conducted by Boy Scout Troop 73 at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church last night.

Honored were David L. Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Hicks of 54 Drakewood Lane, and Robert Tysinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Tysinger, 1273 Cambridge Street.

Hicks, a junior at Novato High School, has been in scouting for six years, has earned the God and Country award and is a member of the Order of the Arrow.

He is a member of the Novato High wrestling team and of the California Scholastic Federation. He plays drums and marimba.

Tysinger, also a junior at Novato High has been in Troop 73 for five years and has accumulated 21 merit badges.

He has served as the troop's quartermaster and assistant senior patrol leader. He is now junior assistant scoutmaster. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow.

His other interests include football and camping.

Malay Population

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI) — Only 14.9 per cent of the 4,685,838 Malay population in West Malaysia live in urban areas, according to the 1970 census.

Child-Molesting Suspect Booked

A 56-year-old Larkspur man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of molesting two 9-year-old girls, San Rafael police reported.

Elmer Stephen Wild of 24 Orange Avenue, Larkspur, was released on $25,000 bail to appear Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

The two girls were said to have been molested at the Ideal Motor Service at 38 Woodland Avenue, where Wild's car was being repaired, police reported. The girls did not tell their parents immediately and Larkspur police later arrested Wild at the request of San Rafael police, according to reports.

Tenth Shot Kills Steer

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —It took law enforcement officers more than an hour and 10 gunshots to kill a rampaging steer that injured one person slightly in the north area of the state capitol during the weekend.

After failing to hit the animal with a tranqulizer dart, sheriff's deputy Win Erickson fired six rounds from his .357 magnum service weapon without success.

Then Sgt. J. Bowman fired three shots into the animal and another officer administered the 10th and fatal shot, using a 12-guage shotgun.

Education Urged For Singapore Women

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Singapore women have been urged to depart from the tradition that daughters should receive only enough education to read and write before they get married.

"It is equally, if not more important, that daughters are given an all-round education," Wawan Majid Khan, wife of Singapore's foreign minister, told a women's association of which she is president.

Ex-Hell's Angel, Wife Reportedly To Tell All

UKIAH, Calif. (UPI)—A former Hell's Angel arrested when three bodies were found on his remote farm has decided "to make a clean breast" about the renegade motorcycle gang, Mendocino Public Defender Joseph D. Allen said Sunday.

George "Baby Huey" Wether, 33, a 260-pound father, said he allowed the Hell's Angels to bury the bodies on his ranch as "part of paying off debts" to a motorcyclist he shot several years ago.

Wethern and his wife, Helena, 29, were taken into custody last week after the bodies were found. They were charged with narcotics violations.

Allen said that Wethern and his wife decided "to make a clean breast of everything" after accepting an immunity from prosecution promise from the district attorney's office.

Meanwhile, in nearby Sonoma County authorities said they searched for seven hours in the El Verano area but failed to turn up any more bodies.

The search was started after it was disclosed that at least six Hell's Angels or former members of the club have disappeared recently. Investigators said they would resume the search when they receive "better site information." District Attorney Duncan James said the discovery of the three bodies was "the beginning of the end" for the Angels whose gang was formed 25 years ago and who became involved with drugs and stolen property.

Four Angels have been arrested on charges of murder or accessory to murder. The charges were filed after the bodies of two men and a woman were found on the 150-acre ranch. The two men had been shot and the woman died from a drug overdose.

Wethern said he and his wife along with their two children moved here three years ago from Oakland. He said he was a member of the club for 10 years.

Wethern said he agreed to talk about the Angels after prosecutors promised to provide his family with protection against reprisals. He added he had tried to "start a new life" on the ranch.

The district attorney said Wethern, while under the influence of drugs several years ago, shot and wounded William "Zorro" Mitten, one of the four suspects now in custody at Martinez.

As a result, Allen said, "it became within the gang George's responsibility to make this up" to Mitten and the other Angels, including paying Mitten's hospital bills and other expenses.

"Part of paying off those debts caused the three bodies to come" to Wethern's ranch in which Mitten was once a partner, Allen said.

"Debts to the Angels last forever," he said. "They are never paid in full."

Offcourse Plane Crashes, Killing 3

SOFIA (UPI) — A Bulgarian Balkan Airlines airliner was flying about 100 miles offcourse when it crashed into a foggy mountain peak Saturday and killed all 34 persons aboard, aviation sources said today.

The plane descended to land, but for "unknown reasons . . . continued with its flight in a southwestern direction, went into thick fog and disappeared," the Bulgarian news agency BTA said yesterday.

Policemen Cancel 'Blue Flu' Plan

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two Chicago policemen's organizations have canceled plans for a "blue flu" protest intended to disrupt election day proceedings here Tuesday.

The decision to cancel came Sunday following a 2 1-2 hour meeting of leaders of the Confederation of Police and the Chicago Patrolmen's Assn. The two groups represent more than half of Chicago's police force.

The intent of the action was to emphasize the demand that the Chicago Police Department recognize the COP and CPA organizations as bargaining agents and negotiate a contract for Chicago police.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Many Suffer Ragweed Syndrome After The Hay Fever Season

Many ragweed sufferers do more wheezing and sneezing after the hay fever season than they do in August and September. This manifestation occurs despite the fact that there is very little ragweed pollen in the air. It is known as the post-ragweed syndrome, according to Dr. Donald L. Unger, Chicago allergist.

To appreciate what brings on this condition, one must understand the nature of hay fever and asthma. In the Midwest, for example, ragweed pollinates in mid-August and the air pollution which follows is a gradual but uphill process. At first, the potential victim can tolerate a fair dosage of airborne irritants before symptoms develop. After this stage is reached, he is in a highly sensitive allergic state and one-fifth of the original dose induces distress.

WE MIGHT ALSO refer to this as the saturation stage and, at this point, almost anything, such as other pollens or dusts, brings on symptoms. This explains why wheezing and sneezing persist even though the concentration of ragweed pollen in the air becomes less and less. The new offenders (alternaria) by themselves may not be capable of triggering symptoms, but when added to other airborne irritants are sufficient to prolong the allergic response.

In addition to dust, alternaria include sinus infections which are a complication of the original attacks of hay fever. Dust enters the picture because heating units turned on in late September blow out all of the dust which settled in the ducts during the last six months. According to Unger, air pollution is twice as great in October as in August, and 54 per cent higher in September.

OTHER ALTERNARIA are the molds on dead leaves which get into the air when the leaves fall. The smoke of burning leaves also is part of the picture. And to this we can add cat and dog dander.

In the fall, if it is hot one day and cold the next. These temperature changes irritate asthma and precipitate respiratory infections.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

RETARDED CHILD

A reader writes: We are caring for our mentally retarded child at home. But no matter what we do, the neighbors criticize us. Is it better to keep her at home or put her in an institution?

REPLY

This depends upon how retarded she is, as control becomes more difficult with time. In an institution, the youngster would live with others equally defective and could compete on an even footing with her playmates. However, home care offers other advantages, especially when there are no brothers and sisters. I assume you have consulted your physician or clinic for advice on the treatment and handling of retarded children. Meanwhile, treat the neighbors' gossip like a skunk at a picnic.

COLD FEET

REPLY

Not as a rule. Coldness of the feet comes from poor arterial circulation; varicosities interfere with the return flow of blood to the heart via the veins. Our leaflet on varicose veins can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

Peritonitis

E. A. P. writes: How does peritonitis occur?

REPLY

The peritoneum is the inner lining of the abdominal cavity. Inflammation (peritonitis) occurs when microorganisms seep through from an infected organ, such as the appendix or gallbladder. Chemical peritonitis develops when a peptic ulcer ruptures and acid from the stomach escapes into the abdominal cavity.

Relaxed Bladder

Mrs. P. T. R. writes: Can a relaxed bladder be tightened?

REPLY

Yes — by surgery. I assume you refer to the trouble many women have following the birth of several children.

Brain Wave Changes

REPLY

Floating Dock Permit Sought

Western Real Estate Development Corp. of Novato has applied for permission from the Army Corps of Engineers to build a floating dock on Corte Madera Creek at Larkspur.

Written objections must be submitted to the Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, before Dec. 3.

Analysis On Budget Will Be Presented

The Dixie School District board will receive a four-year budget analysis at its meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the administration office.

The analysis will show changes in spending over the past four years and project trends for the future. If Proposition 14, the Watson tax shift initiative, is approved in tomorrow's election, the board also will discuss possible budget reductions for the future.

Showdown Seen In Indian Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 500 determined American Indians loudly rejected the government's final offer to voluntarily vacate the Bureau of Indian Affairs building early today and requested President Nixon to intervene in the five-day dispute.

The Indians, who have occupied the building four blocks from the White House since Thursday, were given an ultimatum by the Interior Department to leave by 8:00 a.m. EST, or risk violation of a federal court order.

When the deadline for vacating the building passed with no move by the Indians to comply, an Interior Department spokesman announced that the administration would ask U.S. District Judge John Pratt to find the protesters in contempt of his previous order to get out of the building.

The Indians, who earlier had torn down barricades, hastily re-fortified the building with furniture, business machines, desks, and display cases following their overwhelming decision to ignore the government settlement proposal.

The Indians sent a telegram to Nixon in San Clemente, Calif., requesting that he fly back to meet with their leaders today. They also urged Nixon to appoint a special 12-member commission, comprised of seven government appointed members and five Indians, to negotiate a settlement.

The government proposal which contained the eviction notice also offered the Indians the use of the BIA auditorium during "reasonable hours" and granted a number of Indian demands for cooking and shower facilities.

The government added that if the Indians complied with their offer, a meeting would be arranged with Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton sometime this week.

At a 1:00 a.m. gathering in the BIA auditorium, the rank-and-file Indians roundly rejected Interior's proposal on a voice vote. Shortly before the vote, Indian leader Dennis Banks, national field director of the American Indian movement, said "in the next 24 hours we are faced with a situation that is going to develop into a battle with the government and the people here.

"We have boxed ourselves in," he added, "and so has the government."

The Indians immediately began preparing for battle. Organizers shouted orders to sentries and foot soldiers, armed with clubs and makeshift tomahawks and young men and women began piling furniture in front of doors. Teams of war-painted braves were dispatched to watch the back exits. Women and children boarded buses to places of safety, such as the YMCA building several blocks away.

The Indians took over the building on Thursday after their demands for adequate housing and food went unheeded. They came for a week-long protest called the "Trail of Broken Treaties" demanding 20 reforms of the government's treatment of their people.

A confrontation with police was averted Friday night when Judge Pratt refused to find the Indians in contempt of his order to move and told the government to begin negotiations with them. The Indians were allowed to remain in the building Saturday and Sunday, as long as the talks continued.

Late Sunday evening, the Indians announced they would meet with White House aides John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's domestic adviser, and Leonard Garment, chief of minorities. Interior officials promptly denied the announcement and countered with its ultimatum.

Earlier Sunday, the Indians claimed a victory when a U.S. Court of Appeals panel overturned a lower court ruling prohibiting the use of Arlington National Cemetery for memorial services for Indian war heroes Ira Hayes and John Rice. They planned to send a contingent of 50 persons for the services at noon, today.

More Nixon Names Released

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's re-election campaign committee, in compliance with a consent order signed by a federal judge, has released the names of 1,284 small contributors who donated $488,000 during a 15-month period ending March 9.

The list of contributors — ranging from actor John Wayne to Roy L. Ash, co-founder of Litton Industries — accounted for about five per cent of the $10.1 million which the Nixon campaign listed as "cash on hand" when a new campaign disclosure law took effect April 7.

The Nixon organization had previously identified 283 major contributors of more than $1,000 each which accounted for another $4.9 million.

McGovern Forces Link Upset To First-Time Voter Turnout

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. George S. McGovern must capture a lion's share of the ballots cast by first-time voters and hope for a light overall turnout if he is to have any chance of pulling off a stunning upset in Tuesday's presidential election, according to Democratic strategists.

McGovern headquarters estimated that 11.6 million persons have been added to the voter rolls since spring and fully expect to gain support from a vast majority of the newly registered voters. They also predict that long-time Democrats who are disenchanged with McGovern are more likely to stay away from the voting booths.

Mrs. Anne Wexler, who headed the McGovern registration drive, said the results of a $1 million campaign to enroll new voters was "spectacular." She added, however, that the Democrats spent only a fifth of what they originally had planned for the project.

David Rosenbloom, aide to Mrs. Wexler, said a substantial majority of new voters registered Democratic "and they wouldn't register Democratic unless they intended to vote Democratic."

The Republicans have also toiled hard to register new voters, working the suburbs just as diligently as the Democrats combed the ghettos and campuses.

President Nixon gained 1.75 million potential new voters during the drive, a GOP official estimated.

Rosenbloom said new registrants increased the electorate by 1.4 million in Texas and New York, 800,000 in California, 600,000 in Ohio, 450,000 in Pennsylvania and Illinois and 250,000 in Washington state.

Despite the heavy registrations, most impartial observers think the turnout will be lighter than normal. It has declined in every presidential election since 1960.

Lucy Wilson Benson, President of the League of Women Voters, said the turnout may fall below 60 per cent for the first time since 1948, when it was 51.3 per cent of the voting age population.

Many professional pollsters attribute the voter disinterest in a lack of enthssiasm for either Nixon or McGovern.

Javits Charged On Two Traffic Counts

NEW YORK (UPI) —Sen. Jacob Javits, 68, was charged Sunday with driving an unregistered and uninspected vehicle on a New York expressway, police reported.

Police said the Republican senator was stopped on the Major Deegan Expressway when a patrolman noticed an expired inspection sticker on his blue mustang. Javits was given two traffic tickets and allowed to continue, police said.

Overcrowded Bus Crashes, 25 Die

SEOUL (UPI) —A bus authorities said was carrying nearly twice as many passengers as allowed by law crashed into a river bed in a suburb of Seoul early today, claiming a heavy toll of lives.

Police said at least 25 passengers were killed and another 80 injured, many of them seriously.

Justice Dept. Favoritism Charged By N.Y. Paper

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) —A copyrighted story in Sunday editions of Newsday, Long Island's afternoon newspaper, accused the Justice Department of favoritism in prosecution against several prominent southern Democrats.

The paper said sources inside the Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Service indicated that certain Southern Democrats "have been singled out for 'special handling,'" in recent criminal actions.

Former Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen, who was named in the article branded it a "smear."

The newspaper said the Justice Department refused three times a U.S. attorney's request to present a draft of a criminal indictment to a grand jury charging McKeithen with conspiring to direct kickbacks from commissions on state insurance contracts.

"The intent of this New York smear was obviously to hurt President Nixon in the East and me here," McKeithen said in New Orleans. He is an independent candidate for the U. S. Senate.

"I am not at all surprised at this last minute desperation smear attempt by a New York newspaper...they don't want me in Washington, for good reason," he said. "I know that the White House, Gov. George Wallace and Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), all also smeared, will join me in branding it for the lie which it is."

Newsday also charged that the Justice Department:

—Dropped charges against Maj. Gen. G. Reid Doster, Alabama Air National Guard commander, at the request of Gov. George Wallace and Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss. He had been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of demanding political contributions from subordinate officers, the newspaper said.

—"Blunted" an investigation by the Internal Revenue Service into charges of corruption in the administration and campaign organizations of Wallace, and the governor's brother, Gerald O. Wallace.

"The friendly relationship between the Justice Department and Southern Democrats," the newspaper said "was demonstrated on Oct. 4 when the head of the Justice Department, Attorney General Kleindienst, traveled to Mississippi to endorse Eastland's candidacy for re-election."

Letter Bomb Blast Injures Worker

NEW DELHI (UPI) —A mail sorter in a Bombay post office was seriously injured today when a letter bomb exploded in his hands, according to the Press Trust of India. Police said R.K. Sawant was sorting mail when a heavy pink envelope exploded as he examined it.

Sawant was admitted to a hospital where his condition was reported to be serious. PTI said the letter, reported to have been sent by the "Jewish Religious Union, Sussex Road" in central Bombay, was addressed to "Young Canadian Judas, Montreal, Canada."

Ex-Gambling Czar Booked —Bets Network Charged

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Harry Gross, an ex-convict and former New York gambling czar of the late 1940s was out on $25,000 bond Sunday following his arrest as mastermind of a $10 million-a-year sports bookie network throughout Southern California.

Gross, 57, and Charles Free, 40, were at Gross' Long Beach apartment when sheriff's detectives armed with arrest warrants took them into custody.

Last week six others were arrested and an extensive array of gambling equipment seized during raids here and in Riverside by the FBI and other law enforcement agencies.

Sheriff's detectives said the raids were the result of eight months investigation, but arrests came only after a young Riverside County deputy managed to penetrate the elaborate bookmaking setup as an undercover agent.

Gross reached the top of New York's gambling underworld during the post-war period and, upon his arrest in 1950, disclosed a $1 million payoff network that reached high into New York police echelons. Raids by Long Beach police shut down several bookie phone "spots" —locations where bets are taken by telephone —and bookmaking records seized indicated the gambling network was taking in more than $200,000 weekly, police officials here said.

"Our (investigating) officers took over the phones at one "spot" and received about $1,400 in bets in less than 45 minutes," said detective Ray Henry.

"We even had to hang up on one guy who wanted to bet $500 on a college football game."

He said the bookie investigation didn't gather steam "until we managed to get one of our people inside."

In addition to race and sports betting, Henry said, authorities also are looking into Gross' suspected involvement in a multimillion dollar land deal in the Palm Springs area.

"The entire case will probably be turned over to a federal grand jury," the Long Beach officer said.

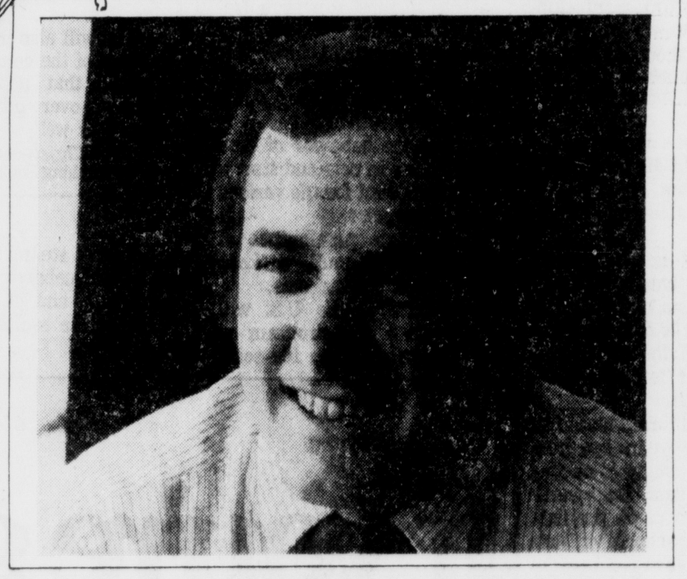
THANKYOU



In the past year and a half of campaigning, I have been able to meet most of you - at our community dialogues (which I will continue as long as I'm in office), at coffees, at candidates nights, and at your home through door knocking. I believe our contact has been good and positive. Because of you we have been able to get our message across - develop a 12 page platform, area letters, brochure and booklet - without tearing down the other person running. I am grateful to you for this because I believe in positive politics that is human and decent.

So many of you have helped, I am unable to list every one. I want to specially thank my campaign staff; the 160 precinct walkers; the 210 people who hand addressed, stuffed and stamped our mailers; the 430 financial contributors and the 2,470 of you who authorized me to use your names publicly.

I also wish to thank the newspapers of Marin for their unanimous endorsements; the I.J., the Pacific Sun, the San Rafael Pointer and the Pt. Reyes Light.

My thanks to the following community leaders who have helped so much.

Win, lose or draw, this campaign has been rewarding because it has shown me that there is still hope. People are willing to overlook differences of opinion and get together.

I invite all of you to our headquarters November 7, P.M., to celebrate our great effort.

GOOD NEWS — This purpoise seems to be smiling at news that the United States is launching a bold new program aimed at saving whales, porpoises, North Pacific fur seals and other sea mammals which may be threatened by extinction. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

U.S. Begins Mammal Aid Program

By JOHN BUNKER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LOS ANGELES — The U.S. is launching a bold program aimed at saving whales, the highly intelligent porpoise, the North Pacific fur seal, and other ocean mammals which are or may be threatened with extinction by overfishing and commercial exploitation.

Based on the newly enacted Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972, the program can be made legally binding only on American ships and American citizens. Because the oceans are worldwide and this country cannot legislate the action of other nations, efforts will be made to extend the American conservation policy through international fishery commissions and existing conesrvation treaties, plus promotion of new conservation agreements.

The U.S. will try to convince other nations that conservation of ocean mammals will serve world interests better than wanton destruction.

Efforts have just been launched, for instance, to beef up the International Whaling Commission, which has been largely ineffective in preventing the destruction of these great mammals.

The American program is placing special emphasis on eliminating the shocking mortality of porpoise, which accompanies fishing operations for yellowfin tuna, most popular species for American and European consumption.

More than 200,000 porpoises, according to the Department of Commerce, were killed during commercial fishing operations in 1971 by American vessels alone.

The new conservation program was detailed at a recent press conference at Marineland here by Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson and ' Dr. Robert M. White, head of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA).

The Marineland setting was especially appropriate, for it has one of the world's foremost porpoise exhibitions, dramatic evidence of the almost human-like intelligence of these sea creatures and their amazing ability to learn.

"When one porpoise dies in a tuna net," said Peterson, "that is one death too many." He said it is "absolutely essential" to protect "this magnificent animal" as well as other endangered species.

The 1971 porpoise mortality was a substantial reduction from 1970, when an estimated 315,000 porpoises were killed in the processing of fishing for yellowfin. The reduction was accomplished by more general use of a new type net developed by Capt. Harold Medina, a San Diego fisherman. The net is designed to enable more fish to escape.

Helping, too, is a new technique called "backing down," whereby the tuna boat backs up when the seine is drawn, allowing the rim of the net to sink somewhat and let some porpoise jump free.

Since the California tuna fleet converted some years ago from pole and bait fishing to seining for yellowfin tuna, the vessels use porpoise to catch the fish, because large schools of tuna swim underneath schools of porpoise. Seiners employ high-speed motorboats to herd porpoises into the nets, so the tuna will follow. The porpoises become snagged in the netting or are overwhelmed by the mass of tuna, cannot breathe, and quickly die.

A special investigating committee appointed by NOAA concluded after seagoing observations that an average of some 60 animals are killed in each set of the seine. Captains say as many as 200 may be killed at one time.

Peterson warned that a number of extreme proposals made by conservationists to stop this wholesale killing, such as a national boycott of tuna, would only swing the fishery to foreign fleets, which are not concerned about conservation. The result would be a disaster for the porpoise.

The Ocean Mammal Protection Act provides for a two-year moratorium on the taking of porpoises gy tuna boats, during which time they will have to develop methods whereby the porpoise kill is eliminated.

Peterson said the Commerce Department, through NOAA, will push this program on behalf of the beleagured porpoise:

—Urge all tuna seiners to use the Medina net.

—Teach fishermen, through a governmental-industry effort, how to use the backing down technique effectively.

—Study the behavior of tuna and porpoise in nets and start a population count for the various types of porpoise.

—Investigate possibilities of using sound stimuli to keep porpoise out of tuna nets.

Peterson said the U.S. will soon begin a new program on killing North Pacific fur seals in the Pribilof Islands of the Bering Sea. Starting with the next harvest, all killing of seals will be stopped on one island; permitted on another. It is hoped this will give some indication of whether the numbers can be increased with a smaller annual harvest.

To beef up the International Whaling Commission, the U.S. will ask member nations to approve a full-time secretariat with a sufficient budget for research and effective supervision of the whale kill, now done mostly by Russian and Japanese vessels.

The U.S. will also press for a broadening of the commission's charter so that it will have jurisdiction over other ocean mammals as well.

Showdown On Taxes Looms As Legislature To Reconvene

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —One way or another, a bruising new showdown on taxes seems inevitable when the "lame duck" legislature reconvenes Wednesday for a brief post-election session.

Legislative leaders of both parties caution against expecting major issues such as taxes to be resolved in the three-week session and forecast that most will be pushed into the 1973 session starting in January.

When the lawmakers recessed last August for a three-month vacation, They left behind unfinished property tax relief, school finance, no-fault car insurance and legislative reapportionment.

In addition, there are about 650 other lesser bills still pending in both houses. Leaders polled by UPI indicated those "bread and butter" measures would be cleaned up but that a tentative Dec. 1 deadline for calling it quits leaves little time to come to grips with the big issues.

The legislature's attorney has said the lawmakers must wind up the session by Dec. 1 so that the constitutionally-required veto session of five days or less 30 days later wouldn't conflict with the start of the next year's regular session Jan. 8.

Approval or defeat by the voters Tuesday of Prop. 14, the so-called tax limitation initiative, holds the key to which way the looming legislative tax battle will go.

If it is passed, Gov. Ronald Reagan and legislative leaders have warned that the lawmakers will have no choice but to enact a billion dollar plus tax increase to maintain state functions and school aid at their current levels. Chances are, however, that action on such a hike wouldn't occur until 1973.

If it is defeated, Reagan has said he will send a $1.1 billion tax cut, school finance and income tax cut package to the legislature. And, if the lawmakers fail to approve it and submit it to the voters by Jan. 31, he warned he will personally lead an initiative campaign to have it enacted at a special election.

Meantime, Democrats such as Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti and Senate leader James Mills have countered that if Reagan travels the initiative route, they'll sponsor a ballot measure of their own aimed at closing tax "loopholes." This would be placed side-by-side on the ballot with Reagan's.

Sen. Fred Marler Jr., of Redding, Senate Republican leader, observed the initiative competition might not even stop there. He noted that special interest groups might also qualify tax initiatives and foresaw a possible initiative "war."

Other issues, such as no-fault insurance and school finance seem destined to be handled in 1973. Most Republican and Democratic leaders expressed belief that the long held-over issue of legislative reapportionment would be resolved finally by the state Supreme Court.

They also seemed agreed that the legislature would take some action to come to grips with the court's recent controversial decision which held that environmental impact reports must be filed on private developments as well as public projects which pose a "significant" affect on the ecology.

The ruling was met with howls of outrage by some public officials, labor leaders and business and construction executives who voice alarm that implementing the decision without remedial legislation will shutdown construction in California. Some local governments have suspended issuance of building permits while others have adopted guidelines of their own in requiring impact reports.

Assemblyman John Stull of Leucadia; Assembly GOP caucus chairman, asserted that the need to amendment the 1970 environmental impact report law was the "most crying problem facing us."

Moretti said the Assembly probably will send Reagan two competing Senate-passed bills to create a protected "wild" rivers system for the North Coast. Reagan would have to choose which one he wanted to become law.

The long-simmering measure granting California's ratification to the federal Equal Rights Amendment for women also seems headed for passage. Mills has said he will vote to release the measure from the Senate Rules Committee and to the Senate floor where passage is all but assured.

Spain Puts Down Rioting At Prison

TARRAGONA, Spain (UPI) — Hundreds of riot police commanded by Spain's minister of the interior today quelled a mutiny in a local penitentiary and freed four prison officials including a priest whom the prisoners had taken hostage.

A spokesman for the General Administration of Prisons in Madrid said no one was injured seriously in the 15-hour mutiny. It was the first time in more than 10 years that officials reported a riot in a Spanish prison.

Klein Says Nixon To Take 45 States

BOISE (UPI) —President Nixon's communications chief predicted Sunday Nixon will carry 45 of the nation's 50 states in Tuesday's election.

Herb Klein, communications director for the executive branch, told a news conference he doesn't expect Nixon to carry all 50 states even though, he said, the President appears to be leading in the polls.

Let Fidelity Savings do the work for you. While you put your feet up and save your soles. And all the time you could be earning 25% more interest than most commercial bank savings accounts pay. Here's how Fidelity's new savings plan works. While you don't.

Now, Fidelity Savings can transfer whatever amount you say—automatically—from your bank checking account into a 5% current annual interest Fidelity Savings account. Simply stop in one of our 28 branch office locations in Northern California. Obviously, the one that's most convenient for you.

All you'll have to do is sign two short, uncomplicated forms. One gives us the say-so to withdraw the amount you've specified from your bank checking account, and the second form tells your bank we have your approval. And don't worry. It has all been set up so that your bank will co-operate. Automatically.

When you stop in, please bring along two of your pre-printed checking account deposit slips. That's so we can get the exact account and bank numbers. After that? You do nothing. We do everything. With one short visit to a Fidelity office, you've set the whole, simple, convenient, computerized system into action.

From then on, we'll notify you—again, automatically—of just how much you have in your Fidelity Savings account, and how much interest you're earning. We even give you a little sticky thing to paste in your own checkbook with the date we make the transfer. So you won't forget to indicate the amount in your balance.

Most banks, as you know, pay a flat 4% on savings accounts. At Fidelity, our current annual rate is 5%. A neat 1% that could be working for you. Instead of your bank. Doesn't that speak for itself?

Fidelity Savings. The first in Marin County to offer this new convenience. Sooner or later, some of the other savings and loans in this area may be able to offer the Transmatic System. But it's us sooner, them later. Only Fidelity Savings can do it right now. Why wait? Let us do all the work for you. While you put your feet up. After that, forget it. We'll remember.

Life Written Into 'Dead Language'

By KENNETH G. GEHRET
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CONCORD, Mass. — Latin is commonly referred to as a "dead language." Students usually view it as not only dead but also deadly.

Yet some students now are finding new stimulation in first-year Latin. The reason is "Daimon."

"Daimon" is the creation of four youths and their teacher at Middlesex School, a prep school on the edge of this historic town. They decided that Latin could be fun, that an adventure story in Latin would take the tediousness out of learning grammar and vocabulary. So they conjured up their own Greek hero in the classical tradition, Daimon by name, and wrote a book of the same title about his trials and triumphs.

The book is now being used as the text in first-year Latin at Middlesex. It has been purchased in quantity by eight other schools.

"It's the difference between reading a book you enjoy and reading short paragraphs that have no continuity," explains William L. Saltonstall Jr., one of the student-authors. "There simply isn't a beginning Latin reader that tells a story."

Saltonstall's teacher, Richard D. Case, amplified the point: "The big stumbling block in teaching Latin is that there is nothing fascinating to read before Caesar, just a dry, dull form of sentences. There's a lack of continuity and therefore of interest for the students."

That's how the idea for "Daimon" occurred to Case. He began stretching a story line in summer 1969. Then he showed it to Saltonstall and Philip Hirschler, two of his Latin students, when classes resumed in the fall. They suggested a more lively opening segment.

Soon two other students, Nicholas M. Gess and Edward G. Rogerson, joined the group, which began devoting about six hours a week in late afternoon to the project. The four students shaped the plot, episode by episode, turning each segment over to Case for comment. The teacher suggested changes and translated the text. The youths did some translating, too — though not a great deal, they admit.

For the most part the students were concerned with the action, their teacher with the grammar. It was a joint activity all the way, Case says.

By spring "Daimon" was ready for a trial run in class. There were some weak spots, so the writing group went back to work, strengthening it here and there. In all the story had gone through two complete rewrites.

It was then approved for use as a text at Middlesex School. The five authors had their work copyrighted, then began turning out copies on a mimeograph machine for use in the new fall class.

What's the story about?

"Daimon is a typical classical hero," Case explains. "He wins out through courage and cleverness. It's a tale of search and struggle as Daimon looks for the hero who, according to the oracle, will save the island of his father, the king, from the sea serpents sent by Juno. He thinks he has found his hero when Hercules joins forces with him. Later he discovers that, through his own development in the course of a series of adventures, he himself is the hero he seeks."

The story is replete with shipwreck, an earthquake, a giant octopus, magic birds, a winged horse, a battle involving 500 pirates and 200 satyrs, and the climactic struggle with the sea serpents.

The pirates, Case concedes, are not part of Greek mythology, but everything else is. The familiar figures as well as those created for the story act as classical characters should. And the story line, though original, has the structure and flavor of the time-honored myths.

"Daimon" — 41 large pages plus maps — has been developed as a year-long teaching text. That is, the grammar and vocabulary become increasingly difficult as the story unfolds, giving students a grounding of the Gallic wars, the standard second-year reading.

Present first-year Latin students at Middlesex agree with co-author Hirschler that using "Daimon" in place of the conventional grammar book makes all the difference. Hirschler had been exposed to Latin during the year prior to enrolling at Middlesex, and he wasn't looking forward to getting reacquainted with it. But Case's approach to the subject and the opportunity to work on the adventure story made the language study come alive, he comments.

"Daimon" got some unusual national publicity when Time magazine did a piece on it recently — in Latin.

The book, useful as a primary text and for review at the start of the second year, is now available in offset from Case at the school. The price is being revised. It will be pegged at something above $2, less a school discount.

Heath Orders Freeze On Wages, Prices

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Edward Heath today ordered wages and prices in Britain frozen for 90 days, with a provision for a further 60-day extension.

Heath told the House of Commons the government had no alternative but to bring in statutory measures to fight inflation after three-way talks with industrial chiefs and union leaders broke down.

The freeze comes into effect immediately and will be enforced by retroactive legislation.

He said the government will introduce legislation Tuesday providing for a freeze in wages, prices, rents and dividends, all subject to a limited number of exceptions.

The freeze will last 90 days after royal assent is given the bill.

"Disagreement has forced us to take action which I regard as less satisfactory than voluntary arrangements could have been," Heath said to cheers from members of his own Conservative Party and jeers from opposition Labor Party members.

He said he hoped the freeze would not stand in the way of resuming discussion on ways to check the rise in wages and prices, which has averaged 10 per cent in the last 12 months.

Heath reshuffled his cabinet Sunday in preparation for his promised announcement on government measures to control prices and incomes.

Heath said representatives of the Trades Union Congress (TUC) in the recent talks had said they would take the freeze program back to their general council, but would not be able to recommend its acceptance by the unions.

Imagine A Parallel: Vietnam Now And The 1781 Continental Army

By BARNEY SEIBERT.

SAIGON (UPI) —Why is President Nguyen Van Thieu so opposed to the truce agreement negotiated by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho?

Imagine that this is the summer of 1781.

George Washington's Continental Army has been battling British regulars for six years.

The British occupy vast areas of the 13 American colonies and two of the largest cities, New York and Charleston, S.C.

The Continental Army's only important victory, Saratoga, is four years in the past. British troops are sweeping through the South.

France recognized the colonies as independent Feb. 6, 1778, and sent money and war material.

As a result, the French treasury is bankrupt and there is dissension in France.

At that point, suppose King Louis XVI sends his minister to meet with a British envoy to negotiate a truce on behalf of France and the colonies with the British and the American royalists.

The agreement provides for withdrawal of the French fleet and 7,000 troops. There is no provision for withdrawal of British forces. The agreement provides for an in-place ceasefire, which will leave the British in control of uuch important harbors as New York, Charleston and Chesapeake Bay.

It creates a council of national reconciliation to conduct a referendum to decide the fate of the colonies. Membership of the council will be equally provided by the Continental Congress, the American royalists and the neutrals who remained out of the conflict and enriched themselves by selling supplies to both sides.

Not a fair parallel?

The South Vietnamese think so. They believe the Communists are on the ropes.

But back to 1781. The French did not seek a negotiated truce and that fall a British army allowed itself to be cornered and outnumbered two to one by an American and French force. The surrender at Yorktown came Oct. 19, 1781.

British troops still held New York and other areas, but in February, 1782, Britain agreed to grant independence and withdraw troops. There was no provisional coalition government.

Blood Alcohol Law Working, Officers Say

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California Highway Patrol reports that a 1969 law on bloodalcohol levels seems to be working.

Commissioner Walter Pudinski said Sunday that between 1969 and 1971 there was a "startling" 32.5 per cent decline in the number of traffic-fatality cases where investigation by the patrol showed that drinking was a factor.

In the same period, he said, there was 40.9 per cent rise in the number of arrests by highway patrolmen for drunk driving.

Pudinski said the new law, which set a blood-alcohol level of .10 s evidence that a person is under the influence, has been supplemented with an "increased enforcement emphasis" to cause an increase in arrests and a decrease in fatalities.

Johnson Says All Should Vote

"We are all equal on election day," he said. "Exercise your right to vote so we can return here to exercise our many liberties."

NO on 18

Proposition No. 18 is the most drastic censorship law ever proposed in California.

EXTREME CENSORSHIP!

NO on PROPOSITION No. 18

If it passes, Academy Award-caliber motion pictures could be banned from your neighborhood theater—popular magazines such as "Time" and "Newsweek" and "Ladies Home Journal" could be seized from news stands...best-selling books and classics—including Shakespeare—all could be seized as obscene.

Proposition 18 allows vigilante-type censorship squads to raid motion picture theaters, TV studios, art galleries, museums and seize films, books, magazines, recordings —even your daily newspaper if, in their own judgment, they consider them obscene.

AND THESE CENSORS WON'T EVEN NEED A SEARCH WARRANT!

NO on OBSCENITY!

Proposition 18 would prevent the showing to ADULTS of films such as:
"The Godfather"
"True Grit"
"Patton"
"Love Story"
"The French Connection"
And many, many more...

And Proposition 18 would prevent you from ever seeing these and other films on television in California.

That's not all!

Many popular shows produced especially for TV, such as "Marcus Welby, M.D.," would also be banned.

Unbelievable? It's True! Proposition No. 18 is raw censorship and it's on its way... NOW!

Shining The U.S. Tarnished Image

By CONNECTICUT WALKER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

VIENNA, Austria — Mostly because of the highly unpopular Vietnam war, the image of the U.S. is badly tarnished in the eyes of the younger citizens of this city, capital of a prosperous neutral nation which occupies a strategic position between East and West Europe.

To polish it up, the U.S. Information Service (USIS) sponsors one of its most active and successful projects here. It is "Amerika Haus," a community cultural center with an outdoor cafe, hamburger parlor, English-language paperback bookshop, cellar drama theater, 12,000-volume library, lecture rooms, art gallery and auditorium wired for simultaneous English-German translation.

Situated across the street from Vienna's City Hall, Amerika Haus was started in 1969, the result of cooperation between Austria and U.S. officials. It is modeled on earlier centers which operated in such university towns as Salzburg during the Allied occupation after World War II. Most smaller information centers were closed during the late 1950s and early 1960s due to budget cuts, but Vienna's Amerika Haus, with the help of local Austrian business firms, was allowed to develop into one of the most diverse, extensive, and well-equipped of such centers in Europe.

Although the purpose of the place clearly is to present the U.S. in the best possible light, its director, a career U.S. information officer named John Daly, carefully avoids propoganda and the hard sell. "Our objective here," he says, "is to host a full-fledged cultural program which will both inform and entertain Austrians, not brainwash them."

Daly's intention is to attract, interest and inform Austrians of all ages, but particularly 16- to 30-year-olds, about U.S. political, social economic and cultural life. Toward this end, Amerika Haus sponsors a student drama group, a film society, an opera workshop, lectures, discussions, concerts and an information service for Austrian officials, businessmen and journalists seeking facts about the U.S.

Most of the Amerika Haus staff are Austrians. The director of the youth drama group is a student of both medicine and law, Hans Fonoanesi. "For a long time," he says, "the U.S. didn't do enough in the way of teaching and informing. Consequently, Austrian youths have a strange opinion of the States. They get to know it only through newspaper headlines and are more prepared to criticize than to appreciate."

Asked to join the staff of Amerika Haus by Vienna's Ministry of Education, Hans has, since 1970, been directing his young student actors in such American plays as "Here We Are," by Dorothy Parker, and "JB," by Archibald MacLeish. This winter he and his troupe will perform plays by some new Austrian playwrights before university audiences in the eastern U.S.

Hans is quite satisfied with the way Amerka Haus operates, but the raven-haired assistant program manager, Greda Schmidt, says the center can do a better job of attracting students.

"We need to take more risks," she says, "to be less conservative. We need more avant-garde theater, and more mixed-media evenings where simultaneously we host lectures, films and a jazz band. These are the kinds of events which students here want. One of our tasks should be to kindle students' interest, so that they'll want to participate in our programs. It is hard, however, because the youth here are rather passive. They just want to listen to music all the time."

Not all Viennese youths are passive or friendly. When the U.S. mined Haiphong harbor five months ago, rocks were sent crashing through all the windows of Amerika Haus during the night. Authorities believe the vandalism was the work of local leftist students. But there have been no subsequent demonstrations, and today Amerika Haus is as busy as ever.

Election TV Coverage Is Refused

GENEVA (UPI) —The Soviet Union and other East European countries turned down an offer of live satellite television coverage of the American Presidential election, the European Broadcasting Union (EBU) said today.

Romania first said it might take material from Western Europe's Eurovision system but then called it off, officials said.

"Usually East Europe's Intervision system cuts in on such coverage but this time they weren't interested," they said.

Eurovision has organized six multilateral transmissions totalling nine hours for 26 West European and Mediterranean television stations.

In addition, 16 television services, all European except for Israel, requested 76 unilateral transmissions totalling eight hours.

Continuous multilateral live coverage throughout West Europe starts at 1:30 a.m. Nov. 8 and will run until at least 8 a.m., EBU said.

Proposition 22

A headline in the Saturday edition of the Independent-Journal erred when it said Cesar Chavez of the United Farm Workers Union filed suit against Proposition 20. The headline should have said the suit was filed against Proposition 22.

Bodegans Hurt As Car Crashes

Two Bodega residents were injured in a single-car accident yesterday at 2:30 a.m. on Petaluma-Valley Ford Road near Jones Road, west of Petaluma.

The driver, Arthur Casini, 16, was reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital with a broken left leg, broken right arm and multiple cuts. His passenger, Joseph Rossetti, 19, also was reported in satisfactory condition with a concussion and multiple cuts.

Mrs. Nixon Cuts Short Remarks To Calls Of 'Save Soviet Jewry'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Pat Nixon, making her final public appearance as a candidate's wife, was visibly shaken Sunday when two demonstrators suddenly jumped up to shout: "Save Soviet Jewry, no wheat for Russia."

Mrs. Nixon clutched her stomach and cut short her remarks although the protesters, a man and a woman, were hustled from the hall after a brief scuffle.

The First Lady was featured speaker at ground breaking ceremonies Sunday for the $100 million Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, planned to be the largest hospital complex west of the Mississippi.

She had just begun to tell the crowd of an estimated 3,000 persons how "happy I am to be home" when the two jumped from their seats near the front of the audience and began shouting.

Their chants were greeted by moans from the crowd and then a minor scuffle broke out before the pair were wrestled away by security agents. As the two were led away they cried out, "Never again, never never again," the slogan of the militant Jewish Defense League.

Most of the spectators seemed only mildly perturbed but Mrs. Nixon, in a pale blue suit and dark print blouse, was visibly shaken. She had been scheduled to speak for seven minutes but limited her remarks to a few sentences.

As the protesters were removed she said, "I'm sure something like this won't bother us here. We have a very happy occasion."

The two were taken into custody by police. One of them identified himself to authorities as Irv Rubin, and said he was a member of the JDL.

About 75 other assorted antiNixon, pro-McGovern demonstrators turned out. Some of them paraded behind ropes and a wall of police near the gala, circus-like tent set up for the ground breaking. Only occasionally did their chants drift within hearing distance of the podium.

Later, Mrs. Nixon accepted a Cedars-Sinai volunteer uniform and pin presented by the hospital staff. She took off her suit jacket to model the uniform for photographers and a gathering of staff nurses.

LET'S STOP KIDDING OURSELVES

John G. Schmitz
American for President

"Either we are representing the last dying gasp of American freedom, or our efforts will mark the beginning of an American renaissance"

Thomas J. Anderson
American for Vice President

THE ISSUES:

DEFENSE — Believing with George Washington that the best way to keep the peace is to be prepared for war, Congressman Schmitz maintains that America should be satisfied with nothing less than Number One position in strategic military strength and will restore that guarantee of our security.

WELFARE — Agreeing with Frederic Bastiat that government "is the great fiction by which everybody tries to live at the expense of everybody else," Congressman Schmitz has voted consistently to hold down Federal spending on programs which have made it possible for some who do not work to live better than others who do work.

TAXES — In eight years of holding elective office, first as State Senator, and then as Congressman John Schmitz has kept his promise never to vote for an overall tax increase. He renews that pledge this year.

INFLATION — Well aware that rational economists identify Federal deficit spending as the primary cause of inflation, Congressman Schmitz has consistently voted against Federal appropriations that would create deficits, and against raising the Federal debt limit. He has pointed out that no other means of inflation control will work in the long run.

FAMILY INTEGRITY — Committed to keeping government out of the nursery and the bedroom, and to protecting the integrity and privacy of the family, Congressman Schmitz was a leader in the fight against the infamous Child Development Act.

SUPREME COURT — Convinced that our Federal courts have exceeded their rightful powers in ordering forced busing of public school children for purposes of racial balance, in banning voluntary group prayer in public schools, in letting too many convicted criminals go free, and in other areas, Congressman Schmitz has introduced legislation authorized by Article III, Section 2 of the Constitution to take away the power of the Federal Courts in these areas.

LABOR — As a member of the Task Force on Labor-Management Relations, Congressman Schmitz has been in the forefront of the fight to restrict the abuse of the special powers and privileges given to labor unions in our law, and has authored two bills for this purpose.

INTERNAL SECURITY — Serving as one of the members of the House Internal Security Committee, Congressman Schmitz is vividly aware of the threat to freedom from aggressive international communism throughout the world. He fights communism in America through the work of the Committee, and is one of the principal American supporters of our loyal and staunchly anti-communist ally, the Republic of China on Taiwan.

DRUGS — As a member of the Public Health and Environment Subcommittee of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, Congressman Schmitz has co-sponsored legislation to provide increased penalties for convicted drug pushers and preventive detention rather than ordinary bail for accused pushers before trial.

You Really Aren't Taking A Chance When You Vote For HARRY MOORE for STATE ASSEMBLYMAN

MAYBE HARRY hasn't been in the Legislature before, but he wasn't a teacher before and his students learned; he wasn't a coach before and he coached well; he wasn't an administrator before and he's done well there too. A lot of people have had faith in him over the years and he's never let them down.

BECAUSE, if HARRY MOORE has a problem, he faces it straight on and solves it. In fact, he loves a challenge and right now he's ready to take on the Legislature . . .

WHY NOT LET HIM? A LOT OF YOU HAVE EXPRESSED THE SAME DESIRE IN RECENT MONTHS . . .

HARRY WILL DO THE JOB AND NOT HANG AROUND SACRAMENTO FOREVER . . . MR. BAGLEY WOULD PROBABLY LIKE A CHANGE ANYWAY BECAUSE HE SAID LAST JANUARY THAT "I'VE BEEN THERE 11 YEARS AND THAT IS ALMOST TOO LONG."

BABINE — Second Lt. Daniel A. Babine, son of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Babine of 304 Devon Drive in San Rafael, has been awarded silver wings upon graduation from U.S. Air Force navigator training at Mather Air Force Base in Sacramento.

MONTEVERDI — George J. Monteverdi of San Rafael has been elected to Fellowship in the American Academy of Pediatrics at a recent meeting of the academy's executive board in New York City.

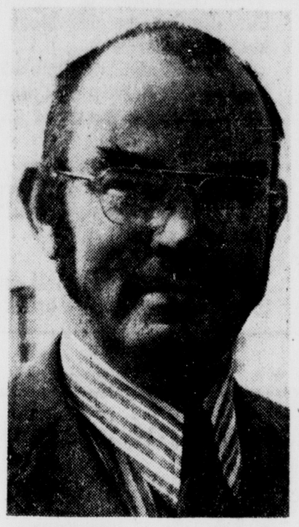
SHAW — Rachel E. Shaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Shaw of 500 Manzanita Avenue in Corte Madera, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the Women's Army Corps center, Fort McClellan, Ala.

CRONIN — Joseph Cronin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cronin of 29 Rowland Circle in San Anselmo, was recently promoted to sergeant while serving with the Army's 11th Air Defense Signal Battalion in Wurzburg, Germany.

Mrs. Schmitz Hurt As Floodlight Falls

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) —A floodlight fell Sunday on Mary Schmitz, wife of American Independent party presidential candidate John Schmitz, inflicting a six-inch gash on her head.

She was attending a tea party in her honor, the last scheduled event of her husband's campaign, when the light toppled on her in the Embassy Room of the Disneyland Hotel. She remained confcious but bled profusely. Her husband, who had not yet arrived when she was hurt, canceled his appearance at the tea party to go to her side in one ot the hotel's roomf, where she was treated by a doctor.



SPEAKER — San Quentin Prison Associate Warden James W. L. Park will be keynote speaker Saturday at a day-long conference in Alameda for Bay Area Red Cross youth. The program, "How Can We Help Cool It?" will deal with developing anti-violence programs in high schools.

Brooke Can See Why Nixon Is Criticized

BOSTON (UPI) —In the light of issues such as busing, it is understandable why blacks criticize President Nixon, Sen. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts said Sunday.

Brooke, a black and a Republican, said, "Personally, I hope the President will improve his relationship with blacks and really get on with uniting this country in his second term."

Tax On Garage Sales Possible

Garage sales — depending on their frequency and merchandise offered — may be subject to state sales tax, according to William M. Bennett of Kentfield, a member of the state Board of Equalization.

Bennett said garage sales generally fall into two classifications — goods are sold by the amateur or occasional seller or by persons who acquire merchandise specifically for sale from the home.

Bennett said persons who specifically gather merchandise for a garage sale are subject to sales tax regulations while persons merely selling off unwanted items are not.

Navy Says Sailor Cut Off Hand

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI) —A Marine Corps spokesman said today that a U.S. Navy hospital corpsman stationed on Okinawa cut off his own left hand "during a period of despondency" over personal problems."

He said hospitalman 3C Richard M. Bridges, 22, severed his hand by making several cuts with a surgical instrument, after numbing the limb with novocaine.

An Okinawan newspaper Friday carried a report that the injury had been inflicted by black servicemen as the result of a racial dispute. The Defense Department in Washington had denied this was the case.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

KEEP SUPERVISR PETER ARRIGONI WORKING FOR YOU

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

PETER ARRIGONI

I.J. BACKS ARRIGONI

Reviewing his four years in office, we find he has shown increasing understanding of county and district problems, and increasing awareness of the need for better spending control by the county.

His opponent, Barbara Boxer, opened her primary campaign with great promise. She did a personal study of the proposed budget and suggested a series of cuts. She gave evidence of considerable understanding of the county government structure, despite complete lack of experience in it. And she talked much about cutting taxes.

As the campaign has progressed, however, Mrs. Boxer's expertise has turned out to be rather shallow. And, while talking of cutting costs, she has espoused a series of proposals which would inflate county spending (one small example being the proposal to have the county underwrite a rock music hall for a private group).

We feel, therefore, that the voters of the Second District would be well advised to retain Peter Arrigoni in office - for the sake of continuity and to keep the understanding he has acquired the hard way in the past four years.

FILANTE BACKS ARRIGONI

Dr. William Filante, who finished a strong third in the June primary for the Second Supervisorial District, has publicly endorsed Peter Arrigoni for re-election. Dr. Filante's statement:

"I have met with and talked with both candidates from the Second District in the past four months. I have tried to reconcile the differences that existed in our respective positions. Peter Arrigoni has been receptive to my ideas and suggestions and has taken the initiative to settle difficult questions. His position at this time on transportation, supervisor responsibility, conservation, sprawl and total government spending levels are commendable. I have become convinced that Supervisor Arrigoni is sincere and a dedicated public servant, and urge my supporters, and others in the Second District, to join with me in re-electing Supervisor Arrigoni."

IRATE TAXPAYERS BACK ARRIGONI

The Irate Taxpayers of Marin have endorsed Peter Arrigoni for Supervisor in District Two. In making the announcement, a spokesman said, "We feel Arrigoni has done a good job of budget watching on the Board of Supervisors."

Barbara Boxer

"A CHANCE FOR EXCELLENCE"

November 6, 1972

Dear Second District Voters:

A Recent I.J. editorial (May 15, 1972) stated that Mrs. Boxer has "expertise" and "a far better understanding of the structure of county government than do most of those seeking county office for the first time." We agree.

Candidly, we believe Barbara Boxer will be a better supervisor because she is the more capable. She has the strength to lead and the time to serve.

Some people say that Mrs. Boxer's opponent "isn't bad." But on November 7 we have a chance for excellence! Join us in voting for Barbara Boxer.

Sincerely,

MARY BINGHAM - Chairman of Volunteers of Marin Red Cross

Dr. Thelander To Receive Award

By PAT BALMES

Tiburon pediatrician Dr. Hulda E. (Jo) Thelander will receive a top National Council of Camp Fire Girls award for her outstanding contribution to children and mothers, according to former national council president Mrs. Mortimer Fleishhacker of San Francisco.

She will accept the honor at the council's recognition luncheon on Sunday at the Monteleone Hotel in New Orleans, La.

Dr. Thelander received more votes than any other woman nominated nationally for the honor. Judge Myrtis McDonald, a probate and juvenile court judge from Midland, Mich., and Mrs. Sarah R. Ketron, an educator from Oak Ridge, Tenn., will also receive awards.

Dr. Thelander, 75, was on the teaching staff at Children's Hospital where she was chairman of the pediatrics department for 10 years. She pioneered studies of brain-damaged children which have led to great improvement in recognition and proper management of neurological defects in the early years.

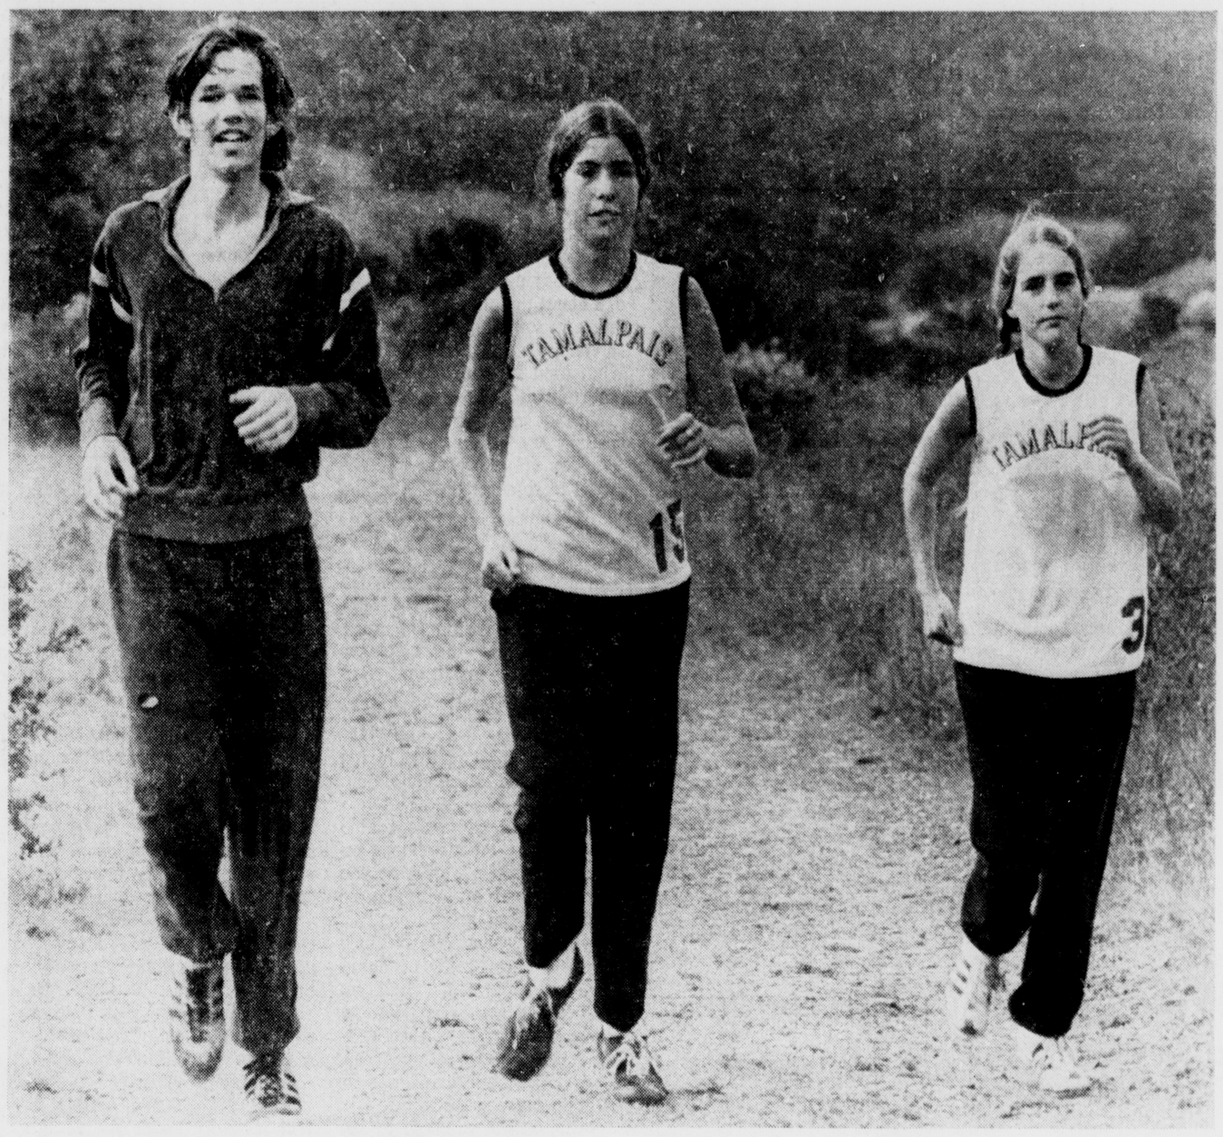
In 1952 she started the Child Development Center at Children's Hospital, funded by the Cerebral Palsy Association, and worked there until she retired in 1967. Later the March of Dimes helped finance the birth defects program. The Little Jim Club of Children's Hospital has also helped finance her work.

She started the center not only for children with certain afflictions, but, as she said, "we'll just take them all" in the diagnostic and evaluation center and nursery school to prepare them for one of the city's schools or centers.

She was in private practice in San Francisco for more than 40 years and was clinical professor of pediatrics at University of California San Francisco Medical Center, where she received in 1967 the university's highest honor for her work in the care of brain damaged children.

Coming out of retirement, the professor emeritus of U.C. went to medical school for the second time in her life "to look at medicine from a student's viewpoint." She has served on several national committees on medical education.

Dr. Thelander has been a Tiburon resident for many years.



THE CROSS country team from Tamalpais High School took a turn around the course at the entrance to Bon Tempe Saturday prior to the Marin County Athletic League cross country meet. A dozen Marin high school girls ran in the meet for the first time. Running on Tam's girls team were Kate Keyes (center) and Gail Bennett, here joined by Eric Vezie (left) in the warm-up to try out the course.

A BREAKTHROUGH

Girls In Cross Country Races

By BETTY FROST

A significant breakthrough was scored by Marin County high school girls this year when they were accepted as competitors in cross country track meets.

Saturday a dozen girls ran in the Marin County Athletic League cross country meet for the first time.

Further acceptance has been given the county's female contestants who have been invited to the North Coast meet Nov. 16 at Lafayette Lake, where they will have an exhibition.

The old adage, "behind every man there's a woman" needs revising in the case of the Tamalpais High School women runners, who have the enthusiastic support of cross country coach, Krieg Vezie.

"I believe the girls are just as much entitled to my services as a coach as the boys are," he said. "Running the cross country course is great relaxation; there is no strain, but a flowing feeling, and it builds endurance. Running is great for everyone."

THE TWO Tam girls whose training and perseverance entitled them to run in Saturday's meet are Gail Bennett, 17, a senior, and Kate Keyes, 16, a junior. Both spoke of the increasing interest in cross-country, and are proud that Redwood High School has seven girls, Novato, two, and Drake, two, running this year. They eagerly explained that they are one of three prep level cross country teams — the varsity, freshmen-sophomore boys, and their own girls league.

How did they become interested in this rugged event? "I like running," said Kate, who also runs the mile during the track season. Gail says she likes running so much she is now considering going out for track in the spring.

They wear regular track uniforms, and seem to have no concern about getting a proper fit.

"THE BOYS like helping us and don't seem to pay much attention to the fact that we are girls," they said.

Vezie, who is also assistant track coach and a special education teacher on the regular faculty at Tamalpais High School, says "I have been pushing the girls track for at least four years. Now in regular track the league has events for boys varsity, girls varsity and frsoh-soph boys.

"If we get a turnout of 80 girls next spring, with lots of eager underclass girls, we'll consider adding a girls B team, too," the coach said.

Vezie, a married man and the father of three sons, obviously comes to his view of equal opportunity for girls in track as a matter of principle.

Four years ago when girls track was first proposed to the local league, coaches gave five reasons against the idea, according to Vezie.

First, the track meets would last longer. Second, how would you distinguish between a long-haired boy and a long-haired girl? Third, there might be "hanky panky" with boys and girls on the same team. Fourth, boys don't perform well in front of girls. Fifth, what would happen if a girl ran faster than a boy?

THE TAM coach expressed disdain for all this reasoning, and is pleased that the Marin County Athletic League has now approved of joint meets.

The cross country team runs "rain or shine", with courses between one and a half and two miles long. Saturday's race was held on the road to Lagunitas Lake.

The girls talked about their training program, which includes some diet restrictions. They don't eat for two or three hours before they run. They have a high protein diet during the week and then fill up on carbohydrates the day before a meet for that extra spurt of energy. They never think of counting calories whila training, and say they "feel marvelous".

Their acceptance by fellow team members was underscored when a boy on the team yelled over to Kate and Gail at the Tam track, "Hey, are you guys running today?"

MEET GAIL PARKER

Not A Coed, Put A College President

By GAY PAULEY

But president she is —and at only 29. This in itself is remarkable around any halls of ivy. Even more remarkable, her husband, Tom, at 30, is the vice president.

The two are the new helmsmen at Bennington College, the 40-year-old progressive school set in the rolling countryside in southwest Vermont.

THE SWITCH in conventional roles not at all perturbs the Parkers, both ex-Harvard. As President Parker says, "We've had a lot of husband-wife time. We had the advantage of knowing each other for a long time..."

Somewhere along the line, husband Tom recalled the reaction of some of his masculine colleagues to the appointments.

"When I told my friends I was going to be vice president of Bennington, they said 'great'. Then I'd throw my punch line. My wife is going to be president."

Mrs. Parker said that to her working as a team, regardless of titles, seemed practical. "Together, we're good at all the things college presidents are supposed to be good at," she said. "Our skills complement one another's. I'm the academician and good at handling curricula and faculty matters. He's got the experience as an administrator...handling the financial side, fund-raising."

THERE ARE other husband-wife teams in education but so far as Mrs. Parker knows none at the Bennington level.

I talked with President Parker one sunny morning during a motor tour my husband and I were making of the East and South. Her husband was home that day with a cold.

Settling into the new job, she said, "so far has been more listening than running. I think anyway that ideas should come up, and not from the top down."

The fact that they're so young didn't perturb her either.

"We could show," she said, "that we held responsible positions elsewhere. The last thing they (trustees) needed were heavy educators."

Mrs. Parker, a slim brunette who wears her long hair center-parted without curl, is a native of Chicago where her father is associate dean of the Chicago Business School. She came East to go to Radcliffe College — Harvard from which she has her Ph.D. But don't call her "Dr. Parker."

SHE MET Tom Parker, a native of Oklahoma City, while both were Harvard undergrads. Before she became Bennington's president she was an assistant professor of American history and literature at Harvard. Her husband was a senior tutor at the university. The couple has one child, 6-year-old Julia.

Bennington is an arts-oriented school that is basically undergraduate although some masters programs are offered. Originally a girls' school it went coeducational three years ago and now has an enrollment of 585, about one third of the number male students.

Mrs. Parker's family, long feminist oriented, supported the Parker move nearly 100 per cent.

Popular For Holidays

Black backgrounds for prints will be popular for the holidays. Fashions featuring the black ground, show bold prints in blue, orange, maize, purple, green, yellow, shocking pink and, occasionally, white.

Sportswear Has A Good Fall

According to the latest figures, sportswear is enjoying its most successful fall season in years. While pants still hold the No. 1 spot, manufacturers predict the return of the skirt and the holiday cruise and resort wear suits.

Long skirts are being replaced by wide-legged pants and culottes will make a comeback in the spring. Street length skirts and blazer jackets will continue to be popular and shirt jackets and sweaters have reached an all-time high in popularity.

Most designers are predicting an upswing in seersucker, flannel and gabardine fabrics, according to Women's Wear Daily.

ON THE AGENDA

19th Annual Holly Fair To Open Friday For Two Days

The 19th annual Holly Fair will be presented by the San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church on Friday and Saturday at the church.

Fair hours will be 4 to 10 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, with dinner served Friday night and luncheon on Saturday.

Booths will offer homemade foods, plants, toys, gift items and holiday decorations. Dune-buggy and pony rides will be offered on Saturday, and a silent auction on a hand-carved grandfather clock will be held.

Girl Scout Troop 269 will present a play, "The Wizard of Oz," on Friday at 7 p.m.

Betsy and Harry Irving are chairmen for the fair. Their committee members include Jane McCullogh, assistant chairman; Sally and Bill Tachouet, Gertrude Lindsey, Kathy Walsh, Doris Toews, Ann Wagner, Jan Isaac, Tom Ingersoll, Valli Ingersoll, Eva Wilson, Pat and Steve Pinkney, Mary Jarrett, Mary and Walt Weaver, Henry DuPertius, Helen Davis, Breen Hoffmann, Audrey and Chuck Mathis, Sally Frederickson, Wes Wilson, Edie Robinson and Marylu Giddings.

THE PINE CONE Festival will be presented by St. Anne's Service League of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church in San Rafael on Thursday at the church.

Festival hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and child care will be available from 10 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The festival booths will feature gift items, Christmas decorations, patchwork and pillows, plants, homemade jams, cakes and breads.

Chairman is Mrs. Alan Atkins. Other women assisting are Mmes. Robert W. Clarke, Ward R. Johnson, Ruth Rowley, Alberta Dodds, David J. Tubman, Eldred Hillis, O. Neal Madson, A. G. Cunningham, Anne Connelly, Huldah Moorhead, Geneva Morris, Frances Topping, Walter Smith, Francis Callon, Bernard Boyle, Robert Reenstjerna and George Crotts.

A LECTURE on jade and a tea Thursday at the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere will be the initial fund-raising event of the new Hearing and Speech Center Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

Capt. Girvin Wait of Belvedere will speak on jade and show pieces of his jade collection for the 2 p.m. event.

Mrs. Wallace Scott of Belvedere is program chairman for the tea. Chairmen are Mmes. Wait and Kent O. Seymour of Mill Valley. Mrs. William Steen of Belvedere is president of the new branch.

MRS. CHARLES Mayo will welcome guests and members of the Petaluma Newcomers Club to her home at 1317 Glenwood Drive, Petaluma, for coffee and conversation at 10 a.m. Thursday.

Plans for a luncheon later in the month and the Christmas dance will be discussed. All new residents to the area are welcome. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Gerald Mahoney. Child care may be arranged with Mrs. Albert Verza.

A demonstration of Christmas arrangements will be given by Sara Healy of Mill Valley florist shop at the Mount Carmel Women's club meeting at noon Wednesday at O'Brien Hall, Mill Valley.

Coffee and dessert will be served. Mrs. Paul Rice is program chairman.

XI KAPPA Psi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will present a model meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Larry Quist. Invited guests are Mmes. Nathan Noah, Sam Wein, Edward Reuter, George Douwsma, John Pell and Roger Bracali.

The cultural program "making friends in Beta Sigma Phi" will be presented by vice president Mrs. Lyle Vincent, who will describe the purposes and history of the sorority.

Mrs. Joseph Resor, president, will conduct the ritual of welcome ceremony for new transfer members, Mrs. E. H. High and Mrs. William Cramer, both from Denver, Colo.

A LUNCHEON meeting of Chapter NE, PEO Sisterhood, will be given Friday at noon at the homd of Mrs. William Eastman, 130 Deer Park Avenue, San Rafael.

Special guest will be Mrs. Earl Conner of San Francisco Chapter IK, who will be general chairman of the PEO state convention next May in San Francisco.

Speaker for the meeting will be Anne Green whose topic will be travel.

Comeback For Gardenia Seen

Look for the gardenia worn in the hair to make a fashion comeback with the arrival of the new film, "Lady Sings the Blues" based on the life of the late Billie Holliday, predicts Women's Wear Daily.

Throughout the film Diana Ross, who portrays the legendary jazz singer, wears one or two gardenias in her hair Holiday style.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Who Dresses As Woman, His Wife Both Need Therapy

DEAR HELEN:

I've written several times, but have never seen a reply in the paper. Then you suspected a boy with a similar problem of hoaxing you, so perhaps you think I'm a hoaxer too. Please answer.

I'm a married businessman and well thought of locally. It all started when my wife kidded me about being a maid because I helped with the dishes. One thing led to another and she made me up like a woman, with her clothes, wig, cosmetics, etc. It was all in fun, but somehow it got to be a habit.

Through the years, she has bought women's clothes for me and these are what I relax in at home. (My whole personality changes when I'm in feminine attires.)

They were so comfortable that I began wearing women's clothing when I went out-of-town on business trips. After the day's work was done, I'd doll up "female," and walk around town. Sometimes I'd strike up a conversation with another woman but never with a man. I am NOT homosexual.

Well, my wife found out. She discovered my women's clothes in my suitcase, and now she wants to divorce me as she says I'm twisted.

If she enjoyed my charade at home, why then does she think I'm crazy when I carry it on outside — where no one will know? Does she really like the idea of a woman companion, but wants to keep it secret? — S.S.P.

DEAR S.:

Yours is a question for a close-in counselor; that is why I have avoided using it in the column. A fetish can best be treated by a psychiatrist, and that goes double if your wife also shares the aberration . . . or perhaps you two are completely right for each other, who knows?

One thing comes on strong, however, in all my letters from part-time or beginning transvestites: they always blame their first cross-over on amember of the opposite sex — sister, wife, girlfriend, mother — after which they either "just can't help themselves" or else they're still being "forced against their wills."

If your preference for woen's clothes threatens to blight your life, S.S.P., then I'd suggest first, honest self-appraisal (stop blaming your wife —she isn't the cause of your "split personality," though she may have encouraged it); and second, therapy.

Where therapy will lead, Idon't know, but I can't help you long-distance. Sorry! —H.

Wives Need Understanding, But So Do Their Husbands

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON, — Arriving at middle-age produces physical symptoms in some men, but most react psychologically, according to Dr. William Cooper. The doctor is a gynecologist, who treats their wives, but he has learned a thing or two about the husbands as well.

"I've had a number of men tell me they indeed had hot flashes, general nervousness, trouble eating and sleeping and other such worrisome symptoms," the physian declare.

"But it's mostly the psychological impact that gets them. When a man reaches his late forties or early fifties, he may feel that things are closing in on him. Perhaps he sees no chance of getting ahead on his job, or of getting a salary increase. He may want to get away from it all. This is when you sometimes hear about a previously devoted husband and father running off with his secretary."

The wives, he maintains, need to recognize some of the men's problems at this time. Meanwhile, the wives also go through certain changes, which their husbands usually don't understand, the gynecologist said. "The women are reaching the age of menopuse and need some kindness and help — especially from their husbands. Yet, so often when the husband has problems, he may attribute these to his wife's menopause. What we really need in this world," the physician said, "is more understanding between those couples who've been married for years."

Dr. Cooper suggests that men as well as women in their middle years have regular physical examinations. "Everyone in the household will benefit," he adds, "if the husband takes care of his health needs and the wife has her menopausal symptoms treated."

The gynecologist explained that if after thoroughly examining the woman he finds no reason for her symptoms other than a decrease in the level of the female hormones due to the natural tapering off of her ovaries at that age, he'll put the patient on estrogen replacement. "Not only do the headaches usually stop with this treatment," he said, "but so do many of the other menopausal symptoms."

When a woman is free of these, he goes on, "she can start enjoying life and doing all those things she always wanted to, but couldn't when she was tied down with the children."

Condominiums: You Need To Know About Builder, Lease, Land

By Josephine Ripley
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

While many people may know what to look for in buying a house and what questions to ask about the property, buying into a condominium is something new for most of us. What should you look for in a project such as this? What kind of information do you need before entering into this type of home ownership?

With a condominium boom in full swing, readers are asking for information.

In an effort to provide answers to some of these queries, Dollars and Sense has interviewed experts in this field. They say:

In the first place, bear in mind that you will not only become the owner of your apartment, but the co-owner with all other apartment owners of the rest of the property.

THE LAND. It is important to know who holds title to the land on which the condominium stands.

Does the condominium hold title or does the developer retain it? In other words, do you own the land or will you be leasing it from him?

If the developer has retained rights to enlarge the condominium at some time, find out what his plans are. Has he reserved the right to the swimming pool or recreation areas, for instance, with plans to lease them to the condominium?

Ownership of the land by the condominium is generally considered preferable and cheaper in the long run.

THE BUILDER. Ask for the name of the builder if you are considering a condominium not yet constructed. Find out what he has done in the area. Talk to people living in one of his buildings. Are they satisfied with the workmanship?

Has he been willing to come back and correct deficiencies? Was he under contract to do so for a certain period?

EQUIPMENT. Is the kitchen and plumbing equipment provided by a well-established and reliable manufacturer? What about the air-conditioning? Is that installed by a well-known maker? A reliable air-conditioning system is important in a warm climate.

GARAGE. When you obtain garage space, are you buying or just leasing it?

THE NEIGHBORHOOD. Inspect the neighborhood. Inquire about its growth prospects. Will this affect investment? If you are buying an apartment with a view, will that viewbe cut off by new buildings scheduled to go up?

SOUND-PROOFING. What about soundproofing between apartments? If you have a balcony, does the partition between you and your neighbor afford your sufficient visual privacy? That is a common problem in high density building.

THE MASTER DEED. This is a vital document. Ask to see it. The condominium is created under its terms. It might be advisable to have your lawyer review this and other documents which affect you as a condominium owner.

MONTHLY ASSESSMENT. Will it really cover the actual cost of running the building? What is included and excluded in this figure? Ask for a breakdown. In some instance, maintenance costs have been underestimated, so that owners wind up paying more than they bargained for.

People who have lived in a condominium or cooperative will tell you that the cost of maintenance is bound to rise. It rises with inflation. It can also rise because of poor management, compounding the increase.

At the same time, it is poor economy to let a building run down just to avoid increasing the assessment. When the needed repairs are finally made, they will probably cost more than was saved by postponement of the inevitable.

INSURANCE. Find out what kind of master coverage is provided for the building and what kind of supplemental insurance you should purchase to protect yourself against liabilities inside your own apartment, or in the common areas.

SALES. Many condominiums are sold out even before they are built. But it is well to find out how sales are going. If the building is not filled before completion, who is going to be responsible for the maintenance charges which would have been absorbed by the missing owners?

Find out if the developer has the financial capacity to maintain the unsold portion of the building for a period of time or until all units are sold.

MANAGEMENT. Practically all large condominiums or cooperatives employ the services of management experts to supervise the maintenance of building and grounds.

Ask for the name of the management firm. Inquire as to its reputation. How long will its contract run?

RESALE. Find out if the condominium in which you are interested has any restrictions on the resale by you of your apartment. A condominium association sometimes reserves the right of first refusal. This gives the condominium an opportunity to pass on a new owner. It may mean a delay in the sale, but if it is not used to practice racial or religious discrimination but is used responsibly, it may be of benefit to the property.

CONVERSION. Many rental apartments are now being converted to condominiums. In that case, you should inquire about the condition of the building.

The Federal Housing Administration of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), if it were to provide mortgage insurance in such a venture, would require an engineering report on the condition of the building.

"If it were not up to our standards, we would require rehabilitation before it is converted," said Geroge W. Browne, director of HUD's cooperative and condominium division.

New condominiums, if insured by FHA, must meet minimum standards "and we would have FHA inspectors inspecting the building from the pouring of the concrete all the way through construction," according to Browne.

Cooperatives and condominiums are similar in purpose but differ in the way they are set up. Leaflets describing the two projects in detail may be obtained free of charge at your local HUD office.

Parents: Take Child On First Doctor Visit

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Father and mother should accompany an allergic child on the first visit to the physician, according to Dr. Doris J. Rapp, author of "Allergies and Your Child," recently published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

Often when the father misses this visit he never comes to understand the need for essential changes in the home and in the child's diet, Dr. Rapp said.

Caring for an allergic child is not always simple, Dr. Rapp emphasized, and "mothers cannot and should not do it alone."

There are times when mother is away from home and father must know which medicines to give and why, she said. At other times mother may feel tired or ill, and needs father to take over supervision of medication. When one parent becomes frightened by an asthmatic child's wheezing, it is often helpful for the other parent to take over. A frightened parent adds to the child's problem.

An allergic child can affect family life in many ways. Dr. Rapp explained that sisters and brothers often resent the fact that they cannot have a pet or bedroom furnishings similar to those of their friends. Dr. Rapp suggests that the physician rather than the allergic child be held responsible for any changes or restrictions with regard to home, meals or activities.

You can be 2 sizes smaller for the Holidays if you call Gloria Marshall today.

Mrs. C. Taylor
Age 51
Homemaker & Socialite
The best birthday gift my husband ever gave me was to enroll me as a patron in Gloria Marshall's. He brags constantly about the 19½ lbs. and 23½" I've lost. He says he has his glamor girl back and loves the way the new fashions look on me. I feel and look 10 years younger. Once again he loves to show me off to all his friends and business associates.

Jill Hoffman
Age 24
Lost 28¾" and 18½ lbs. Jill says, "When I went to Gloria Marshall I had just had my first baby and still looked pregnant. Now I have lost the weight I wanted. Gloria Marshall helped me re-shape my figure so I look better than when I was first married.

Helen Rossman
Age 64
Retired
I'm 64 years old and mine wasn't a weight problem but one of toning muscles and tightening flabby areas. My buttocks muscles had deflated and I had even considered surgery before Gloria Marshall.

Ann Keener
Age 49
Medical Receptionist

Mrs. Mary J. Xander
Age 26
Homemaker
I tried everything to lose weight but nothing worked until Gloria Marshall. The personalized attention I received did a world of good. I lost 24 lbs. and 25½ inches. I couldn't believe it. I'm able to keep my weight off and not gain it back.

Lois Alsbrook
Age 31
Opthalmic Assistant
The impossible dream for me was to weigh less than 140 lbs. and have the courage to start a new life. I have lost over 50 lbs. and as many inches. I really appreciate what Gloria Marshall has done for me.

'Applause' Is A Little Shopworn

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

The musical, based on the film, "All About Eve," traces the life of a veteran theatrical star fighting for her life against an upstart.

"Applause" was used as a triumphant vehicle for the return of Lauren Bacall to the Broadway stage. She repeated her prize-winning performance in San Francisco last spring when the Civic Light Opera Association brought the show to the West Coast.

I caught a performance at the Curran Theater and thought then as I still do, that "Applause" is rather weak with a corny plot. And, too, it's a one-woman show, much in the same character as another musical of recent years, "Mame," starring Angela Lansbury.

This presentation on Saturday night, somewhat tailored for Miss Munsel's talents, was a little ragtag throughout. This is not uncommon, however, with one-night stands.

The house is unfamilar. There are usually all sorts of technical problems — lighting and scenery problems. This held true Saturday night.

The setting — a cutdown version from the original — was a little shopworn. And the pit orchestra was no better than some high school ensembles I've heard.

But getting back to the leading lady. Miss Munsel, who is in the same age range as Miss Bacall, puts forth a worthy effort. Even though her voice is a little shopworn, too, she still has a very good lower register. And her dancing gets passing remarks. Aside from these things, she wears her dazzling wardrobe to the best advantage.

Diane McAfee took the part of Eve, Margo's new competition. This type of roadshow tour is good for the young and Miss McAfee adapts very well. Bill Curry as Margo's lover was dashing enough, but his singing was a little forced.

Lisa Carroll as Margo's close friend was very good in her limited role. About the only other exciting participatn was Pia Zadora in the Greenwich Village star bar numbers. The company came to life in the first bar scene complete with the "Oh! Calcutta!" strip. But that was about the only real spurt of life of the rather long evening.

Traditional Music Set For Nov. 18

Doc and Merle Watson will play a concert of country, folk, blues, bluegrass and country music in a concert at 8 p.m. Nov. 18 in the Veterans Memorial Building.

Doc Watson is a guitarist and singer whose basic repertoire is the traditional folk song preserved from the distant past by poor upland farmers.

Blind from birth, Watson was one of 11 children of musical and religious parents in Deep Gap, N.C. Before he was in his teens, he was helping support his family with money earned in professional appearances.

His son, Merle, also sings and plays guitar and harmonica.

Reserved seat tickets are available at all Ticketron outlets and Macy's stores, Marin Music Center in the Strawberry Town and Country Shopping Center and Village Music in San Anselmo and Mill Valley.

Music Associates Gives First In Series To Capacity Crowd

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

The Music Associates Chamber Music Series of Dominican College presented their first concert of the season with the ensemble group of George Sakellariou, guitar, lute; Kay C. Collette, soprano; and Judith G. Phillips, flute.

Caleruega Hall on the Dominican campus makes a pleasant setting for such concerts, and is acoustically quite good. The over-capacity crowd of about 200 persons was obviously unexpected as chairs ran out and people were perched on dining tables in the rear of the hall.

The program of 20 selections ranged in period from Renaissance to contemporary, and gave each performer the chance to display his abilities in the various styles.

The opening and encore pieces made use of the voice as another instrument: First, Gabriel Faure's "Pavanne", which was originally written for orchestra with optional choir and transcribed for flute, guitar, and voice by Laurindo Almeira; and the closing, "The Distribution of Flowers" by Hei-tor Villa-Lobos. These were very well performed — especially effective were the unison passages of flute and voice in the Faure.

Sakellariou demonstrated his remarkable versatility with solo numbers that included 16th Century music on the lute, romantic Spanish pieces by Francisco Tarrega and Joaquin Rodrigo, and the delightful contemporary "Kaleidoscope No. 2" by Robdrt Strizich.

The "Kaleidoscope" consisted of 34 "events", each with its own character, to be combcned by the performer in an order to be decided upon at the momdnt of performance. The variety of sounds included rebound pizzicatos, overtones and sympathetic vibrations. Sakellariou obviously enjoyed the challenge.

Most outstanding of the songs was the Manuel De Falla "Jota," a duet of voice and guitar, sensitively treated by Miss Collette. In the songs from the Renaissance, Miss Collette kept a light delicate tone to match the lute sound.

Miss Phillips demonstrated her agility in delivering fast passages with a clean sound in the Sonata in G Major by C.P. E. Bach, ahd her tone remained full and rich even in soft passages. Particularly lovely was the Sonata in A Minor for flute and guitar by Jean-Baptiste Loeillet.

The Music Associates Series, under the direction of Carol E. Roth, will present the Lydian Ensemble at the next concert, Jan. 28.

Street Safety Plans On Agenda

The Ross Town Council will hear requests for safety improvements on Shady Lane at its meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at town hall.

The Ross Property Owners Association will present a list of proposed safety measures for the street.

The council also will receive a report from the Ross Recreation Board. The group was formed in April after a controversy over whether it would merely become another bureaucratic layer.

Nader Hopes Profiles May Aid Citizen Groups

By ROBERT P. HEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In recent years critics frequently have called Congress a governmental body of declining power. They say that it does not declare wars but they are fought anyway; and that, shackled by its seniority system, it is unable to move quickly enough to deal with the nation's social problems.

One of the problems, some critics have said, is that many individual Americans do not know enough about the actions of their individual representatives in Congress to be able to judge them intelligently.

Nox a new source of information has appeared on the American scene. It is the monumental sutdy of Congress done by Ralph Nader and some 1,000 other persons. The second in this series of congressional studies now has been released; this one is an extensive series of profiles on members of Congress.

It is Nader's hope that these profiles — and the other studies — will be an important new information source for citizen groups, local newspapers and voters. He hopes that the profiles will help make citizens more aware of what their congressmen and senators are doing in Washington. And he hopes that citizens armed with such knowledge will elect high-quality members of Congress and will insist that Congress greatly reform its own procedures, which would permit it to be more effective.

In preparing a profile on each member of the House and Senate seeking re-election, and senators not up for election this fall, some 500 members of the Nader Congress project researched each member's past actions and his votes on the floor and in committee; talked with aides, newsmen, past political opponents and the congressman or senator himself.

The result is a booklet of 20 or more pages on each member which includes some 10 pages of written comment on the man's backgroknd, views and congressional activities; plus tables giving his voting records on many different issues.

Nader hopes that citizens groups (such as the League of Women Voters) local newspapers and local organizations will use these booklets as research material to tell individual voters what their elected representatives in Washington really are doing.

At a press briefing Nader said his associates discovered through interviews that most opponents of incumbent congressmen "admit they have fair-to-poor knowledge" of the congressman's votes on the floor of Senate or House, let alone his votes in committee or behind-the-scenes maneuverings.

The Nader point was this: If a congressman's opponent doesn't really know what his Washington record has been, how could the average voter be expected to know? And if the voter does not know, how can he vote for the best candidate?

To help fill this void Nader is donating to 200 libraries across the U.S. sets of the profiles so that the information will be available as quickly as possible to local groups and local citizens.

Some criticism already is being voiced here that after all the research, there is not too much new in the profiles. Much of the information, it is said, already is available elsewhere.

Nader replies that whereas most of the information already has been made public in one form or another, this is the first time it all has been drawn together in one place, which makes it particularly useful. In addition, he says, there is considerable new material in he profiles — for instance, some votes in committee.

Critics also charge that the fact that the profile study is released only two weeks before election indicates that Nader forces are "out to get" some members of Congress. Nader says, on the other hand, that the profiles are being released now because this is when public interest is highest — just before an election.

Also, a few members of Congress charged, in advance, that there were errors in their profiles; the implication was that the profiles be taken with a grain of salt. Nader maintains that the profiles have been carefully researched and carefully edited and that the accuracy percentage is high.

In any case, Washington observers consider that by taking on perhaps his biggest opponent ever — Congress — Nader is putting on the line his immense prestige and reputation for great accuracy. Should there prove to be much innaccuracy in the profiles, it is generally thought here, the Nader reputation and effectiveness would suffer.

Doubtless, Nader foresaw these same potential pitfalls but considered the possible benefit more than worth the risk.

"The hope," he says, ". . . is that the mystery of Congress will decrease as the people begin to become familiar with Congress." He hopes Americans reach the same conclusions he has: that Congress must reform the way it operates. He says his own first priority for Congress would be to have it set aside a special time in which to concentrate wholly on congressional reform.

Picket Lines At Bakeries

OAKLAND (UPI) —A union strike against the Continental Bakery Co., makers of Wonder Bread and Hostess cakes, isn't expected to have an effect on the supply of fresh bread to shoppers in the Bay Area.

Picket lines went up Sunday at the bakery's plants in San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento after a breakdown in contract talks between the company and Bakery Drivers Union Local 484.

Bargaining sessions between the ITT subsidiary and the 350-member Teamsters union ended in a deadlock Saturday over wages and working schedules.

The walkout occurred at a time a coastwide strike is threatened by the AFL-CIO Bakers Union. The bakers were due to walk off the job Saturday, but delayed the action pending negotiations this week in Los Angeles.

Choice Meat Due Guide Dogs School

Guide Dogs for the Blind will be the recipient of two choice batches of meat, purchased at the Grand National Livestock Exposition in San Francico last week and donated to the San Rafael institution.

The reserve grand champion lamb, a Southdown exhibited by Kevin McGlinchey of Eugene, Ore., was purchased by Cow Palace director Edward H. Gauer of San Francisco, who said he would donate it to the Guide Dog school.

The reserve grand champion market hog, a 234-pound Crossbred, was bought by another Cow Palace director, John Metcalf, and also will be donated to the school.

Federal Benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal government benefits to 50 or 60 million Americans in fiscal 1973 through "income security programs" will reach an estimated $102 billion, the Tax Foundation reports.

Bus Missing In Arizona

A yellow U-Haul Volkswagen bus, rented in October by a San Rafael man who said he was taking Boy Scouts to the Sierras, is somewhere in Arizona, reported Larkspur police today. The renter is being sought by Arizona police.

Kenneth Smith Garrick, owner of Ken's U-Haul, 2060 Redwood Highway, Larkspur, told police he rented the bus to James J. Heintz of 231 Roundtree Way, San Rafael, on Oct. 18.

Heintz, 24, said he was taking a Boy Scout troop to the Sierras, according to police, but when the bus was not returned it was discovered Heintz no longer lived in San Rafael and had quit his job.

A service station in Flagstaff, Ariz., reported they had completed $378 of repairs on the bus on Oct. 29 and alleged Heintz removed the bus without paying for the work.

Heintz is being sought by Arizona law enforcement officials on a bad check warrant, said Larkspur police, and they in turn will issue an embezzlement warrant when information is complete.

U.S. In Economic Trouble, But Where Will Money Come From?

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Nixon ends the 1972 campaign with his future economic program, if he is re-elected, still wrapped in mystery.

The U.S. is running an estimated $35 billion deficit; defense will cost more, not less, according to plan in spite of the Vietnam cease-fire; Nixon is pledged to try to resist tax increases; and in a radio address he has renewed his promise of property-tax relief for older citizens.

The question asked here is, where is the money coming from?

— To continue the present rate of deficit spending into a period of prosperity (when it is far more inflationary than in a record recession) is considered unthinkable.

—To cut federal expenditures, or even to freeze them at the present level in a nation that adds three million people a year, with a budget whose items are often rigid (like the $22 billion interest on public debt) would slide sharply into established social programs and/or aid to the states.

—To raise taxes in 1973 would contradict many White House professions like that of White House assistant John D. Ehrlichman: "The President won't ask for any higher taxes — period." But Nixon has always given himself a way out — to raise taxes if Congress gives him no other course.

The President's relations with the departed Democratic 92nd Congress deepens, if anything, the economic mystery.

Congress rejected in its final hours the White House proposal for a $250-billion spending ceiling giving Nixon the extra constitutuional authority to make restricted cuts, like an item veto.

Subsequently, Nixon has vetoed certain appropriations, notably the $30.6 billion Labor-HEW money bill (although contingent expenditures for these two departments go on until the new Congress acts). In spite of "savings" of something under $1 billion from these vetoes, Nixon still is an estimated $10 billion short of his $250 billion goat.

Assuming he is re-elected, Nixon speaks of "impounding" (i.e. not spending) sums voted by Congress, which raises an unresolved constitutional issue. Some presidents have "impounded" funds, but never to the amount now indicated. It has brought a warning in a letter from Sen. Hubert Humphrey: "Your proposed expansion of impoundment threatens the constitutionally mandated relationship between the executive and the legislative branches of government."

In some way or other, it seems certain, Nixon is going to have to lay his hand on some money, somehow.

Hwere are three elements in the complicated situation which will face the nation no matter who wins the election.

—Although there are about five million unemployed, with a 5.5 per cent unemployment rate, the economx is improving and the rate of inflation has been cut about in half and is less than in Germany, France, Great Britain or Italy. As prosperity takes hold the threat of inflation will increase.

The economy is under a system of price and wage controls, reluctantly imposed by Nixon, who has given no sign during the campaign of whether, or how long, he would continue them.

—Total Pentagon spending is moving up, and will move higher if scheduled new weapons systems are adopted with staggering costs, like the B1 bomber and the Trident submarine ($1 billion each).

—Separate studies by independent scholars of the Brookings Institution and the American Enterprise Institute, conclude that spending for non-Vietnam defense, and for civilian programs, will grow faster then U.S. tax intake, even allowing for usual revenue pickup from prosperity. The "peace dividend" is already mortgaged, they declare.

That's the problem.

Sen. George McGovern says he will meet it by two means: Raising taxes and ending loopholes in present tax laws; and by cutting Pentagon expenditure.

Nixon, who once considered the value-added (sales) tax, has apparently dropped it, and he promises not to raise taxes at all, if possible. At the same time he pledges national defense "second to none" and strongly condemns McGovern for proposing Pentagon slashes.

House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, campaigning last Tuesday, said that if Republicans win the House on election day there will be no tax increase next year.

Figures here indicate a budget problem — almost a crisis — just ahead. How Nixon will meet it, if re-elected, remains uncertain.

More Discipline Ordered By Manila

MANILA (UPI) — The Philippines' martial law government said today military teams will soon go after government officials found on golf courses and other amusement places when they should be working hours.

It was the latest disciplinary move ordered by President Ferdinand E. Marcos against erring civil servants. Earlier, the government banned all government workers and military personnel from nightclubs, bars and other entertainment places even during their off-duty hours.

As Democrats, Republicans, and Independents We Support Mike Peevey for Supervisor

From the very beginning of the campaign Mike Peevey has stuck to the issues affecting the voters of South San Rafael, Corte Madera, Larkspur, West Marin, and the San Geronimo Valley. He has spoken out clearly and forcefully on the issues of the environment, taxes, housing and transportation.

He hasn't got involved in Presidential politics or in other Supervisorial districts. He hasn't flip--flopped back and forth on the issues. He hasn't postured just because an issue seemed popular at the moment.

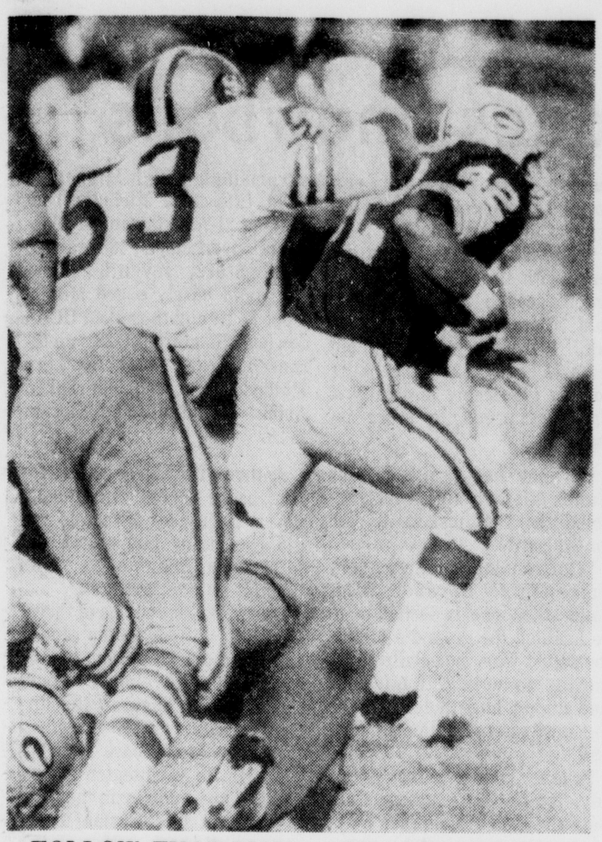
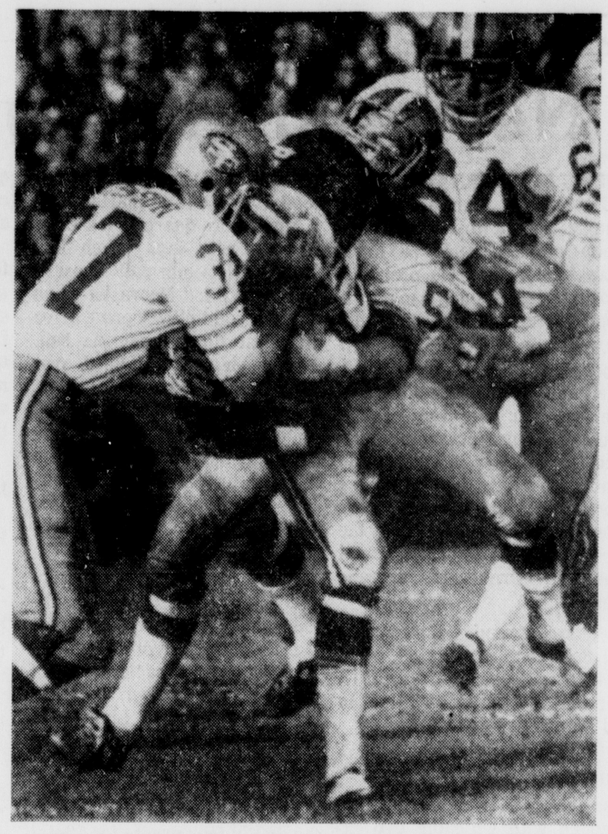
San Rafael Upsets Novato; Redwood Rips Tamalpais





FOLLOW THAT MAN — Green Bay Packer running back John Brockington was the nemesis of the San Francisco 49ers yesterday and occupied most of their attention. He ran for a 14-yard touchdown in the third quarter (left), eluding the 49ers' Tommy Hart (53) and picked up 25 yards on a carry in the second period (right) while requiring three 49ers to bring him down — Skip Vanderbundt (52), Jimmy Johnson (37) and Dave Wilcox (64). Packers won the game in Milwaukee, 34-24.

Versatile Edralin Scores 3

Systesmatic and sullen after an emotionally trying week, Redwood High School's football team Saturday recorded the Marin County Athletic League's most lopsided victory of the year, a 41-0 conquest of Tamalpais High.

Versatile Daryl Edralin scored three of the Giants' six touchdowns by three different methods — a pass reception, an interception return, and a run.

The Redwood defense, meanwhile, lent credence to defensive coach Jess Payan's claims of excellence by restricting Tam to 14 yards rushing and 79 yards total offense in notching its first shutout of the year.

The triumph improved Redwood's over-all record to 7-1 and kept the Giants tied with Terra Linda for the MCAL lead at 4-1. Tam is 1-4 in the league and 2-5 over-all.

There was certainly cause for shouting on Redwood's side of the field, but the players and the crowd of 1,200 in Larkspur were glum, their enthusiasm tempered by knowledge that two Giants' starters were missing Saturday's game after being injured in an automobile accident Friday night in Ross.

Tight end Matt Gondak suffered an emotional jolt but no physical damage, while guard Scott Cochrane injured his left leg and needed five stitches in his head, coach Phil Roark said. Gondak is expected to play against Drake Saturday and Cochrane might be able to after consulting his physician today, Roark added.

"We had a hard game last week, too," said Roark, "and the team wasn't fired up in practice all week." Redwood beat Novato Oct. 28, 20-14.

Nonetheless, the Giants executed with precision to overcome Tam's initial stubborness with a 28-point second half.

Quarterback John Troppmann threw two touchdown passes on fourth down, hitting Edralin for 17 yards in the first quarter for Redwood's initial score, and connecting with Mike Connor for 20 yards in the third period. Troppmann also scored on a one-inch quarterback sneak in the first quarter.

Edralin began the second-half scoring by picking off a Tam pass and returning it 28 yards for a touchdown. He tallied again early in the fourth quarter on a three-yard run, and rushed 47 of the 62 yards on that scoring drive.

Frank Giorgi got the Giants' final score on a one-yard run.

Edralin gained 87 yards on 14 rushes to lead the game's ballcarriers and help Redwood to a total offense of 280 yards.

Conversion Miss Costs Novato Win

By LEW CODDINGTON

A few seconds of alert play by Fred Hurst preserved the fruits of an hour's worth of inspired play by his San Rafael High School teammates Saturday night, as the Bulldogs pulled off a 7-6 upset of Novato before about 1,800 fans at San Rafael's field.

Hurst thwarted Novato's attempt at a two-point conversion by knocking quarterback Tom Conklin out of bounds after Novato had scored a touchdown with 1:02 left in the game.

The upset was greeted with almost as much joy in Terra Linda as it was in San Rafael, for it reduced Novato's Marin County Athletic League record to 3-2. Terra Linda and Redwood are tied for the lead at 4-1, and since the Trojans defeated the Giants earlier this year, they need only beat Tamalpais Saturday to assure themselves of a trip to the post-season bowl game against the North Bay League champion.

Novato's over-all record is 5-2. San Rafael concluded its MCAL schedule at 3-3 and evened its season log at 4-4.

Novato was shackled by San Rafael's defense and a muddy field until Conklin threw a 12-yard scoring pass to Gary Lash to set up the fateful conversion try.

"We just played everybody up on the line and hoped they (Novato) didn't throw," said San Rafael coach Bob Muster. They didn't — instead, Conklin tried to skirt his own left end.

Hurst, a 5-foot-11, 175-pound sophomore, was stationed at a right cornerback position. "I was watching the outside," he said. "I was knocked down, but I got up and knocked him out of bounds at about the four or five yard line (the play originated on the three). Mike Farris also

San Marin Triumphs On Game's Last Play

By TOM THOMPSON

In a game where the lead changed hands five times, San Marin High School pulled out an amazing last second non-league football victory over Marin Catholic, 20-19, Saturday afternoon in Greenbrae.

Mustang Wingback Wayne Roche stunned a frenzied Marin Catholic homecoming crowd of about 1,200 as he caught an eight-yard Hoza Wright scoring pass with 0:00 showing on the clock in the final quarter. It was Wright's third scoring pass of the afternoon.

A pass interference penalty against the Wildcats with five seconds left to play saved the day for the Mustangs, who averted a second upset in two weeks. The penalty gave the visitors a first down and one more chance.

The 'Cats thought they had it won with 2:32 left in the game when Ben Partee dove one yard for a touchdown to make the score 19-14. San Marin had taken the lead five minutes earlier, tackling Partee in the end zone for a safety.

In the first quarter, San Marin looked like it hadn't shaken off its loss to Tamalpais last week. The Mustangs only had the ball for three plays in the stanza and fumbled it away to open a 92-yard drove by Marin Catholic for the first score of the day. Only five seconds into the second quarter, halfback Rich Cervisi ran two yards in to make the score 6-0.

San Marin shook it off however 55 seconds later as Wright connected a 54-yard scoring

RAIDERS LOSE

Record Crowd Sees K.C. Romp

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Len Dawson, for the first time this season, wasn't sore. Ed Podolak was, but he wouldn't admit it.

"I'm making a miraculous recovery for a man my age," laughed Dawson, the Kansas City Chiefs' 37-year-old quarterback. "But not being tackled had more than a little to do with it."

Dawson, who has suffered bruised ribs since early in the season, played one of the finest games of his 16-year professional career Sunday. He threw three touchdown passes, two in a 17-point second quarter, as the Chiefs blitzed the Oakland Raiders, 27-14, and took over first place in the American Football Conference's Western Division.

Podogak was almost as devastating. Playing his second game after a severe ankle injury, the running back from Iowa carried 27 times for 115 yards and caught a couple of passes for 42 more and a touchdown.

Dawson was not sacked once as the Chiefs' offensive line kept him untouched.

"I expect that every game," said Dawson. "Really, when the other team has to respect your running game and you have the lead, it makes it easier to block."

The Chiefs jumped to a 20-0 lead, held on downs at their six after the Raiders had narrowed the gap to 20-7, then roared 80 yards for the clinching touchdown with 6:03 to go.

With a 5-3 record, the Chiefs are a half-game ahead of Oakland (4-3-1).

The record crowd of 82,094 got its jollies by booing Oakland running back Marv Hubbard, who was quoted earlier in the week as saying, "We're gonna kick some rear."

Hubbard did not enjoy a good day. He fumbled twice, losing one and a first down on the other, and gained only 18 yards in eight carries. "Old Mother Hubbard had his problems today," agreed Podolak.

"It all boiled down to this," said Oakland Coach John Madden. "When we had to move the ball, we didn't. And when we had to stop them, we didn't. They got to us pretty good in the second quarter and when you get 17 points behind, it really becomes an uphill battle."

Kansas City Coach Hank Stram added, "This was undoubtedly our best game. Our bench was on fire and we played like our personality. I felt we won the game up front."

The officials, led by referee Pat Haggerty, unintentionally took a down away from the Chiefs in the third quarter. Kansas City tight end Willie Frazier and Oakland safety George Atkinson were thrown out of the game for fighting on a first-down play.

Haggerty ruled a dead-ball foul, but jumped the downs from first to third.

"The down should have counted and it should have been second down," Haggerty said. "We didn't realize it should have been second down when we changed the down marker. We went from first to third down errondously. We just blew it, that's all."

The Chiefs were threatening to blow the game wide open, but had to settle for a Jan Stenerud field goal instead.

"The official asked me for a rundoxn on the plays," Dawson said. "I got confused because I thought we had made a first down right before the play. The official was quite emphatic and he wanted to get the show on the road."

Said Stram, "They just made a mistake, that's all, and I'm sure we'll call it to the league's attention."

Dawson finished with 10 of 18 passes for 181 yards, but he hit 8 of 13 for 136 yards in the first half when the verdict was rendered.

"This is a great victory for us," said the veteran quarterback. "The pressure came from the game itself. A loss would have put us 1 1-2 back with six to go."

Added Podolak, "This vaulted us into the position we want to be in. We're in a position to do it ourselves now. We don't have to rely on anybody beating Oakland."

The victory was the first in the regular season for the Chiefs in their new Arrowhead Stadium after three straight losses. They are unbeaten on the road.

SO DO 49ERS

Comeback Foiled By Interception

MILWAUKEE, (UPI) —Steve Spurrier may only be a surrogate quarterback—but he's earned the respect of Green Bay Packers Coach Dan Devine.

Well he might, too, since it was Spurrier who Sunday kept the San Francisco 49ers in a ball game the Packers—and especially John Brockington—did their best to put them out of.

Brockington, who rambled his way to his best game of the season, scored three touchdowns on plays varying from 14 to 48 yards in length as the Packers rolled to a 24-7 lead over San Francisco.

Then Spurrier, aided by glue-fingered Gene Washington, started a comeback that saw the 49ers pull to within three points only to lose 34-24.

"I've always had a lot of respect for Spurrier," Devine said as he tossed a game ball up and down in the Green Bay locker room afterwards. "He can kill you with his passes."

The former Florida star, who gained his starting berth only because John Brodie was hurt, hit on 19 of 37 passes for 315 yards in the most devastating aerial performance against Green Bay this year.

Two of his passes went for touchdowns of 62 and 34 yards to Washington and those were the first touchdown passes thrown against the Packers in eight games.

The flurry of passes had Green Bay on the ropes until, with just 23 seconds to play, Ken Ellis stepped in front of Washington, grabbed Spurrier's last throw of the game and ran 28 yards for the clinching score.

Brockington, who gained 133 yards to run his season total to 661 yards, scored on a 48-yard pass from Scott Hunter for Green Bay's first touchdown and then went over from 30 yards out in the second quarter and 14 yards in the third. Both times he was tackled several times and carried the would-be tacklers into the end zone with him.

"When I get that close, there's no way I'm going to be stopped," said Brockington, who as a rookie led the NFC in rushing last year. This was his first 100-yard game of the year.

"When the hole opens up and you start smoking, then the adrenalin just comes," he said.

Warriors Hit Road After Super Start

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors embark today on their first major road trip of the season and star Rick Barry says the host squads will do "the worrying."

The Warriors take on Buffalo Tuesday night and play at Boston Thursday. They visit Detroit Friday, New York Saturday and Atlanta next Tuesday.

The Warriors downed the New York Knicks, 127-124, Saturday night before their most impressive crowd of the season, 12,807, at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

"When people start looking at our box scores," Barry said, "we're going to put some fear in their hearts.

"It's the other people who are going to do the worrying," said Barry, instrumental in Golden State's eight wins in the opening 10 games.

"Players read the papers and when they see what we're doing, they're going to be worried about facing us," he said.

Sonoma Runner Chased By Bull

Steve Slawson was chased off the course by a bull Saturday in the Far Western Conference cross country meet in Sacramento, but the California State College, Sonoma harrier recovered to take 28th place in 30:22 over the 5.4-mile course.

The Cossacks finished seventh with 193 points. University of California at Davis won the meet with 35 points.

The results:

WINE OF THE MONTH

We are very excited about this superb Cabernet! We have been searching for a California red wine which met the dual requirements of drinkable now and suitable to lay away for five or more years. This wine meets both requirements so well that it is perhaps the best buy in California wine today. It is unfined and unfiltered, full of character, strength, and the necessary ingredients for staying power — attributes rare in many California wines today. It is certainly drinkable now, although not as finished as several 1969 California Cabernets, but the test of the wine is that it will age beautifully. Buy a bottle to try, then a case or more to lay away. This wine would make a perfect holiday gift for both friends and business or professional acquaintances.

Steelers Talk, People Listen

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Pittsburgh Steelers, who haven't smelled a title in 40 years in the National Football League, suddenly are talking Super Bowl—and people are listening.

The Steelers, who have never won a title of any sort since they entered the league in 1933, took a big step toward their first one Sunday when they trampled the Cincinnati Bengals 40-17. Terry Bradshaw threw three touchdown passes and rookie Franco Harris rushed for 101 yards to spark the victory and move the Steelers a game ahead of the Bengals in the American Conference Central Division.

The drubbing of the Bengals, who had beaten Pittsburgh 15-10 earlier this season on five Horst Muhlmann field goals, touched off cries of "Super Bowl" in the Pittsburgh dressing room but young Coach Chuck Noll, who has built the club from a 1-13 disaster four years ago, was more realistic.

"We have another big game next week," Noll said, refering to the meeting with Kansas City. "It's a little too early for things like that. We played very well today and Terry had one of his best days as a pro."

Bradshaw threw TD passes of 28 and 34 yards to Frank Lewis and 13 to Larry Brown to highlight the rout. The Steelers built a 26-0 lead before Cincinnati was able to score.

"They looked like a Super Bowl team to me," said Bengals' Coach Paul Brown. "They're a truly great team. They gave us a sound defeat."

First place was on the line in two other divisions and both were decided rather handily. Len Dawson threw three TD passes to spark the Kansas City Chiefs to a 27-14 victory over the Oakland Raiders and first place in the AFC West and Willie Ellison and Jim Bertelsen ran for short TDs to lift the Los Angeles Rams to a 20-7 triumph over the Atlanta Falcons and the NFC Western lead.

Elsewhwere, Washington drubbed the New York Jets 35-17, Dallas downed San Deigo 34-28, Green Bay beat San Francisco 34-24, Detroit shut out Chicago 14-0, Miami remained unbeaten with a 30-16 romp past Buffalo, Cleveland blanked Houston 20-0, Minnnsota trounced New Orleans 37-6, the New York Giants defeated Denver 29-17 and St. Louis and Philadelphia tied 6-6. Baltimore is at New England tonight.

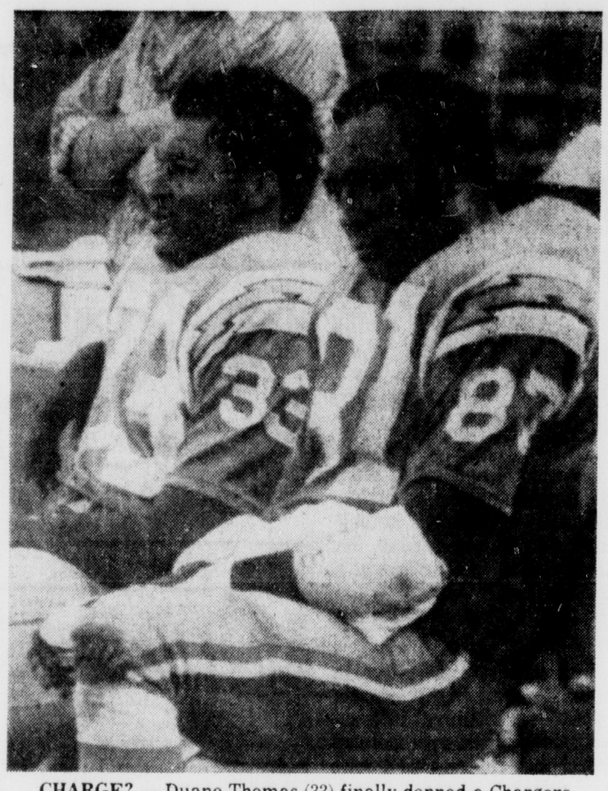
Ellison rushed for 114 yards and Bertelsen ground out 71 yards to highlight the Rams' triumph over Atlanta. David Ray had a pair of field goals and the Rams defense, led by Coy Bacon and Jack Youngblood, conntained the Falcons' running attack.

Bill Kilmer, subbing for the injured Sonny Jurgensen, threw TD passes of 45, 70 and 89 yards to lead the Redskins over the Jets. Kilmer hit Roy Jefferson with a 45-yarder on his first attempt of the game, connected with Charley Taylor on a 70-yarder and then flipped a short screen pass to Larry Brown, who turned it into an 89-yard TD.

Dallas remained a game behind Washington in the NFC East as Crjig Morton ran seven yards for one score and passed one yard to Mike Ditka for another to defeat San Diego. Ex-Charger Mike Montgomery had a 54-yard TD run with a recovered fumble with the game less than two minutes old.

Mercury Morris ran for two scores and Garo Yepremian kicked three first half field goals as Miami ran its record to 8-0 with a victory over the Bills. Morris scored on runs of 22 and four yards.

Detroit remained tied with Green Bay for the NFC Central lead as Steve Owens and Greg Landry each plunged a yard for scores and Leroy Kelly's two TDs helped the Browns down Houston. Fran Tarkenton's two TD passes enabled the Vikings to rout New Orleans and Joe Orduna's ond-yard run and a 37qard interception return for a score by Jim Files within the last 35 secondf of the first half boosted the Giants over Denver.



CHARGE? — Duane Thomas (33) finally donned a Chargers uniform yesterday, but sat motionless and silent on the bench as San Diego lost to the team the truculent running back used to play for, the visiting Dallas Cowboys, 34-28. Thomas was activated just prior to the game. Seated next to him is Lionel Aldridge. (UPI Telephoto)

Nebraska Star Dodges Snowballs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers caught no snowballs Saturday and Colorado must've been thankful for that. He probably would have run them back for a couple of more touchdowns.

As it was, the Buffaloes saw enough of Rodgers, Nebraska's Heisman Trophy candidate, as he ran for one touchdown, caught a pass for another and scooted over or around Colorado's would-be tacklers throughout the game, to be convinced that he is one of the best players in the country and that the Cornhuskers are the best team.

Nebraska wound up snowing on Colorado's parade 33-10 for the Cornhuskers' seventh straight victory since falling to UCLA on opeing day.

The snowballs were an added attraction, courtesy of some of the fans who weren't satisfied enough with watching two excellent football teams in action in Boulder. Snowballs came sailing toward Rodgers and other players from the start of the game but the senior wingback was agile enough to dodge the missles as well as the tacklers.

"The snowballs didn't bother me at all," Rodgers said. "They started throwing them at me as soon as I walked on the field and so I just became used to it." The snowballers were penalized, however, as 37 of them were arrested, 34 for throwing missiles, one for assault and battery and two for interference.

On the playing field, the third-ranked Cornhuskers looked awesome. They scored the first three times they had the ball, capitalized on miscues by Colorado and held a 19-0 lead after the first quarter.

Sophomore quarterback Dave Humm, who says coach Bob Devaney lets him call "most of the plays," led Nebraska on an 54-yard eight-play scoring drive the first time it got the ball. Humm, himself, plunged over from the one-yard line for the tally. Two plays later a Colorado fumble gave the ball back to Nebraska on the Buffaloes 17-yard line and the Cornhuskers zere promptly back on the scoreboard via a one-yard dive by Gary Dixon.

Bill Olds bowled over from the one with 2:57 left in the opening period to give Nebraska its third TD of the game. Colorado came back to within 19-10 at halftime on a 44-yard field goal by Fred Lima after an interception and an 18-yard run by Bo Mathews.

Rodgers, who set a Big Eight career reception mark when he hauled in four passes for a total of 134 for his three years on the team, scored twice in the third quarter. His one-yard run capped Nebraska's opening drive of the second half.

"Nebraska blends strong defense with strong offense," Colorado's coach Eddie Crowder said after watching his team fall, "to be the most complete team I ever saw. There is nothing like losing to quality. I was just proud to score on them."

Devaney had praise for his team's offensive line, which enabled the Cornhuskers to run for 219 yards.

"Our running game was very successful," Devaney said, "and when one is fortunate to be leading, the ground attack is the safest way, especially if it's moving so well. Our offensive line makes huge holes. This is the best offensive line in football."

In other college games Saturday, top-ranked Southern California bullied Washington State 44-3, second-ranked Alabama bombed Mississippi State 58-14, fourth-ranked Ohio State got by surprisingly tough Minnesota 27-19, fifth-rated Michigan beat Indiana 21-7, sixth-ranked Oklahoma overhauled 13th-ranked Iowa State, seventh-ranked Louisiana barely edged Mississippi 17-16, eighth-ranked UCLA downed Stanford 28-23, ninth-ranked Texas beat Southern Methodist 17-9, and 10th-ranked Auburn fought off tough Florida 26-20.

Anthony Davis was a titan for USC as he scored three touchdowns rushed for 195 yards and did everything but sell tickets in leading USC to its ninth triumph without a defeat.

Davis scored on runs of three, six and 14 yards in the second third and fourth periods as the Trojans moved almost at will against the Cougars after the first period.

He also broke loose for a 64-yard run to Washington State's 15-yard line midway in the third period, but that Trojan threat was nullified when Mike Rae's pass to J.J. McKay was intercepted.

Sabotage Ruins Redskins-Jets TV

NEW YORK (UPI)—Damage described as sabotage prevented the telecast Sunday of the Washington Redskins-New York Jets game from Shea Stadium on the CBS network, crippled by a strike of some 1,200 cameramen, technicians and engineers.

Unidentified persons cut cables at Shea Stadium in New York, cutting off scheduled CBS coverage of a game between the Redskins and the Jets. The network carried the Chicago Bears-Detroit Lions game instead.

Although it was not certain immediately who had cut the cables, the network described the damage as sabotage.

A spokesman for CBS later said that the reason for a change in coverage was because of "technical difficulties." A full statement from CBS officials explaining the trouble at Shea was expected later this afternoon.

The network had previously canceled a political interview show and coverage of two pro football games because of the strike. The Redskins-Jets telecast had been scheduled as a replacement for one of the canceled games.

The strike by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) affected CBS television and radio stations in seven major cities.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Sen. George S. McGovern canceled plans to appear on a CBS interview show. Aides of both men said the candidates did not want to crofs picket lines.

Redwood Runners Take MCAL Meet

Redwood High School runners captured four of the first five places and propelled their team to an easy victory Saturday in the Marin County Athletic League cross-country meet near Bon Tempe Lake.

Jan-Eric Moller ran the course of slightly more than three miles in 15:51 for a five-second victory over teammate Pete Sweeney. Redwood's Ned Overend was third, Gary Lathrop of San Marin fourth and Mike Killeen of Redwood fifth.

Redwood recorded 19 points to 51 for San Rafael and 97 for San Marin in team competition. The top five individuals and top three teams qualified for the North Coast Section Division III meet Thursday in Vallejo.

Redwood's Pete Demarais won the two-mile freshman-sophomore race in 10:26 and led his team to a 27-35 victory over Tamalpais. Brook Chesnut of San Rafael won the freshman exhibition in 11:10 and the Bulldogs shaded Redwood, 21-32. Kate Keyes of Tamalpais won the girls exhibition in 12:54 but Redwood took team honors.

Top five individuals in varsity, frosh-soph and freshman will advance to Vallejo. So will one half the competing teams, although the league's coaches currently are unsure whether that means half the teams in the league, or half the teams in the race.

hit him, and Craig Bacharach came up on the play."

San Rafael's lone touchdown came in the second quarter on a tackle-eligible pass play installed by Muster especially for the game. On fourth down and six yards to go from Novato's 14, quarterback Lance Loughlin hit Jim Seymour over the middle for the score. Curt Urquhart kicked what proved to be the winning conversion.

San Rafael set up the score by taking the opening kickoff and driving 68 yards in 18 plays to Novato's one, using 13 minutes to do it. When the drive died, the defenders held and Novato's punter got off a 12-yard kick to give San Rafael the ball on the 18.

"The whole defense did an outstanding job," said Muster, "especially in the second half, when they were on the field constantly. (Linebacker) Craig Campbell (and linemen) Mike Sinclair, Dan Dell'Era and Dick Paulson kept pressure up the middle."

Tomales Romps Past Kelseyville

Spirito Ballatore scored three touchdowns and passed for another on Saturday afternoon to spark the Tomales High School Braves to a 42-0 North Central League II victory over visiting Kelseyville.

The Braves are now 4-0 in league play and tied for first place with the Calistoga Wildcats who they play next Friday night in a game that will decide the championship of the NCL II.

Ballatore had his best day offensively since pulling a muscle three weeks ago, rushing for 136 yards and scoring on runs of 10, 10 and 14 yards. He also threw a 46-yard scoring strike to Mike Camp.

The Tomales defense recorded its third shutout in league play, and limited the Indians to 31 yards total. "Our defense annihilated them," Braves coach Davis Danielson said. "They never got past their 20-yard line in the first half."

SONOMA GRID

Petaluma's Win Sets Up Finale

The whole football season boils down to next Friday night for Petaluma High School when the Trojans face the explosive Ukiah Wildcats in Petaluma.

Saturday night the Trojans beat host Santa Rosa, 27-6, to clinch at least a tie for their first North Bay League championship since 1966.

But they must beat Ukiah to win the title outright and repesent the NBL in the prep playoff against the Marin County Athletic League champions Nov. 18 in Napa. Should Petaluma lose to the Wildcats, a coinflip would determine its fate.

In other southern Sonoma football action Saturday, St. Vincent of Petaluma won its first North Central League II game of the year with a 6-0 victory over visiting Upper Lake.

Although Petaluma racked up 285 yards and dominated play after Santa Rosa's first-quarter touchdown, it wasn't a stellar offensive performance as they only mounted one sustained drive all game.

The drive came late in the third quarter when Bob Whitmore's second interception of the game gave the Trojans the ball on their own one-yard line. Eight minutes and 21 plays later, Steve Hernandez bulled his way off left tackle from the two-yard line to make it 20-6.

Petaluma's defense, which has given up just a single touchdown in seven of its eight games this season, accounted for the other Trojan scores, turning two recovered fumbles and an interception into touchdowns.

St. Vincent rushed for 232 yards against a porous Cougar defense, and dominated the game although the score doesn't indicate it. Dan Tocchini was the main ground gainer for the Mustangs with 164 yards.

Bobby Beats Al

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Bobby Unser, driving a Dan Gurney Olsonite Eagle at an average clip of 127 miles per hour, passed leaders Mario Andretti and brother Al Unser to win the Best Western 150-mile championship race.

Blackhawks Score Late, Tie Seals

CHICAGO (UPI) —Pit Martin scored with 3:40 to go, less than a half minute after an apparent Chicago goal was disallowed, to give the Black Hawks a 3-3 tie Sunday night with the California Golden Seals in a National Hockey League game.

California was leading 3-2 with four minutes to go when defenseman Bill White of Chicago fired a shot from 40 feet which hit the goal and bounced quickly out. The goal judge ruled it a goal, saying it hit just inside the net, but referee Bruce Hood overruled him and disallowed it.

Staff Defeats Doctors In Hospital Grid Game

Male staff workers at Marin General Hospital again proved better than the doctors when it came down to football, but as winning quarterback Jim Warych said, "This year they gave us a better fight."

The staff defeated the doctors, 6-2, on a pass play from Warych, an operating room technician, to Robert Wainright, a hospital porter, Sunday afternoon on the College of Marin football field. The doctors' points came on a safety.

The game was a benefit for the American Heart Association's Marin branch, and netted more than $100 for the Heart Fund. The only injury was a hurt shoulder suffered by Dr. John R. Manis.

After the game, the doctors, who lost the first football game to the staff workers last year, 24-6, challenged the winners to a basketball game sometime later.

Water Polo Games

Terra Linda High School defeated Cubberely of Palo Alto, 16-5, and San Rafael lost to the University of California freshmen, 10-7, in non-league water polo games Saturday.

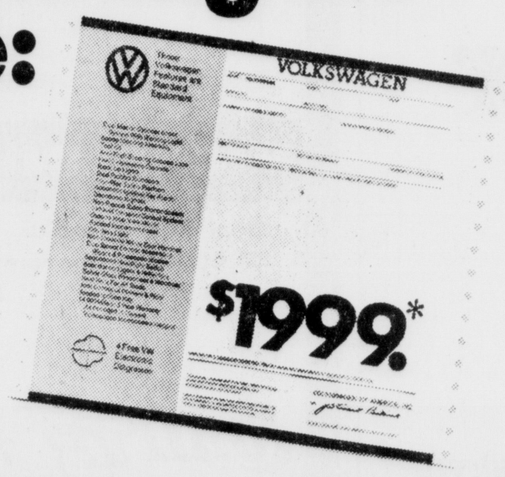
Introducing the 1973 Beetle:

Re-introducing the 1972 price:



With the price of our new Beetle still under $2,000,* the Volkswagen Beetle is a bigger buy than ever before.

More warranty, for instance, than you get with any other small car. Twice more: 24 months or 24,000 miles.

More attention to specific details than ever (and that's quite a lot). More than 1,000 inspectors meticulously scrutinizing more than 5,000 parts. Some two or three times. For us, it's not enough to get it right, we want it perfect.

Volkswagen also has the most advanced automotive service system in the world. A brand new computer is, or soon will be, waiting in our service area. We simply plug it in to your VW, and it checks, via sensors and probes, vital service parts and spells out the results in plain English. That's service.

Maybe all of this explains why VW owners have gotten more resale dollars after three or four years than the owners of any other comparable car.†

Obviously, it's not only the price of the '73 Beetle that reminds you of the good old days. It's also the quality.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

*1973 Volkswagen Sedan III suggested retail price, P.O.E. Local taxes and other dealer charges, if any, additional.

If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear and service items) will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge. See your dealer for details.

Miss Blalock's Putt Wins Lady Errol Golf Tourney

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

APOPKA, Fla. — A 30-foot pressure putt in semi-darkness brought the Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour to a roaring and rich finale for Jane Blalock.

She sank the long birdie putt yesterday on the third hole of a sudden death playoff against veterans Kathy Whitworth and Sandra Palmer to win the $30,000 Lady Errol Golf classic.

Golf

MELBOURNE, Australia — Great Britain's Tony Jacklin yesterday won the $30,000 Dunlop International golf tournament by four strokes at Yarra Yarra Golf Club, returning rounds of 68 and 72 to finish with an 11-under par total of 277.

Football

SAN DIEGO — Coach Harland Svare was signed to a new five-year contract by the San Diego Chargers yesterday following their 34-28 defeat by the Dallas Cowboys. Owner Gene Klein said Svare was putting togehter "a helluva club."

Tennis

PARIS — Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., U.S. Davis Cup hero and 1972 Wimbledon champion, crushed Spaniard Andres Gimeno 6-2, 6-2, 7-5 in 80 minutes today to win the Jean Becker Open tennis tournament championship and the $10,000 first place prize.

GOTEBORG, Sweden — Australian John Newcombe, the former double Wimbledon champion, strengthened his grip of the World Championship of Tennis series yesterday, winning the $50,000 tournament in Goteborg by beating fellow Australian Roy Emerson in the final in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3, 6-1.

STOCKHOLM — Veteran Nicola Pilic of Yugoslavia today beat Terry Addison of Australia 6-7, 6-1, 6-4 and qualified for the second round of the $63,500 Stockholm Open tennis tournament.

Horse Shows

NEW YORK — Frank Chapot of the United States, the last rider in a field of 16 from five nations, won the National Horse Show Cup in international jumping yesterday at the New York National Horse Show.

Pats, Colts To Meet In Battle Of Losers

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts will be looking for company tonight when they take on the New England Patriots in the National Football League's Monday night television game.

Both teams are carrying four-game losing streaks into the contest, but the Colts, 1-6 for the season,, are last in the American Football Conference" East Division and need a win to pull even with the Patriots, 2-5, and the Buffalo Bills, 2-6.

The Colts are coming off a 23-0 loss to the Miami Dolphins, one that stung quarterback Marty Domres like he has never been stung before.

"That's the first time I've ever been shut out," Domres said. "And that goes all the way back to high school and college football and even the Pop Warner League."

While the Colts were favored by a touchdown, Coach John Sandusky has warned his players that they'll have to turn things around completely if they hope to win here.

"We played poorly in all departments last week," Sandusky said. "We didn't come up with the big play. But, we're not going to quit. We're going to work as hard as we can and try to win as many games as we can."

Sandusky, who took over last month when Don McCafferty was fired, said he plans to start Domres again against the Patriots, leaving veteran John Unitas on the bench.

New England Coach John Mazur will stick with Jim Plunkett who is having a disappointing season after a sensational rookie year.

As the teams meet, Mazur, himself, is faced with growing criticism about his handling of the Patriots and there is a general feeling that while he may last the season, his days as head coach here are numbered.

Marin Is Blasted By 60-7

By RON LENT

"We just have to forget this last one. It won't be easy, but we must try."

Indeed. The speaker was College of Marin football coach Dick Read, and he was trying to suppress memories of Saturday's 60-7 thrashing by West Valley College of Campbell in a Camino Norte Conference football game at Kentfield.

Some 200 fans watched quietly after the Vikings broke a scoreless tie in the second quarter with a 21-point explosion. The Tars, 0-4 in the league and 1-7 overall, never recovered as the Vikings, 3-1 and 5-3, padded the advantage thereafter on a wet field.

"We were able to hold them in the first quarter, because they were running. But when they opened up in the second period with the passing, we couldn't keep up with them. That was the story; they were just too quick for us. But I told the kids after the game not to dwell on it, just look ahead," Read continued.

West Valley production was masterminded by quarterback Joe Alvarez, the CNC leader in passing and total offense. The 6-foot, 180-pound signal caller threw four touchdown passes.

Franz scored on passes covering 46 and 43 yards on "fly" patterns, according to Nicholas. A "fly" calls for the receiver to streak straight down field in trying to beat the defensive back on speed, not deception. And it worked, because "we simply did not have men fast enough to cover" players like Franz, Read pointed out.

Wright completed another touchdown pass, this time to Kevin Keller for 22 yards as the Mustangs took a 12-6 halftime lead.

San Marin coach Bob Martin was just as stunned as the fans at the game's outcome. "We won, but I can't believe it," he beamed. "It was a helluva comeback, but Marin Catholic played a fine game."

TEXAS OPEN

Trevino Helps Hill Win

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Mike Hill did not really owe the second victory of his pro golf career to a kind gesture by Lee Trevino. Hill was playing too good to lose, anyway.

But Hill, who captured the $25,000 first prize at the Texas Open Sunday, wanted it known how much he appreciated what Trevino had done for him during the final round.

Hill had a four stroke lead over Trevino to start the final round over the 7,011-yard, par-72 Woodlake Golf Club course, and the two were paired together for the last 16 holes.

The crowd which turned out under murky skies was all for Lee and Lee knew it.

Lee realized that each time he holed a putt, even if Hill still had a putt left to make, the bulk of the gallery would begin rushing to the next hole.

"You go ahead and putt out first each time," Trevino said to Hill.

"That just shows you what a gentleman Lee is," said Hill, 33, who seldom gets the publicity on the course or off the course that his brother Dave does. "That was a super thing he did. He was trying to beat me just as hard as he could, too, and he was doing something to help me."

He finished two shots in front of Trevino, who had a final round of five-under 67, and four shots in front of charging Phil Rodgers, who also had a closing 67.

Trevino won $14,300 and Rodgers took home $8,850.

Tied in fourth place with 278s were Chi Chi Rodriguez, Ben Kern, Bobby Nichols, Brad Anderson and Charleu Coody, who had been only three strokes off the pace to start the day.

The last and only other tournament Hill has won during his five-year career game at the Doral Open in 1970. He was concerned about making the top 60 exemption list until his windfall at the Texas Open, which got back on the PGA tour this year after a season's layoff.

"I played as good today as I've played all week," said Hill, who wrapped up the tournament with three straight birdies beginning at the 12th hole.

At that point Trevino had closed the deficit to two strokes, but Hill, who hit 17 greens, got hot with his putter.

He ran in a 10-footer at the 12th, a 10-footer at the 13th and an eight-footer at the 14th. That boosted him to a five stroke lead over Trevino and not even the whoops and yells from the gallery could help Trevino make up that margin.

"I think the people were very fair," said Hill. "Certainly they applauded Lee more when he hit the ball good, but they were fair to us all."

Trevino, all but assured the No. 2 spot in money winnings behind Jack Nicklaus, said he was getting in a rut by finishing second. It was the third time he had finished second in a Texas tournament, and one of his major remaining goals is to win a tournament in his home state.

"When Mike made those three putts in a row," said Trevino, "I just started making sure I was covering second."

AAU To Meet

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 85th annual national convention of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held in Kansas City, Nov. 26-Dec. 2.

Poll Shows Voters May Reject 1976 Olympics In Denver

DENVER (UPI) —Coloradans, concerned over the cost of the Olympics and possible damage it might cause to the environment, appear ready to reject the 1976 winter games, a poll conducted for the Denver Post revealed Sunday.

Colorado voters will cast their ballots Tuesday on a proposal to cut off all further state tax funds for the Games. Opponents and proponents alike agree passage of the measure would cost Colorado the Games.

Research Services, Inc., an independent opinion research agency, said 54 per cent of the persons contacted in a poll for the Denver Post indicated they favored the proposal.

Spokesmen said 40 per cent of those contacted were against the amendment, while six per cent were still undecided. Support for the anti-Olympics question gained about seven per cent over a poll taken a month earlier.

"Further analysis of the data shows there is still considerable confusion as to the meaning of a yes or no vote on amendment No. 8," the polling agency said.

"Approximately one in every 10 of those planning to vote yes on the proposal believe that such a vote favors the Olympics, while almost twice as many (22 per cent) of those inclined to vote no say they don't favor the Olympics in Colorado.

"In short, the evidence is that increased awareness of the meaning of a yes or no Olympics vote tends to increase opposition to the Winter Games," the agency said.

"Because of this, predicting the outcome of the amendment No. 8 vote is a risky business, but based on the response of this poll, we estimate the measure will pass with a 57 per cent yes vote total."

25 Golfers Earn 'Tour Cards'

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — In a six-day, 108-hole completion here, 25 young golfers have earned the coveted eligibility cards to enter the Professional Golfers' Association $7.5 million tournament tour. The medalist among them is 22-year-old Larry Stubblefield of Kailua, Hawaii.

In the windup of the 10th annual PGA qualifying tournament Saturday, Stubblefield holed a 37-foot putt on the second hole of a playoff with John Adams of Hilmar, Calif. to win the $1,300 first prize.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Earnings Trends Generally Upward

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you give me a rundown on whether corporate earnings were up in the third quarter? I would also appreciate knowing what groups did well and which did poorly. — A.C.

A. With comparable third-quarter earnings now available on upward of 800 companies, some fairly accurate conclusions may be drawn. In this sampling, 1972 results for the July-through-September period were up 19 per cent year to year. The industry groups which turned in above-average operating profits included paper, chemicals, consumer electronics, construction, savings and loans and cosmetics.

Construction companies, which enjoyed a strong earnings increase, may be less buoyant in the final quarter, reflecting the dip in housing starts begun in September. The cyclical rebound reported by the chemicals had been fairly well discounted in the market with the group among the strongest performers in recent weeks.

Relative action, for the most part, has followed the pattern of third quarter operating results, with the strongest action scored by those industries which have been most profitable and vice versa. Although the market has anticipated good earnings for the food producers, beverage and aircraft industries, samples here are too insignificant to indicate any meaningful trend.

If the seven brokerage companies which have reported are any indication, pickings will be slim indeed come bonus time. Earnings were off 22 per cent year to year for this sampling. Truckers, on balance, reported a 2 per cent decline for the 1972 interim. This was not unanimous, however, since the specialized freight forwarders enjoyed good gains.

Improved profits were reported by twenty-four drug manufacturers. The group scored a 14 per cent increase over the third quarter of 1971, thereby failing to do as well as the average of all reporting companies. It did not come as a surprise that the mortgage investment trusts were less bouncy than other groups. Competition is taking its toll in this oversaturated industry.

Utilities, scoring a 15 per cent increment, reflected the somewhat improved regulatory climate, a fact which has brought heavy buying into the group from the institutions.

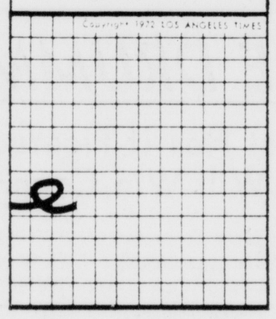
SMART CHART

by Stansbury



"My secretary says it's because our executives are male, chauvinist pigs."

First Quarter

SANTA MONICA (BW) — The Christina Companies Inc. has reported earnings of $251,000 on total revenues of $9,689,000 for the company's first quarter ended Sept. 30.

Mart Closes Irregularly

NEW YORK (UPI) —The market closed irregular in heavy trading today as investors took some profits following four straight gains on the New York Stock Exchange. The stock market will be closed for the election Tuesday.

The overall list showed advances ahead of declines by an 8-to-7 margin.

The market turned lower after scoring an early gain in the morning. Then, following some profit taking, pircesfirmed. As Monty Gordon, of Dreyfus Fund, said, "The market is catching its breath." Analysts noted there were no new developments to move the market.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange closed slightly higher in moderate active trading.

Polaroid came under heavy selling. The Wall Street Journal said a major brokerage house recommended sale of the issue. The story also said Polaroid may take longer than it anticipated to get its new SX70 land camera to a national market.

New Hobby And Craft Store To Open In Corte Madera Center

Hobby Tree Inc., a new store carrying a full line of hobby and craft supplies for all ages, will open in Corte Madera Shopping Center about Nov. 20.

Owners are Milo N. and Karen Illich, who took over a portion of the old Smith's store next to Radio Shack.

"We will feature not only the kits xut the backup supplies, bits and pieces that make hobby crafting fun," said Illich. "We also will have classes in all fields, and idea workshops for youth group leaders."

A partial list of items to be featured at the Hobby Tree:

Scratch supplies, imported kits, supplies for train and plane model builders, fine arts supplies, miniature figures for eggers and drift wooders, books in all fields, puppets and marionettes, magic, looms and weaving supplies, yarns and twines for macrame and knitting, kits, toys and puzzles for the very young, lapidary tools and supplies, gems, clay and pottery supplies, stained glass, copper enameling, leather, and wood carving supplies.

The Hobby Tree will be open seven days a week and on Wednesday and Friday nights.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS and Loan Association of San Rafael will open a branch in Fairfax on Jan. 2, president Harold S. Elberg announced today. He just received approval for the branch office from the Federal Home Loan Bank.

First Federal Savings, which opened its Oakland branch last month, will locate its Fairfax branch at 1 Bolinas Road at the corner of Broadway, in space formerly occupied by a jewelry store.

It will be the only savings and loan office in Fairfax and the closest one to West Marin.

PAUL W. PETERSEN of San Rafael was appointed executive vice president of Allied Properties in San Francisco.

Robinson

Einstein

Elberg

Petersen

Petersen was with Coldwell Banker and Co. for 10 years in San Francisco in the sale and leasing of real estate, project management and consultation.

CARROLL M. ROBINSON Jr. of San Rafael, a Levi Strauss executive in San Francisco, is one of seven men who were elected vice presidents of the apparel company.

Robinson was with Levi's advertising agency from 1962 to 1964 and came to the comvany as general advertising manager in 1965. He was named general manager of Levi Strauss Europe in 1969 and general manager of Levi Strauss International last year.

RICHARD EINSTEIN of San Rafael was appointed vice president and director of merchandising and design for Koret of California, San Francisco. Koret of California is manufacturer of misses' coordinated sportswear.

Einstein, 34, started with Koret as advertising and sales promotion director, became knitwear merchandiser in early 1968, and vice president of the company's knitwear division in August 1971.

As vice president and director of merchandising and design, he will supervise three major divisions of Koret: knitwear, sportswear and Kolortron.

INTERNATIONAL STYLE House beauty salon opened on Nov. 1 at 248 Northgate Shopping Center near the Lin Fa restaurant. Owner is Hanna H. Decker, who was part owner of the Red Swan Salon in Terra Linda for the past four years.

The new beauty shop has three operators and one manicurist. It gives pedicures as well as manicures. The shop is open Monday through Saturday, and Thursday evenings by appointment.

A NEW TURKISH restaurant and delicatessen under construction at Third and B streets in San Rafael (the old Timmer building) will be called La Petite Feenjon.

Dr. Gar C. May, San Rafael optometrist, and his wife Torkan, who bought the building, are installing antique oak tables, tiffany lamps, ferns and live plants for greenery, and a stage for folk music and other live entertainment. "The atmosphere will be similar to Henry Africa's place on Van Ness Avenue," said May.

Sliding glass doors are being installed to open up the Third Street side of the building. Planter boxes will surround the building on both B and Third streets.

Head cook will be Jalladin Takesh of San Francisco, Mrs. May's brother. La Petite Feenjon will have a juice bar, beer and wine on tap, espresso coffee machine, and a full line of delicatessen items.

"We're shooting for a Dec. 1 or Dec. 15 opening," said May. He plans to have the top folksinger from Feenjon restaurant in New York to appear at his San Rafael restaurant for the first few weeks after opening.

Regular Dividend

PORTLAND (BW) — Directors of U.S. Bancorp. have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents per share, payable Jan. 1.

State Propositions: A Quick Review

The long list of state propositions on tomorrow's ballot virtually assures voter confusion. There are 22 of them — and many of the 22 never should have been put there, in our opinion.

We have reviewed the propositions editorially over the past six weeks. The I-J's recommendations on them appear on the opposite side of this page. Let us take a quick rundown here, citing the highlights of what we have said about these propositions:

PROPOSITION 1 — Provides $160 million in state construction funds for community colleges. "Since the squeeze on these local colleges is increasing rather than decreasing, and since they are forced to take high school graduates from throughout the state, it seems fair that statewide financing should assist them." (Sept. 25)

PROPOSITION 2 — Provides $155,900,000 in state bond funds for health science facilities at University of California campuses. "Two years ago last June, a $246.3 million issue for the same purpose was defeated at the polls . . . The presently proposed issue is smaller; the need is no less — in fact, probably greater." (Sept. 25)

PROPOSITION 3 — Authorizes state bonds to finance district and private pollution control facilities. "This is an attempt to get the people of California to put something over on themselves." (Sept. 26)

PROPOSITION 4 — Provides two-year sessions of the legislature. "It would not cut expenses. It would not speed up action. It would do nothing about costly, time-consuming, and public-ignoring practices which have brought the Legislature under fire." (Sept. 27)

PROPOSITION 5 — Permits the Legislature to permit school districts more freedom. "If the Legislature wants a permissive education code, it can make one. No constitutional amendment is necessary." (Oct. 3)

PROPOSITION 6 — Minor constitutional revision and renumbering. Just "a little more of the 'housekeeping job' that has been under way for several years." (Oct. 16)

PROPOSITION 7 — Leaves determination of voter residency requirement to Legislature. Endosed Oct. 16.

PROPOSITION 8 — Tax exemption for anti-pollution facilities. Much the same objections raised to Proposition 3 apply to this, although to lesser degree.

PROPOSITION 9 — Permits passage of school bonds for replacing "structurally unsafe" buildings by simple majority. "It is unnecessary, in view of the measures already taken by the Legislature and voters to speed the replacement of actually unsafe schools." (Oct. 4)

PROPOSITION 11 — Adds words "and privacy" to bill of rights in California Constitution. "The right of privacy already is recognized in our laws. We see no need to add these words to the state constitution." (Oct. 17)

PROPOSITION 12 — Similar to Proposition 10 but applies also to amputees. Endorsed Oct. 5.

PROPOSITION 13 — Changes existing practices in paying workmen's compensation. "The present system seems to be working. Extending an employer's responsibility to someone else's employees, even by this indirect method, does not appear equitable." (Oct. 5)

PROPOSITION 14 — Watson Tax Initiative. "You will simply pay more taxes to the state and maybe a little less to the county — and lose all local control of schools in the bargain." (Oct. 11)

PROPOSITION 15 — Removes control of Legislature and governor over state salaries. " . . . contrary to the principles of democratic government. And . . . twice-a-year pay revisions would make annual budgeting a nightmare." (Oct. 12)

PROPOSITION 16 — Pegs California Highway Patrol salaries at highest paid police anywhere in state. "The highway patrolmen are entitled to better pay . . . But (this) is not the way to do it." (Oct. 12)

PROPOSITION 17 — Restores death penalty. "The California Supreme Court was wrong in usurping the powers of the legislature. . . . But we believe the people would be wrong in writing the death penalty still more specifically into the constitution." (Oct. 18)

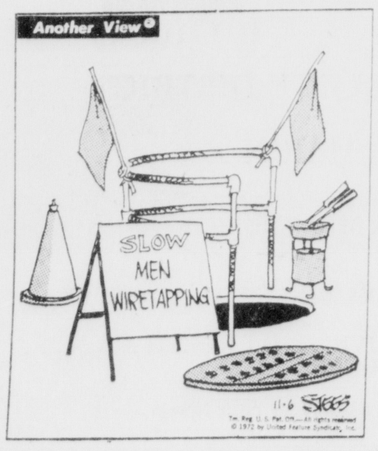
PROPOSITION 18 — Obscenity legislation. "By the time it gets through, it has thrown such a tight-meshed net around what can be printed or displayed that it qualifies as what its opponents call it — censorship." (Oct. 17)

PROPOSITION 19 — Legalizes growing, transportation and use of marijuana. "Proposition 19 is in conflict with federal law . . . There would be no control of any kind." (Oct. 19)

PROPOSITION 20 — Coastal zone conservation. "Why enact this monstrosity as a temporary measure? Why not do the job right in the first place?" (Oct. 23). A coastal control bill that we consider preferable to Proposition 20 already has passed one house of the Legislature.

PROPOSITION 21 — Repeals Bagley Act and specifes that a pupil may not be assigned to a school purely on basis of race. "What Proposition 21 proposes to do is very simple — and is in line with decisions of the United States Supreme Court . . . The Bagley Act appears to have become unnecessary baggage, requiring another set of meaningless reports from school district." (Oct. 16)

PROPOSITION 22 — Agricultural Labor Relations. "We think (farm workers) are entitled to have a say as to what union represents them — if any." (Oct. 24). Under present law, no farm worker has a right to vote on union representation.



THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Those guys who threaten to move to Mexico if their man loses the election don't worry anybody — with the possible exception of the Mexicans.

Deserting one's country to register displeasure with an election outcome is irresponsible citizenship. It's more patriotic to stay home and complain about the government.

Among political promises that are seldom kept, unfortunately, are the ones made by poor losers who promise to scram if they don't get their way at the polls.

If, over the years, all disgruntled voters had made good on their Mexican migration threats we'd have to be holding tomorrow's election in Tijuana.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

'Small Band Of Fanatics' Oppose Fluoridation

If fluoridation is so good, why have many communities, even whole nations, refused it or abandoned it after trial?

The answer is quite simple. A small but determined band of fanatics have worked very hard in those communities. These anti-fluoridationists know all the propaganda tricks — suggestion, half-truths, innuendos and deliberate falsehood.

Practically none have any background in medicine, nutrition, not to mention dentistry. The few dentists in the movement are looked upon as odd ducks by their colleagues.

Why do they oppose fluoridation? What is their motivation? This is very hard to say. Most certainly, they are not supported by scientific fact. . .

Don't let them fool you!. . .

Water District Should Provide Pure Water

Isn't it the privilege and duty of our Marin Municipal Water District to provide as pure water to our citizens as possible, and let them add what they desire? Fluorides are available to those who wish to add them or anything else. Isn't this clearly the American way?

Marijuana 'Proved To Be Non-Damaging'

Marijuana has been proven to be non-damaging to the person. Yet the law damages the user by making him a criminal thus hindering his chances for a good job and perhaps leading him on to other crimes because of his association with those in prison.

Therefore I urge all voters in the name of Justice to vote yes on Proposition 19 which would allow the private use of marijuana without criminal penalty.

'Pure Water' Merely Laboratory Curiosity

What is pure water? Do we have pure water now in Marin?

The answer is that we certainly do not, any more than any other community. Chemically pure water would be a laboratory curiosity produced only at great effort and expense. The Anti's know this very well themselves but they are up to one of their old propaganda tricks. They know very well that our water contains a number of dissolved substances, many of which have been there all the time and a few added by the Water District to improve the quality of the water and insure its safety.

We are lucky to have good tasting and wholesome water, free from the industrial pollutants and even raw sewage many communities have to put up with.

What Are Fluorides? Dentist's Explanation

As a pedondontist, and as a practitioner since 1940 in Marin, I feel impelled to make some remarks on the fluoridation issue. So much has been said to confuse I, therefore, would like to state the issue in a simple fashion.

What are fluorides? They are simply compounds or salts of fluorine, one of the four so-called halogen elements. These are fluorine, chlorine, bromine and iodine. All are poisons, but nearly all are vitally necessary to our physical existence. . .

The value of fluorides to the proper growth and development of the teeth has been established for so long that it is beyond dispute to all specialists in the field. Later, it was found that fluorides are essential to proper bone development and a valuable therapeutic agent in the treatment of certain bone diseases. Only recently has it come to be realized that fluorides play an even more important role in our bodies by triggering enzyme systems that make life possible.

Are there any good reasons for not adding fluorides to our water supply?

Many Not Franchised Under Proposition 22

Your editorial on Proposition 22 mentioned that the proposition would provide for secret-ballot elections, but it failed to disclose the fact that these elections would be unfair because about 85 per cent of the farm workers would be prohibited from voting. One section of the proposition states that "the date of such election shall be set at a time when the number of temporary agricultural employees entitled to vote does not exceed the number of permanent agricultural employees entitled to vote." Most large growers employ only a few permanent workers, but hundreds of temporary workers at harvest time. If there were 20 permanent and 200 seasonal employees, the vote would be withheld from 180 season workers. . .

The proposition also limits the topics open to negotiation by stating that certain "management rights" cannot be the subject of collective bargaining, e.g., the right to determine the methods, equipment and facilities to be used in producing agricultural products. If workers cannot bargain around mechanization and the use of pesticides, their rights are clearly not being supported.

(Eligible to vote on union representation under the terms of Proposition 22 would be "any employee who is employed by a particular agricultural employer and who has been so employed for at least 14 workdays during the preceding 30 calendar days, and has been employed by that employer or any other agricultural employer for at least 100 workdays during the preceding calendar year." There is at present no law in California giving any agricultural worker the right to vote on union representation. — Editor)

One Analyst Has It Figured That GOP Will Win Congress

Will the Republicans Carry Congress? — Possible but the odds are considerably against it.

The Republicans have won Congress only twice in the last 40 years. Even Eisenhower's huge nine million-vote majority could not produce a GOP congressional victory.

Most of the analysts doubt the Republicans can do it this year. There is one prestigious exception. He is Louis H. Bean, who was the lone predictor of Truman's election in 1948 and who bases his forecasts primarily on past voting trends in relation to current polls.

HOW LOUIS BEAN has it figured. He notes that in the last six elections the Democratic percentages in the House and Senate exceeded the Democratic vote for President by about seven points. He cites the fact that while Humphrey got 50 per cent of the two-party vote in 1968 this gave the Democrats a 57 per cent control in Congress.

This leads Mr. Bean to the forecast that if President Nixon gets more than a 7 per cent plurality in the popular vote over Senator McGovern (which the polls indicate), this would bring Republican control of Congress.

IF THE GOP WINS congress — it won't all be roses for the president. He would lose some stalwart Democrats usually on his side and several of the most powerful committee chairmen would be very independent Republicans who have often voted against Mr. Nixon.

Two of the presumptive Republican committee chairmen would be Sen. Margaret Chase Smitp on Armed Services and Sen. Jacob Javits on Labor and Public Welfare. Mrs. Smith voted against the Carswell and Haynesworth nominations, against the SST and against the anti-ballistic missile system (ABM). Javits is far more liberal than the President and than most administration spokesmen in the Senate.

EFFECTS OF THE SOVIET grain crisis are mounting. It was disastrous agricultural policy which brought down Nikita Khrushchev and the new acute shortages are causing Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev acute worry.

This year alone the Kremlin will have to spend more than 1.3 billion in hard currency on purchasing food and feed grains plus freightage in western bottoms. The Russians will likely have to sell gold at disadvantageous prices.

A comparison: 3.5 million American farmers can feed their nation and produce huge surpluses; 40 million Russian farmers don't produce enough to feed the Soviet Union's population.

The Kremlin dilemma: Moscow officials know that government-run agriculture is massively inefficient but they don't dare abandon it because it would be admitting that communism itself is at fault.

BUT SOME COMMUNISTS dare to speak out. Here is the latest example of Soviet satire, a daring thrust at the system itself, which is now passing by word-of-mouth among Russians:

$e6$ HIJACKING U.S. planes declining. From January, 1968, to September of this year there were 144 hijackings or attempted hijackings of American aircraft. Of the 203 persons involved, all but 13 have been identified and prosecuted.

The decline is substantial: 12 hijackings during the first six months of 1972, six since.

The perpetrators of 25 per cent of all hijackings were after money. They demanded a total of $112 million. All but eight of these hijackers are in custody (seven in Algeria, one not identified) and all but $500,000 has been recovered.

They'll Have Tough Time Making Good On That Ad

According to some supporters of supervisorial candidate Michael Peevey, the Fourth District now covers all Marin County.

In a recent newspaper advertisement former Planning Director Paul Zucker, former Supervisor Vera Schultz, and Planning Commissioners Margaret B. Azevedo and William B. Lynch all announced their wholehearted support for Peevey.

"We're voting for Mike Peevey for supervisor" it read above their smiling portraits.

Funny, everyone knows (or should) that the Fourth District doesn't extend into Mill Valley where Mrs. Schultz lives, nor into Tiburon where Mrs. Azevedo lives nor into Novato where Mr. Lynch lives, nor even into Terra Linda where Mr. Zucker lives.

I GUESS IT'S inevitable that the more one watches government, the more cynical one becomds.

Take for example, last week's Marin County Planning Commission meeting and the new master plan drafted by residents of the Strawberry Area near Mill Valley.

The plan, albeit rough and sketchy, was the product of months of work by an ad hoc group of homeowners concerned with the future of their community.

Planning commissioners lauded it as a fine piece of work woven with the threads of community effort and support.

That's what it seemed on the surface anyway — a group of local residents working toward community betterment.

BUT SOME have doubts. The leader of the community planning group is an architect who recently submitted development plans for a high-density townhouse project overlooking Strawberry Cove.

Since both plans arrived at the county planning department at about the same time, questions are popping up whether the architect drafted one with an eye toward the other.

It's unfortunate, especially for those who worked so long on what otherwise is a well-rounded plan.

MELVIN MADDOCKS

There's Nothing Like Election To Bring Out The Discontent

There's nothing like an election to bring out the not-so-latent discontent in people.

First come the promises. American cities will shine like New Jerusalems. Poverty will be abolished. Wars will be stopped — all wars, forever. Or at least until the next administration. If . . . if only you will vote for my candidate, or I will vote for yours.

Then comes the letdown. The rule of political campaigns is inexorably this: Pie-in-the-sky produces mornings-after on earth: a time for the late Abraham Maslow. It was Maslow who divided all discontent into three parts: Low Grumbles, High Grumbles, and Meta-grumbles.

A man can go down in history for less than that.

THE LOW GRUMBLE, to use an illustration Maslow avoided, might come from a man who had no shoes — a true cry of need. The High Grumble might come from a man who owned shoes but discovered a hole in them — we are beginning to get fastidious. The Meta-grumble might come from a man who had new, expensive, comfortable shoes but, golly, he just never could stand the look of wing-tips.

Maslow's law goes like this: Discontent doesn't disappear when the original bill of complaints is met. It simply escalates to a new level. Thus, to invent another example, a poor man complains bitterly about the bedbugs in Hotel Fleabag. But in he gets rich he may scream just as passionately about the room service at the Ritz. Why, he had to wait 15 minutes for his cariar!

Maslow takes up the case of the escalating gripe as it affects industry. A little simplistically, perhaps, he suggests that management make up a checklist, designed to guide employees toward appreciating how well off they are. The Maslow checklist would be composed of guileless leading questions:

Do corrosive chemicals spatter you on your job? Are you ever physically attacked by anybody? How many rats do you see in the course of a day? Do you have to work at dangerous machines, lacking in safety devices?

THIS, AS EVERY parent will recognize, is the old Be-Grateful gambit, and it ought to work. But, as every parent also knows, it depends on whose idea it is to Be Grateful, Dear.

Programmed gratitude generally gets you programmed gratitude right back. The employer who — however subtly — calls to employees' attention that, gee, the running water really runs in the washrooms is likey to get his own checklist shoved under the door, composed of equally guildeless questions like:

Do your employees go back to work after lunch? When was the last time your office files were set on fire? How many bricks were thrown at your limousine as you left the plant last night?

DISCONTENT — Low, High, and Meta — is a terrible thing, a blight on the human heart. Why do people cultivate their dissatisfactions? Why won't they allow themselves to be happier? If one had told a 17th-century American that his multi-great-grandchildren would have dishwashers and public libraries, color TV and free education, automobiles and social security, he would have—rightly or wrongly — thrown his tricorner hat in the air and cried: "See! The experiment worked."

Nothing, alas, is quite so easy to bear an another person's minor problem. Nothing is quite so hard to bear as another person's Metagrumble. At worst, the Metagrumble is a parody of self-centeredness — the overlay of one's private universe on the map of the world. But at best, the Metagrumble is a confirming sign of man's hunger for perfection. The first Low Grumble, who began by waving his club around the cave, insisting that all he wanted was his next meal and a safe night, ends up Metagrumbling that no child anywhere should go to bed hungry and cold.

THE GRUMBLE, finally, is idealism discontented with mortal limits. And neither a new couch in the employees' lounge nor even stopping the war in Vietnam is going to solve that. Perhaps all one can do is to assign a reasonable priority to one's grumbles. A rule of thumb is that public grumbles should come before private grumbles. A decent school for the community should mean more than a new Mediterranean-style bathroom off the master bedroom, as we all know in the case of other people's lives and desperately work to believe in the case of our own.

As for the rest, the only true solution is to admit that what we think we want is not what we really want at all. Which may be the highest praise anyone can offer the human race.

Insurance Costs To Be Studied

The Larkspur School District board will look for ways to reduce insurance costs at its meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in the administration office.

The board asked that the district's insurance program be cut to reduce costs. Supt. Milton S. Cohen said last month that annual costs have risen from $12,000 to $15,800 in three years.

The board also will receive a report from the Marin Municipal Water District on possible changes in water rates.

EXPLAINING CAPITAL PUNISHMENT TO YOUR CHILDREN CAN BE MURDER.

The spectre of the death penalty is with us again. And if Proposition 17 passes, we'll start sending people to the gas chamber again.

(Perhaps you thought the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed the death penalty. But it didn't.)

So when your children ask you what it means to send someone to the gas chamber, and why you condone such action, you'll have to come up with some valid answers.

WHO COMMITS MURDER?

The first thing you'll have to do is explain who commits all the murders. Just telling them that it's "bad" people won't do, you'll have to be explicit.

Perhaps you can impress them with your knowledge of the facts. For example, you can tell them that 80% of all murders are committed by a member of the victim's own family or friends. This is dangerous, of course, unless your children know you as an even-tempered person who never gets up-tight or flies into a rage.

After all, you wouldn't want them to think it could happen in their own home.

DEATH AS A DETERRENT

You could tell them it's because capital punishment is a deterrent to murder, except that it's not true. (You wouldn't lie to your kids, would you?)

Prison wardens, J. Edgar Hoover, and even the author of Proposition 17, Evelle Younger himself, have admitted that capital punishment doesn't deter the act of murder. As a matter of fact a check of police records in cities and towns across the country indicate that violent crimes increase drastically on the day before and after an execution. (Probably on the assumption that if the state can murder, so can I.)

Other official records indicate that in states where capital punishment has been eliminated, the homicide rate has not increased. For example, San Francisco's murder rate dropped 15% in the six months since California abolished the death penalty.

Now, if you can't tell the kids that you're setting an example by executing someone, what can you tell them?

THE ECONOMICS OF EXECUTION

You could tell your children that it's not fair for the taxpayers to have to support a man who's killed someone — that it's a lot cheaper to execute him.

That, unfortunately, isn't true either.

In 1960, the Attorney General of Pennsylvania said that each execution was costing his taxpayers about one million dollars. Today, thanks to inflation, the figure is nearer 1.5 million.

The added cost of maintaining a prisoner on death row ($1,000 per man, per year, more than in the general prison facility), the cost of endless appeal trials, trial transcripts, the governor's time in clemency hearings, and the automatic appeal to the California Supreme Court have made the death penalty a very expensive habit to get into.

Actually, though, most children have a poor grasp of financial matters, so perhaps you should touch only superficially on this subject then move on to more convincing arguments.

THE PUNISHMENT FITS THE CRIME

You might tell them that the death penalty is such a terrible weapon that it is only used as a punishment for crimes of unspeakable violence.

Unfortunately, Proposition 17 is not exactly written with that in mind.

Under Proposition 17, (and this is a point worthy of close study and thought on your part), the California legislature will have the right to assign the death penalty to any crime it chooses.

Even something as ludicrous as stealing chickens.

The mere fact that it could happen is enough to frighten more than little children.

Proposition 17 does more, though. It specifically removes the power of the California Supreme Court to make any interpretation of any capital punishment statute on state constitutional grounds.

So the very body set up by the Constitution to protect you from unjust laws will have absolutely no say in the state's most crucial law.

This may not impress the kids, though, since they have no court of appeal to fall back on anyway.

WILL THEY ACCEPT REVENGE?

You could tell them we execute for revenge, that you're executing this person and punishing him for something he did wrong. You might even find refuge by hiding behind the Bible and quoting "an eye for an eye," etcetera.

Of course, you'll have to admit that you might make an occasional mistake and kill the wrong person. And the danger here is that it might start your child thinking about your attitudes toward him, and whether or not he might be in that position some day. Kids know all about being punished for something they didn't do. Ask one.

THE EASY WAY OUT

Forget for the moment all the pros and cons about capital punishment.

There's an easier way to get around all this, and still be in favor of law and order against murder. Vote no on Proposition 17.

Because if a majority of California voters really want the death penalty, it will be back before the voters. But bringing it back by passing a proposition like 17 is a dangerous move. It exploits a heated issue in order to enact basic changes in our constitution. Changes that would never stand a chance alone.

So let's defeat Proposition 17 and then begin putting our time, effort and dollars behind something that really will be a deterrent to murder. Something that doesn't play games with our constitutional rights.

Lots of people who are for capital punishment are against Proposition 17. Join them.

EVEN IF YOU'RE IN FAVOR OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT YOU SHOULD VOTE NO ON PROPOSITION 17.

MARIN COUNTY ATTORNEYS AGAINST PROPOSITION 17 - Fred A. Hurvich, Chairman - 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo

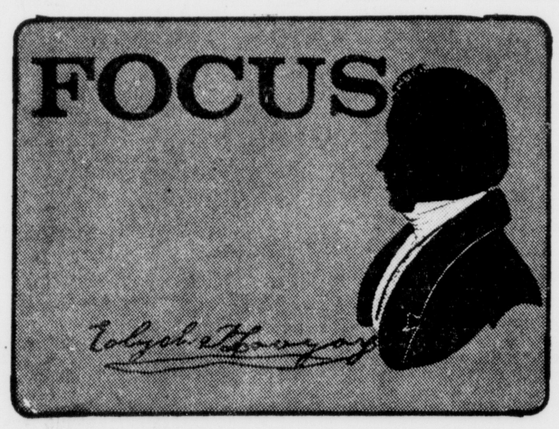
the fascinating new feature in the I-J, daily!



On a chilly November night 135 years ago, the first U.S. martyr for press freedom lost his life in Alton, Ill., while defending his printing press from a mob. Elijah Parish Lovejoy, a Presbyterian minister and editor of the Alton Observer, was an ardent and vocal opponent of slavery. Before the final attack in Alton which cost Lovejoy his life, angry citizens had succeeded in destroying his presses three times. Rev. Lovejoy told his enemies that he might die at his press, but he would not desert it. His brother, Owen, carried on the abolitionist crusade and became a trusted friend of Abraham Lincoln.

DO YOU KNOW — What famous abolitionist newspaper was edited by William Lloyd Garrison?

Expand your knowledge by following this interesting feature, every week-day in the I-J. It develops some aspect of the news in depth, giving you an historically important view or idea that led to its significance in today's world. This feature is part of the I-J's Living Textbook program, used in Marin County schools.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

CAPITAL CITIES figure prominently in the lives of four famous persons born today. Guess who was born in Washington, D.C. and who in Berlin, Germany? Who edited a newspaper in a major European capital? And who lives there today?

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

1. JAMES JONES, combat veteran of World War II and noted author, will celebrate his 51st birthday today. After five years of Army service, he turned his wartime experiences in Hawaii into the best-selling novel, "From Here to Eternity." Jones earned the Purple Heart and Bronze Star medals, after joining up at 18. Now a full-time writer, he lives abroad in the capital city of --?

2. MIKE NICHOLS, award-winning Hollywood director, is 41 today. He teamed with Elaine May to win New York night club fame in the late 1950s, then took an Academy Award in 1967 as film director of "The Graduate." His real name is M.I. Peschowsky and he was born in the capital city of --?

3. HAROLD ROSS, founder and long-time editor of "The New Yorker," would have been 80 today. He was born in Aspen, Colo., and got his start as a reporter on the Salt Lake City Tribune at 14. By the time he was 25, he had worked on seven different newspapers. In World War I, Ross (who lived to age 59) was editor of "The Stars and Stripes," an Army paper which was published and distributed to the troops from the capital city of --?

4. JOHN PHILLIP SOUSA, known in his time as the "The March King," was born Nov. 6, 1854, and spent most of his 78 years composing or directing. He led the U.S. Marine band from 1880 to 1892, then formed one of his own. Among his well known compositions are "Semper Fidelis" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever." Sousa was born in the capital city of ?

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

An Old Chinese Maxim May Help You Play This Hand

According to my Chinese friends, Confucius never said: "Both sides lead same suit, one side crazy!" But if Confucius had been a bridge player he surely would have said it. Now that the record is straight, you may go on with today's hand.

LOW CARDS

West opened the deuce of spades, and dummy won with the nine. Somehow or other, South got the impression that East had the king of spades. In high glee, therefore, declarer led another spade from the dummy.

East discarded the deuce of hearts, and South picked his jaw up from the floor where it had fallen. He then played the ace of spades and tried to recover from his bad play.

NO RECOVERY

There was no recovery. He led to the ace of diamonds and returned a diamond, losing to West's ten. West promptly cashed the king of spades, leaving dummy with only one trump.

South was thus able to ruff only one diamond in dummy, and he eventually lost a second diamond trick. This was one trick more than he could afford.

TRUMP ACTION

It was reasonable for the defenders to lead trumps, but this should have warned South not to do the same thing. At the second trick, he should have taken the ace of diamonds. Another diamond lead would give a trick to West.

It would not be safe for West to lead a second trump. South would surely be able to ruff two diamonds in dummy, and the contract wuld be safe.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - Q 10 9 3
♥ - Q 7 3
♦ - A 6
♣ - A 10 6 3.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club or pass.

This is a borderline decision. Most experts would open rather than pass, largely because of the excellent intermediate cards (two tens and a nine) in the black suits. With biddable four-card suits in both clubs and spades, you open with one club, expecting to bid one spade at your next turn. If you open with one spade, you cannot possibly have a cheap opportunity to show the clubs as well.

Round-The-Clock Information Center

LONDON (AP) — The British Safety Council wants to set up a round-the-clock information center to protect the community against disaster after accidents involving chemical-carrying trucks.

The center, which would provide full information on the dangers of any chemical to the police and fire authorities, would be on the lines of an existing service in Washington which dealt with more than 4,000 inquiries last year.

OH what a cozy cottage all set just for you. 2 lovely bedrooms plus large studio room for painting, hobbies, whatever. Comes complete with range, refrigerator, washer, dryer, curtains and drapes. And if that wasn't enough for only $22,800, it's close to shopping too.

WHAT a home! Main part of this homa contains fireplace, 3 bedrooms and a bath. Plus on another level is a spacious family room and ½ bath. All in great shape. Fine location and priced to sell yesterday at $25,-750.

A desirable home in a quiet location is hard to find but here is a spic and span 4 bedroom home with 2 full baths that has just recently been repainted in and out for $28,000. Warm-feeling used brick fireplace and all the main "the hard part" of the yard completed.

BEAUTIFUL fruit tree shaded yard and lovely garden area. 5 room home has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, and lots of cupboards. See this at only $24,950.

MORNING and evening seem to be the best times to enjoy this Elm Drive home. Quiet view from the dining area and living room. Used brick fireplace, 2 baths and 3 bedrooms complete the picture and sellers will leave the bookshelves, curtains and drapes. Almost forgot to mention the big wooden patio deck. $33,900.

OOH have we got a big spacious home for sale that's in real nice condition. You should see the front and backyards — THEY ARE OUTSTANDING! 2 story, 4 bedroom home with a kitchen that would make women swoon. Complete with fireplace, storage shed and Doughboy type pool. Only $35,500.

WHAAT have we here? 14x28 ft. covered redwood deck, 14x16 ft. cement patio. Fine top soil and landscaped, too. Someone's done a lot of work here and it shows. Like new 3 bedroom home only 2 years old. Give us a call now. $26,750.

AA chance of a LIFETIME buy. You have never seen a home just like this! Approximately 2700 sq. ft. of luxurious living area. 2 fireplaces, 5 bedrooms, family room with wet bar, 3 baths, redwood view deck, lots of storage space, painted in and out. Rustic appearance, prestige area. Panoramic views and if you think for one minute, we are exaggerating, give us a call. Your time will be well spent. $49,500. IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY!!!

BEAAUTIFUL country building site on end of lane contains 4.33 acres. It's a little hard to find without us showing the way, the first time. Just what you've been looking for. $16,950. $6000 cash down. Seller will hold first loan for balance of 8% per annum. Seller will subordinate to construction loan, if you wish to build now.

DAAY has come for the wise investor to look into the purcase of industrial use land. Out-of-town owner says "Sell my three 75x200+ ft. lots, for $11,000 each, plus small assessment of approximately $1600 on each lot. Buy one, two or all three. Streets and all utilities in. Ready for your project.

ISN'T GOOD SERVICE WONDERFUL?

Our service is "late" but nice. Marin commuters have found it very convenient that our service department is now open till 7 pm. Monday thru Friday. In most cases we can give your VW a maintenance or tune-up by 7 pm if you come in by 5 pm. Call our private service line 388-5230 and give us a vote for "late" service.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN ORDINANCE NO. 1932 ORDINANCE ADDING CHAPTER 13.45 TO THE MARIN COUNTY CODE

SECTION 1. Chapter 13.45 is hereby added to the Marin County Code to provide as follows:

13.45.010 Definitions For the purpose of this chapter, public service easements and easements include (1) all rights of way and easements acquired for public use by dedication or otherwise for sewers, pipelines, pole lines,electrical transmission and communication lines, pathways, storm drains, drainage, canal and light and air; (2) all easements except for street and highway purposes, dedicated or purportedly dedicated for public use by a plan or map filed or recorded in the Office of the County Recorder.

13.54.020 Approval of Planning Commission A vacation of easement shall not be ordered within the area for which a master plan is adopted until the proposed vacation is submitted to and acted upon by the County Planning Commission.

13.54.030 Fees The vacation of any easement defined by this chapter shall be ordered upon compliance with the requirements of Article 5, Chapter 2, Division 4, Title 5, of the California Government Code and the paying of an application fee of $100.000 to the Director of the County Department of Public Works, to cover the costs of investigating, publishing notices and posting notices, pursuant to the vacation.

SECTION II. This ordinance shall be hereby declared to be in full force and effect thirty days after its passage and shall be published once before the expiration of fifteen days after its passage with the names of Supervisors voting for and against the same in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation published in the County of Marin.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, held on the 31st day of October, 1972, by the following vote, to wit:

SUMMONS (UNLAWFUL DETAINER)
Case Number 38292

Municipal Court of California, County of Marin
Central Judicial District
Marin County Hall of Justice, Civic Center
San Rafael, California 94903
Plaintiff: C. HAROLD HOBBS and ELPORTAL INVESTMENT CORPORATION vs.
Defendant: BETTY DAVIS
To the Defendant:
A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiff against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the complaint (or a writter or oral pleading, if a Justice Court) within THREE days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the plaintiff and the court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, Nov. 6, the 311th day of 1972 with 55 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

American band leader John Philip Sousa was born Nov. 6, 1854.

On this day in history:

In 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected president of the United States.

In 1869, in the first formal intercollegiate football game, Rutgers beat Princeton, 6-4.

In 1953, U.S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell lodged serious charges against former President Harry Truman in the naming of Harry Dexter White as head of the International Monetary Fund. Brownell said Truman appointed White to the post knowing he was "a Russian spy."

In 1968, Richard Nixon was elected president of the United States, defeating Democrat Hubert Humphrey.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Hint U.S. Cotton Deal With China

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States may be willing to offer three-year credits to China on cotton to help spur a small but growing farm trade between the two countries, an Agriculture Department report hinted today.

The brief, three-paragraph note, tucked inconspicuously into a weekly Agriculture Department magazine reporting on foreign agriculture, made no flat offer of credits.

But it said China appears to be increasing its imports of cotton this year, and it added:

"If the Chinese should demonstrate an interest in American cotton, U.S. exporters may explore the possibility of using the CCC credit or barter programs."

Countywide Master Plan Is Endorsed

The Inverness Improvement Association has endorsed the proposed countywide master plan while objecting to planned expansion of thoroughfares into Fairfax which might eventually be extended into West Marin.

In a meeting Friday, the association supported the plan with exception of the widening of the Miracle Mile and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from San Rafael.

The association said it fears the widening eventually would conoinue into West Marin.

Association president Michael C. Whitt said it was unreasonable to expect a proposed six lanes of traffic to be squeezed into the present two lanes in Fairfax.

The association also endorsed Proposition 20, the coastline initiative on tomorrow's ballot.

So what? They're insured.

You've heard the expression. It's a rationalization as common as a cliche. And as hollow. There is more at issue than property. What the rationalizing phrase glosses over is the sacredness of all things within the community of man. The respect and kindness we owe one another as birthright. When we break this trust we contribute to moral pollution.

It's time to return to traditional American values and stop making criminals of normal people for personal behavior. Merely reducing penalties to a misdemeanor is no solution. That still leaves thousands of Californians faced with arrest records and harsh fines or jail terms without reduction in enforcement costs or decrease in drug abuse.

Proposition 19 is the only alternative to legalization, or to the present system which is plagued by corruption, hypocrisy, destruction of hundreds of thousands of innocent lives, and the waste of human and financial resources.

Help restore respect for the law, the police, and most of all, for the American ideal of the right of all citizens to be free from unwarranted governmental interference in their personal lives. Please vote YES on Proposition 19 to decriminalize marijuana use by those over 18.

STUDENTS GET ELECTION FEVER

Davidson Middle School students crowd around the registration table at the school, to sign up for ballots in today's mock presidential election. Using real election booths borrowed from the county, the pupils and faculty voted as citizens of miniature states holding a total of 31 electoral votes. California congressional races and several of the 22 state propositions also were on the ballot. The balloting ended weeks of campaigning and election preparations by the students, led by Lisa Madsen and Carrie Hoyt, according to Mack Robertson, head of the school's social studies department. Results were to be tallied this afternoon.

Schmitz To Sue TV Networks

OCEANSIDE (UPI) —American Independent Party presidential candidate John Schmitz plans to file a $25.2 million law suit against the three major television networks, he told a rally Sunday.

He said the truth of his campaign is not being reported to the nation.

"People outside Orange County are unaware that 350 of their old line dedicated Republican workers have suddenly switched to our party, and the numbers nationally are growing daily," the lame duck congressman from Orange County said.

He told a crowd of about 350 at about Mission Bowl that neither major party candidate is allowing the dictates ot the public on foreign and domestic issues.

New Rose Queen Is Pasadena Coed

PASADENA (UPI) —Salli Ann Noren, a 20-year-old Pasadena City College coed, was named 1973 Rose Queen today and will reign over the annual Tournament of Roses parade New Year's Day.

Selected as her princesses were Janet Jay Carr, 18, and Gayle Andrea Gorrell, 18, both of Pasadena City College; Jimmie Lou Bates, 19, and Caryn Le Sells, 19, both of Pasadena College; Melanie Lee Irwin, 17, Pasadena High School, and Michele Marine Vessandini, 17, of Sacred Heart Academy.

Man Arrested As Drug Suspect

The man, Anthony Eikenberry, address unknown, was arrested at about 10 a.m. after he was stopped at the corner of Kerner Boulevard and Novato Street.

According to a sheriff's deputy, about 35 red capsules were found in Eikenberry's possession.

He was booked into Marin County Jail where he posted $2,000 bail. He was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday.

TALK IS CHEAP!

WE DON'T NEED ANOTHER VOICE IN CONGRESS . . . WE NEED ACTION.
There's too much talk in Washington now. The people of San Francisco and Marin need a man who gets things done. We need a continuation of experienced leadership, legislative skill and governmental know-how.

WE NEED CONGRESSMAN
BILL MAILLIARD

Bill Mailliard has a proven record of achievement in national government . . . he gets results.
Bill Mailliard's opponent has limited credentials as a part-time local politician... he mostly talks.

WE AGREE THAT ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS.
These leading publications and organizations have endorsed Congressman Bill Mailliard and they urge you to vote for his re-election.
